U.S. TANKS CROSS 38TH PARALLEL

Clay Quits As Wilson's Top Adviser

Costello, 11 Other Crime Probe Witnesses, Cited For Contempt

Two Senators Plan Resolution Extending Life Of Committee Until Next January 15

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—The Senate topped off the sensation-packed hearings of its crime committee today by voting contempt citations against 12 balky witnesses headed by Frank Costello, reputed New York gambling kingpin.

At the same time Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) announced he and Sen. Tobey (R-NH) will introduce a resolution within a week to extend the life of the committee until next January 15.

The committee's authority originally was scheduled to expire tomorrow night but the Senate, acceding to popular demand, voted late yesterday for a month's extension.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) crime committee chairman, asked the Senate to cite Jacob (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, reputed former treasurer for the Chicago Al Capone gang. The Senate voted unanimously for that and then Kefauver sent over the other 11 names, including Costello.

Erickson's Name On List

This list, besides Costello, included Frank Erickson, big-time New York bookmaker who is serving a two-year jail sentence for gambling; Joe Adonis, New York and New Jersey gambler described as a Costello lieutenant; Morris Kleinman, said to have once been the king of Cleveland bootleggers, and Louis Rothkopf, another alleged former Cleveland bootlegger.

Then there was William G. O'Brien, Florida gambler; John Doyle, Gary, Ind., questioned about gambling and slot machines; Ralph J. O'Hara, Chicago race wire figure; George S. Bowers, Florida gambler; John Croft, linked with Kentucky gambling, and Stanley Cohen, identified by the committee as a San Francisco race wire figure.

Conviction of contempt carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each count.

Costello Balked At Telling Worth

Costello was cited for a refusal to tell the committee how much he was worth, financially, and to give other information.

Most of the others declined to give information on the grounds it might tend to incriminate them; or they refused to appear before television cameras set up in the hearings.

The committee has held sessions the past 11 months in various parts of the country. These were climaxed by televised hearings in New York and Washington which were watched by millions of persons and brought a flood of mail to Congress as well as threats of death to committee members. Many letters urged the committee to keep up its work of bringing out evidence of links between the underworld, gamblers and political leaders.

U. S. Navy Nearly Doubles Strength In Mediterranean

ABOARD THE U.S.S. NEWPORT NEWS, flagship U. S. Mediterranean fleet, at Gibraltar, March 30 (AP)—The U. S. Navy nearly doubled today its recent normal strength in the Mediterranean. The head of this powerful task force said its role is to support American occupation forces in Europe and American policy.

Vice-Adm. M. B. Gardner, who became chief of the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean only 11 days ago, declared that "in the present situation (of tension) we are here more for business than for pleasure."

Fleet reinforcements included the heavy carried Salem, 11 destroyers, one submarine and several auxiliary vessels. The giant carrier Coral Sea and two destroyers are expected to reach Gibraltar Sunday after their final search sweep for an American Globemaster plan missing for a week over the North Atlantic with 53 airmen aboard.

Gromyko Raises Atlantic Treaty Issue At Paris

PARIS, March 30 (AP) — Andrei Gromyko attacked the North Atlantic pact in the Big Four deputies meeting tonight and said it should be discussed by the Council of Foreign Ministers.

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister singled out "the creation of American military bases in England, Norway, Iceland and in other countries of Europe and the Near East" under the 12-nation alliance.

Attacks Western Proposal

He introduced also a proposal that the foreign ministers take up provisions of the Italian, Romanian, Bulgarian and Hungarian peace treaties.

In a speech, Gromyko attacked a recent Western proposal for a discussion of reported treaty violations in Communist-ruled Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary and indicated he wanted to emphasize Russian charges that Nazi and Fascist elements were working for the West in Italy and the Balkans.

Could Be Serious Setback

Western officials who attended this 20th session of the United States, British, French and Russian deputies said Gromyko, by raising the Atlantic pact issue, may have "seriously set back" the four-power efforts to draw up an agenda for the foreign ministers. The United States, Britain and France are all members of the pact.

Early in the long meeting, Gromyko asked the Western delegates for their answers to the new proposals on the level of four-power armament and German demilitarization which he introduced Wednesday.

PMA Officials Are Demoted

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Two top Department of Agriculture officials were demoted today by Secretary Brannan in a major shakeup of the Production Marketing Administration.

PMA Administrator Ralph S. Trigg and his deputy, Frank K Wooley, were transferred to lesser posts as special assistants to Brannan.

There have been rumors for a long time the shakeup was pending.

Some farm groups have accused the department of not giving farmers enough help in obtaining machinery, fertilizer and insecticides. Increasing amounts of these are necessary for the defense program. PMA was given the job of obtaining necessary allocations from defense agencies.

Trigg is a holdover appointee from the administration of former Secretary Clinton P. Anderson, a Democrat and now senator from New Mexico.

Little School Made Famous By Mary, Lamb Will Close

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., March 30 (AP)—School will be out forever, come June, in the most famous little red schoolhouse in the country—the one to which Mary's little lamb followed Mary nearly 150 years ago.

An empty half-ruined shell in 1926, the old school building which once stood in the Second School District of the town of Sterling, was moved by Automobile Manufacturer Henry Ford to his Wayside Inn property and there opened to classes.

Today, the trustees of Wayside Inn Corporation announced that the school would be closed at the end of the school year and that its 17 students would thenceforth be absorbed into the public school system in the area.

Mary Elizabeth Sawyer, born in 1806, was a student in the school at Sterling long ago.

"Mary had a little lamb. Its fleece was white as snow. And everywhere that Mary went, the lamb was sure to go; it followed her to school one day, that was against the rule. It made the children laugh and play to see a lamb in school." So according to tradition, wrote John Roulstone, an older student, who was preparing for his Harvard entrance examinations.

Belle Of Italian Red Party Guilty Of Insulting Pope

Laura Diez Receives Suspended Sentence

CHIETI, Italy, March 30 (AP) — Communist Deputy Laura Diaz was convicted tonight of insulting Pope Pius by saying his hands "are dripping with blood." A three-judge court gave her a suspended sentence of eight months in jail.

A Communist Party belle who was once a society girl of Leghorn, Miss Diaz is the first member of Italy's Parliament ever brought to trial on charges of "offenses against the Pope."

She testified she had never said the Pope's hands were bloody, but had said he did nothing to prevent bloodshed in Greece, Spain and Palestine.

Charge Lodged Under Pact

The prosecution charged she insulted the Pope in a speech at Ortona-a-Mare June 13, 1948, two months after Italy's Catholic Christian Democrats trounced the Communist-led Popular Front in a general election.

The charge was lodged under the Lateran Pact of 1929, regulating relations between Italy and the Vatican. Insults against the Pope are punishable by fines and prison terms up to five years, as are insults against the Italian chief of state.

Miss Diaz, 30, is the sister of Leghorn's Communist mayor and is reputed wealthy. She is the daughter of a prosperous attorney. She joined the Communist Party in 1941. The Chamber of Deputies removed her parliamentary immunity for the long delayed trial.

Heavily rouged and dressed in a tailored beige-colored suit, she smiled and appeared at ease.

34 Witnesses Called

Thirty-four witnesses were called before the court for testimony concerning the state's charge that she had said:

"The hands of the Pope are dripping with the blood of the children of Greece and Palestine because he did not move one finger to prevent the wars which ravaged Palestine and Greece, just as some time before he did not move a finger to prevent or limit the World War, and there is no holy water which can clear them."

Miss Diaz declared that quotation was incorrect, but said she had "criticized the political actions of the chief of a foreign state."

Hotel Fire Interrupts Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 30 (AP)—Historic old Carvel Hall, where most visitors to the U. S. Naval Academy stay, caught fire tonight.

Guests were forced to flee in their night clothing, but no injuries were reported.

The blaze started in the kitchen wing of the old hotel, part of which was once the home of one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence—William Paca.

At 12:15 a. m. four fire companies still fought the fire. Smoke poured out in clouds from the east and west wings of the hotel but the fire still was contained to the kitchen wing.

Both houses of the Legislature — holding night sessions to speed up work on bills—recessed to go to the fire.

The old hostelry is the home during legislative sessions of many legislators, newspaper people and lobbyists. A few were able to rescue their belongings but the most of them stood outside and hoped for the best.

Resignation May Help End Labor 'Revolt'

General Denies He Had That In Mind

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, target of labor union criticism, resigned today as a top adviser to Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

His departure may help end the union leaders' "revolt" against the administration's home-front policies, although Clay denied emphatically he had that in mind.

Clay, who is returning to his post as chairman of the Continental Can Company, New York, had been assailed by union representatives who expressed fear that he might favor compulsory labor service. Wilson denied that Clay or any other of his assistants had that in mind.

There was no suggestion that Clay was forced out or that he had broken with Wilson, a close friend. In denying that he stepped out to pave the way for an agreement with the unions, Clay told newsmen:

"Any such thought is a real injustice to Mr. Wilson and myself. That did not enter into it."

Wilson Praises Clay

Labor leaders pulled their representatives out of the federal emergency agencies several weeks ago with a blast at Wilson and the charge that big business was running the mobilization show.

Union spokesmen commenting on Clay's action said it alone was not enough to bring them trooping back to Wilson's setup.

Wilson said today there had long been an understanding that Clay could return to private business when the Office of Defense Mobilization in which he held the rank of special assistant, was well embarked on its gigantic task.

Wilson issued a statement praising Clay for an "outstanding contribution" to the program. He said he would continue to call on Clay for special counsel.

The day brought these other events on the economic mobilization front.

1. Price Controller Michael V. DiSalle said price cuts are coming—"in certain fields where they are warranted." Rationing isn't in the picture, he added.

Farm Prices Decline

2. Average farm prices slipped back one per cent between mid-February and mid-March. They have advanced 26 per cent during the Korean war. The cost of things the farmer buys went up 1.5 per cent in the month to reach a new high, the Agriculture department reported.

Wholesale prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, remained unchanged during the week ended March 27. It was the first time in several weeks that the BLS index failed to show a new high record.

3. A Senate Small Business subcommittee asked the National Production Authority to abandon a proposed five per cent cut in rubber allocations for April. It also asked that beginning April 1 not less than 10,000 tons a month be assigned to companies other than the largest four. Small manufacturers have contended the present system injures them.

Prior to the subcommittee action, reports circulated that NPA was considering increasing its April allotment of natural rubber for civilian use by 5,000 tons. Officials said this would give small manufacturers a lift while synthetic rubber plants are increasing their production.

O'Conor Pleads For Senate Unity On Troop Plans

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) pleaded for unity on the Senate's troops-for-Europe resolutions today, but Republicans renewed their attacks on the measures with warnings about atomic warfare.

The GOP floor leader, Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, told the Senate that if the United States were crippled by atomic attack American divisions in the Western European army would be left without support from home.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) asked in another address whether President Truman has the authority "to give atomic bombs, and to authorize their use, to an internation authority which is beyond the complete control of the United States."

It was the last day of debate on the resolution. On Monday the Senate will vote to decide whether:

1—To endorse the President's intention of sending four more divisions of ground troops into the North Atlantic Treaty force, and

2—To claim for Congress the right to authorize all future commitments of troops across the Atlantic.

Sen O'Conor's call for unity opened today's debate.

"The security of the United States will be served by nothing less than unstinting cooperation between the two branches of government on this important matter," he said.

"Affirmative congressional action will be helpful both at home and abroad. Such action will dissipate any last lingering hope of the Soviet government and of its satellites that we are faltering in our support of Europe."

Elected NCEA Head

Plenty Of April Showers Likely

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Weather Bureau expects plenty of the traditional April showers in most of the country.

It said in a month-long forecast today:

"The 30-day outlook for April calls for temperatures averaging below the seasonal normal over most of the nation between the Rockies and the Appalachians. In the coastal states bordering the Pacific, Atlantic, and Gulf of Mexico, temperatures are expected to average not far from normal.

"Rainfall is expected to be abundant over most of the nation except in extreme southeast and southwest portions where subnormal rainfall is indicated."

Trainmen Accept Arbitration Plan

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen accepted, with reservations, a plan to name an arbitrator for their long dispute with the railroads.

But there remained formidable obstacles in the path of complete settlement of the two-year-argument, which has been punctuated by strikes.

The trainmen's acceptance of arbitration was announced by their President, W. Park Kennedy, at a Senate Labor subcommittee hearing.

Three other operating railroad unions, those of conductors, firemen and engineers, promptly announced they declined to go along with the trainmen. The conductors reserved judgment; the others turned it down flatly.

The trainmen tied strings to their acceptance of management's proposal for arbitration of rules governing working conditions.

Kennedy asked exclusion of one basic point from arbitration. That is the issue of how much money trainmen would be paid for coupling air hoses when they are called upon to do this work. He said this should be a matter for negotiation between the union and individual railroads.

Also, he said the trainmen do not want Dr. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, as the arbitrator.

3-Pronged Probe Of Profitable Oil Tanker Deal Due

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—A three-pronged Senate investigation was in prospect tonight as a result of a profitable oil tanker deal to which the names of a war hero admiral, a former secretary of state and other notables have been linked.

Investigating senators have received testimony that a $100,000 investment resulted in a $2,800,000 profit. The group bought five surplus government ships, chartered them and later sold them.

The Maritime Administration last night named Adm. William F. Halsey, the late former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Julius C. Holmes, high in U. S. diplomatic circles, as members of the group which engineered the transaction.

Associated With Casey

The administration identified them and others as the men associated with former Rep. Joseph E. Casey (D-Mass.) in the transaction. Casey had refused Wednesday to identify his associates to a Senate Banking subcommittee already investigating the transaction.

He had challenged the group's authority to investigate the deal, which he termed "clean and honorable." No charge of impropriety has been made.

Casey on March 12 had told the group the size of the profit but insisted then he could not recall the names of his associates. His own portion of the profit, he said was $250,000—earned on a $20,000 investment.

Johnson Awaits Details

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), who heads the Senate Commerce Committee, tonight awaited further details from the Maritime Administration on the sale of the ships, before announcing what further steps he will take. The administration is the successor to the Maritime Commission.

He told reporters, however, that "it seems quite likely" that his group will start a big scale inquiry into the deal, possibly within a week.

Boost In Corporation Income Tax Backed To Give Teachers Pay Hike

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 30 (AP)—An increase in the income tax on corporations got attention of the Legislature today as a way to give salary increases to teachers.

But even if the taxes are voted, Gov. McKeldin promised a veto.

The Governor, who has consistently opposed any kinds of tax boosts, said:

"No tax boost will come out of this session with my approval."

The Senate Finance Committee voted to approve the tax increase so $3,200,000 a year could be raised and give teachers a flat $200 increase.

The present tax on corporate net income is four per cent. It was estimated that a proposed increase of one per cent would increase the yield from $14,550,000 a year to $18,170,000. If a $200 pay increase were granted, the extra one per cent would about take care of it.

The House Ways and Means Committee overwhelmingly backed a $300 raise. And it suggested the same money provider, an additional charge on corporation income. The full House set aside the committee recommendation temporarily.

The issue of more pay for teachers, debated at length early in the session, has come out front again in the last 24 hours. Whether any final action would be taken before the 1951 session ends was still a question.

With the $163,000,000 budget bill out of the way, the General Assembly turned its mind to other money

Aly Denies Report Rita May Leave Him

Cairo, Egypt, Saturday, March 31 (AP)—Prince Aly Khan, through his secretary, today termed "complete nonsense" a report that his wife, Movie Actress Rita Hayworth, is considering a separation.

The secretary, Ibrahim Nato, said he had been authorized by the Prince to deny the report published in the New York Post. Aly arrived here last night from Beirut, Lebanon, after a tour of Syria where some 100,000 Ismaili Moslems, spiritual followers of his father, the Agha Khan, live.

"The Princess (Rita) left Prince Aly early in March when he was on a hunting tour in East Africa," Nato said. "She went to Cannes to see her children, and from France she is going to the states. I am authorized by Prince Aly Khan to say that the published separation report is complete nonsense."

Armored Unit Punches Over North Of Seoul

Reds Push Within Mile Of Chunchon

TOKYO, Saturday, March 31 (AP) — American tank forces smashed across the 38th parallel into Red North Korea today.

The crossing by U. S. troops north of Seoul came just a week after South Korean forces on the east coast punched over parallel 38 without opposition.

The republic's forces (ROKs) are more than eight miles above the parallel, beyond Yangyang village, and meeting some opposition now.

The Americans crossed where the fighting is heavier and met stiffer resistance from Red forces, who apparently are building up for a spring counteroffensive.

The American crossing was timed at 10:21 Saturday (8:21 p. m., EST, Friday).

The armored column crossed 38 on the main road north of Uijingbu. It was heading toward the Hantan River, and was reported a half mile north of the political border on the initial lunge.

American forces had been forced out of North Korea by the Chinese Reds' breakthrough that started on the Imjin River last New Year's Eve.

About 40 miles east of where U. S. tanks crossed, the Reds threw fresh troops into the central front yesterday. Today the Communists had seized positions a mile short of American-occupied Chunchon, offensive springboard for either side.

This was not the expected Red spring offensive but it may be a forerunner of it. Heavy movement of enemy traffic toward the front continued despite unrelenting Allied aerial assaults. Allied pilots said they destroyed about 100 of 1,800 vehicles sighted Friday night.

Reds Use Hand Grenades

American forces, still driving ahead against stouter resistance, reached within two miles of the 38th parallel at one undisclosed point.

The lunge close to Chunchon was the Reds' strongest push south of 38 since the Communist Chinese and North Koreans began their withdrawal six weeks ago.

Some of the day's sharpest fighting was in the sector west of Changgo, 25 miles northeast of Seoul on a highway running northeast out of Uijongbu.

A small Red force attacked with hand grenades against Americans advancing into hill positions. Another American force, attacking northwest of Changgo, was opposed by heavy rifle and machine-gun fire but pushed ahead.

The Communists from the fresh 26th Chinese Army Corps appeared to be trying to hold high ground in the sector between the Uibongju-Yonchon road and the Unjongbu-Changgo road, two main highway routes leading into Seoul.

There was evidence of a Communist withdrawal across the Imjin River in the Munsan area 21 miles northwest of Seoul. U. S. troops pushed north for substantial gains Friday south and east of the Imjin.

Red casualties in Friday's action were listed as 585 killed or wounded and 36 prisoners.

Red Jet Shot Down

At least 30,000 rested Chinese troops were rushed into central front positions, field reports said. These replaced battle casualties and troops incapacitated by disease.

Once again a massive Red buildup appeared definitely underway. Allied commanders anticipated a spring drive sometime during the first three weeks of April from as many as 270,000 fresh or well-rested Chinese of the Third Field Army.

Red aircraft also were more venturesome Friday. Up to 48 Russian-built MIG jets crossed south of the Manchurian border to attack American jets. One MIG was shot down in flames. Two more were damaged but escaped. No American planes were lost.

Death, Last Mailman, Comes For Little Bobby Hiftline

DETROIT, March 30 (AP)—Death, the last mailman, came today for little Bobby Hiftline.

He knocked for Bobby as the six-year-old cancer sufferer slept in an oxygen tent at Ford Hospital here.

They rode together then, it seemed, down the lonely farm road near Adrian, Mich., where Bobby had watched so long for another mailman.

That mailman had brightened the last days of Bobby's short life by bringing him more than 300,000 letters and packages from well-wishers.

His mother, Mrs. Henry Hiftline, had written to the New York Times newspaper, explaining that her son had only "a few weeks or months to live."

He liked to watch for the mailman, she said, and was thrilled when he stopped. So she asked a "few kind people" to drop Bobby a card.

The story was carried by the Associated Press, and within a day or so, the first of the 300,000 letters began arriving.

They overflowed the Hiftline home, and at last, were carted off in trucks to the basement of the First Baptist Church in Adrian.

A few were still arriving today, as plans were laid for Bobby's funeral, in the same church.

But first, an autopsy will be performed on Bobby's body "in hopes," Mrs. Hiftline said, "that it may help in cancer research."

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, target of labor union criticism, resigned today as a top adviser to Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

His departure may help end the union leaders' "revolt" against the administration's home-front policies, although Clay denied emphatically he had that in mind.

Clay, who is returning to his post as chairman of the Continental Can Company, New York, had been assailed by union representatives who expressed fear that he might favor compulsory labor service. Wilson denied that Clay or any other of his assistants had that in mind.

There was no suggestion that Clay was forced out or that he had broken with Wilson, a close friend. In denying that he stepped out to pave the way for an agreement with the unions, Clay told newsmen:

"Any such thought is a real injustice to Mr. Wilson and myself. That did not enter into it."

Wilson Praises Clay

Labor leaders pulled their representatives out of the federal emergency agencies several weeks ago with a blast at Wilson and the charge that big business was running the mobilization show.

Union spokesmen commenting on Clay's action said it alone was not enough to bring them trooping back to Wilson's setup.

Wilson said today there had long been an understanding that Clay could return to private business when the Office of Defense Mobilization in which he held the rank of special assistant, was well embarked on its gigantic task.

Wilson issued a statement praising Clay for an "outstanding contribution" to the program. He said he would continue to call on Clay for special counsel.

The day brought these other events on the economic mobilization front.

1. Price Controller Michael V. DiSalle said price cuts are coming—"in certain fields where they are warranted." Rationing isn't in the picture, he added.

Farm Prices Decline

2. Average farm prices slipped back one per cent between mid-February and mid-March. They have advanced 26 per cent during the Korean war. The cost of things the farmer buys went up 1.5 per cent in the month to reach a new high, the Agriculture department reported.

Wholesale prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, remained unchanged during the week ended March 27. It was the first time in several weeks that the BLS index failed to show a new high record.

3. A Senate Small Business subcommittee asked the National Production Authority to abandon a proposed five per cent cut in rubber allocations for April. It also asked that beginning April 1 not less than 10,000 tons a month be assigned to companies other than the largest four. Small manufacturers have contended the present system injures them.

Prior to the subcommittee action, reports circulated that NPA was considering increasing its April allotment of natural rubber for civilian use by 5,000 tons. Officials said this would give small manufacturers a lift while synthetic rubber plants are increasing their production.

Mighty Hard On Someone's Car

A tractor-trailer truck which was trying not to hit a stalled auto on Route 3 near Lancaster, Pa., yesterday, swerved off the highway and overturned on a parked auto in the driveway of a diner with the above result. No one was injured.

O'Conor Pleads For Senate Unity On Troop Plans

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) pleaded for unity on the Senate's troops-for-Europe resolutions today, but Republicans renewed their attacks on the measures with warnings about atomic warfare.

The GOP floor leader, Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, told the Senate that if the United States were crippled by atomic attack American divisions in the Western European army would be left without support from home.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) asked in another address whether President Truman has the authority "to give atomic bombs, and to authorize their use, to an internation authority which is beyond the complete control of the United States."

It was the last day of debate on the resolution. On Monday the Senate will vote to decide whether:

1—To endorse the President's intention of sending four more divisions of ground troops into the North Atlantic Treaty force, and

2—To claim for Congress the right to authorize all future commitments of troops across the Atlantic.

Sen O'Conor's call for unity opened today's debate.

"The security of the United States will be served by nothing less than unstinting cooperation between the two branches of government on this important matter," he said.

"Affirmative congressional action will be helpful both at home and abroad. Such action will dissipate any last lingering hope of the Soviet government and of its satellites that we are faltering in our support of Europe."

CLEVELAND, March 30 (AP)—Archbishop Francis P. Keough, 61, of Baltimore was elected president today of the National Catholic Educational Association.

Plenty Of April Showers Likely

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Weather Bureau expects plenty of the traditional April showers in most of the country.

It said in a month-long forecast today:

"The 30-day outlook for April calls for temperatures averaging below the seasonal normal over most of the nation between the Rockies and the Appalachians. In the coastal states bordering the Pacific, Atlantic, and Gulf of Mexico, temperatures are expected to average not far from normal.

"Rainfall is expected to be abundant over most of the nation except in extreme southeast and southwest portions where subnormal rainfall is indicated."

Trainmen Accept Arbitration Plan

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen accepted, with reservations, a plan to name an arbitrator for their long dispute with the railroads.

But there remained formidable obstacles in the path of complete settlement of the two-year-argument, which has been punctuated by strikes.

The trainmen's acceptance of arbitration was announced by their President, W. Park Kennedy, at a Senate Labor subcommittee hearing.

Three other operating railroad unions, those of conductors, firemen and engineers, promptly announced they declined to go along with the trainmen. The conductors reserved judgment; the others turned it down flatly.

The trainmen tied strings to their acceptance of management's proposal for arbitration of rules governing working conditions.

Kennedy asked exclusion of one basic point from arbitration. That is the issue of how much money trainmen would be paid for coupling air hoses when they are called upon to do this work. He said this should be a matter for negotiation between the union and individual railroads.

Also, he said the trainmen do not want Dr. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, as the arbitrator.

3-Pronged Probe Of Profitable Oil Tanker Deal Due

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—A three-pronged Senate investigation was in prospect tonight as a result of a profitable oil tanker deal to which the names of a war hero admiral, a former secretary of state and other notables have been linked.

Investigating senators have received testimony that a $100,000 investment resulted in a $2,800,000 profit. The group bought five surplus government ships, chartered them and later sold them.

The Maritime Administration last night named Adm. William F. Halsey, the late former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Julius C. Holmes, high in U. S. diplomatic circles, as members of the group which engineered the transaction.

Associated With Casey

The administration identified them and others as the men associated with former Rep. Joseph E. Casey (D-Mass.) in the transaction. Casey had refused Wednesday to identify his associates to a Senate Banking subcommittee already investigating the transaction.

He had challenged the group's authority to investigate the deal, which he termed "clean and honorable." No charge of impropriety has been made.

Casey on March 12 had told the group the size of the profit but insisted then he could not recall the names of his associates. His own portion of the profit, he said was $250,000—earned on a $20,000 investment.

Johnson Awaits Details

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), who heads the Senate Commerce Committee, tonight awaited further details from the Maritime Administration on the sale of the ships, before announcing what further steps he will take. The administration is the successor to the Maritime Commission.

He told reporters, however, that "it seems quite likely" that his group will start a big scale inquiry into the deal, possibly within a week.

Armored Unit Punches Over North Of Seoul

Reds Push Within Mile Of Chunchon

TOKYO, Saturday, March 31 (AP) — American tank forces smashed across the 38th parallel into Red North Korea today.

The crossing by U. S. troops north of Seoul came just a week after South Korean forces on the east coast punched over parallel 38 without opposition.

The republic's forces (ROKs) are more than eight miles above the parallel, beyond Yangyang village, and meeting some opposition now.

The Americans crossed where the fighting is heavier and met stiffer resistance from Red forces, who apparently are building up for a spring counteroffensive.

The American crossing was timed at 10:21 Saturday (8:21 p. m., EST, Friday).

The armored column crossed 38 on the main road north of Uijingbu. It was heading toward the Hantan River, and was reported a half mile north of the political border on the initial lunge.

American forces had been forced out of North Korea by the Chinese Reds' breakthrough that started on the Imjin River last New Year's Eve.

About 40 miles east of where U. S. tanks crossed, the Reds threw fresh troops into the central front yesterday. Today the Communists had seized positions a mile short of American-occupied Chunchon, offensive springboard for either side.

This was not the expected Red spring offensive but it may be a forerunner of it. Heavy movement of enemy traffic toward the front continued despite unrelenting Allied aerial assaults. Allied pilots said they destroyed about 100 of 1,800 vehicles sighted Friday night.

Reds Use Hand Grenades

American forces, still driving ahead against stouter resistance, reached within two miles of the 38th parallel at one undisclosed point.

The lunge close to Chunchon was the Reds' strongest push south of 38 since the Communist Chinese and North Koreans began their withdrawal six weeks ago.

Some of the day's sharpest fighting was in the sector west of Changgo, 25 miles northeast of Seoul on a highway running northeast out of Uijongbu.

A small Red force attacked with hand grenades against Americans advancing into hill positions. Another American force, attacking northwest of Changgo, was opposed by heavy rifle and machine-gun fire but pushed ahead.

The Communists from the fresh 26th Chinese Army Corps appeared to be trying to hold high ground in the sector between the Uibongju-Yonchon road and the Unjongbu-Changgo road, two main highway routes leading into Seoul.

There was evidence of a Communist withdrawal across the Imjin River in the Munsan area 21 miles northwest of Seoul. U. S. troops pushed north for substantial gains Friday south and east of the Imjin.

Red casualties in Friday's action were listed as 585 killed or wounded and 36 prisoners.

Red Jet Shot Down

At least 30,000 rested Chinese troops were rushed into central front positions, field reports said. These replaced battle casualties and troops incapacitated by disease.

Once again a massive Red buildup appeared definitely underway. Allied commanders anticipated a spring drive sometime during the first three weeks of April from as many as 270,000 fresh or well-rested Chinese of the Third Field Army.

Red aircraft also were more venturesome Friday. Up to 48 Russian-built MIG jets crossed south of the Manchurian border to attack American jets. One MIG was shot down in flames. Two more were damaged but escaped. No American planes were lost.

Little School Made Famous By Mary, Lamb Will Close

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., March 30 (AP)—School will be out forever, come June, in the most famous little red schoolhouse in the country—the one to which Mary's little lamb followed Mary nearly 150 years ago.

An empty half-ruined shell in 1926, the old school building which once stood in the Second School District of the town of Sterling, was moved by Automobile Manufacturer Henry Ford to his Wayside Inn property and there opened to classes.

Today, the trustees of Wayside Inn Corporation announced that the school would be closed at the end of the school year and that its 17 students would thenceforth be absorbed into the public school system in the area.

Mary Elizabeth Sawyer, born in 1806, was a student in the school at Sterling long ago.

"Mary had a little lamb. Its fleece was white as snow. And everywhere that Mary went, the lamb was sure to go; it followed her to school one day, that was against the rule. It made the children laugh and play to see a lamb in school." So according to tradition, wrote John Roulstone, an older student, who was preparing for his Harvard entrance examinations.

Boost In Corporation Income Tax Backed To Give Teachers Pay Hike

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 30 (AP) —An increase in the income tax on corporations got attention of the Legislature today as a way to give salary increases to teachers.

But even if the taxes are voted, Gov. McKeldin promised a veto.

The Governor, who has consistently opposed any kinds of tax boosts, said:

"No tax boost will come out of this session with my approval."

The Senate Finance Committee voted to approve the tax increase so $3,200,000 a year could be raised and give teachers a flat $200 increase.

The present tax on corporate net income is four per cent. It was estimated that a proposed increase of one per cent would increase the yield from $14,550,000 a year to $18,170,000. If a $200 pay increase were granted, the extra one per cent would about take care of it.

The House Ways and Means Committee overwhelmingly backed a $300 raise. And it suggested the same money provider, an additional charge on corporation income. The full House set aside the committee recommendation temporarily.

The issue of more pay for teachers, debated at length early in the session, has come out front again in the last 24 hours. Whether any final action would be taken before the 1951 session ends was still a question.

With the $163,000,000 budget bill out of the way, the General Assembly turned its mind to other money

Aly Denies Report Rita May Leave Him

Cairo, Egypt, Saturday, March 31 (AP)—Prince Aly Khan, through his secretary, today termed "complete nonsense" a report that his wife, Movie Actress Rita Hayworth, is considering a separation.

The secretary, Ibrahim Nato, said he had been authorized by the Prince to deny the report published in the New York Post. Aly arrived here last night from Beirut, Lebanon, after a tour of Syria where some 100,000 Ismaili Moslems, spiritual followers of his father, the Agha Khan, live.

"The Princess (Rita) left Prince Aly early in March when he was on a hunting tour in East Africa," Nato said. "She went to Cannes to see her children, and from France she is going to the states. I am authorized by Prince Aly Khan to say that the published separation report is complete nonsense."

Death, Last Mailman, Comes For Little Bobby Hiftline

DETROIT, March 30 (AP)—Death, the last mailman, came today for little Bobby Hiftline.

He knocked for Bobby as the six-year-old cancer sufferer slept in an oxygen tent at Ford Hospital here.

They rode together then, it seemed, down the lonely farm road near Adrian, Mich., where Bobby had watched so long for another mailman.

That mailman had brightened the last days of Bobby's short life by bringing him more than 300,000 letters and packages from well-wishers.

His mother, Mrs. Henry Hiftline, had written to the New York Times newspaper, explaining that her son had only "a few weeks or months to live."

He liked to watch for the mailman, she said, and was thrilled when he stopped. So she asked a "few kind people" to drop Bobby a card.

The story was carried by the Associated Press, and within a day or so, the first of the 300,000 letters began arriving.

They overflowed the Hiftline home, and at last, were carted off in trucks to the basement of the First Baptist Church in Adrian.

A few were still arriving today, as plans were laid for Bobby's funeral, in the same church.

But first, an autopsy will be performed on Bobby's body "in hopes," Mrs. Hiftline said, "that it may help in cancer research."

Southern Floods Force Hundreds To Leave Homes

[By The Associated Press]

Rampaging southern rivers, which already have driven 1,200 persons from their homes, posed new threats today to South Alabama and East Mississippi rural areas. Two drowned in Mississippi and an Alabama man was missing.

The rivers crested at some danger points in North and Central Alabama and began a slow decline. But the muddy torrents were on the rise downsteram. Near-record stages were threatened there.

The streams were swollen past bursting by two days of record rains in mid-week.

No Estimate Of Damage

There was no authoritative estimate of the damage so far. But indications were that it would run into the millions of dollars. This includes damage to roads and bridges, homes and stores in the path of the flood waters, and the loss in livestock and early crops along the river sheds.

The danger apparently was past at Northport, little West Alabama town of 3,000 that was largely engulfed when the Warrior River surged upward 42 feet in a 24-hour period.

The river crested there at 66 feet and began a slow fall of one-tenth of a foot an hour.

Childersburg Hard Hit

Northport had been almost paralyzed since back waters flowed into its business section two days ago. About 200 were forced to flee from their homes there.

Another hard-hit town was Childersburg, across the state from Northport. Between 800 and 1,000 persons were evacuated there after the usually mild Coosa surged out of its banks and sent flood waters as much as five feet deep into the city.

The river was up to 29.8 feet and still rising. Simple flood stage is 20 feet.

A battery of National Guardsmen from nearby Sylacauga was on duty at Childersburg. Mayor Earl Rainwater said about 200 homes were partly under water.

Showdown On UAW Dues Issue Assured

CLEVELAND, O., March 30 (AP)—A showdown battle at next week's CIO United Auto Workers convention was assured today when Union President Walter Reuther bluntly announced he would accept no compromise on a hot dues raise issue.

Reuther's proposed one dollar monthly dues boost would provide the UAW a strike fund of up to $15,000,000—biggest in history. It also would earmark ten cents a month per member for a "citizenship" fund—sort of a political action kitty.

Reuther charged that John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union was contributing funds to his opposition in an effort to defeat the dues hike and to "disrupt our union."

Report On Md. Election Probe Due In Mid-April

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Chairman Monroney (D-Okla.) said today it will be mid-April or later before his committee can make a report on the Maryland Senate campaign investigation.

He said the hearings which began Feb. 20 would end next week. Then it will take a week or two to prepare a report.

Former Democratic Sen. Millard Tydings will be heard Tuesday for the second time. It was Tydings' complaint of "smear" tactics by supporters of Sen. Butler (R-Md.) that led to the inquiry.

Butler declined to express an opinion to a reporter today on the conflicting testimony so far taken.

matters. Under the Constitution, no appropriation measures can be considered until the budget is passed.

The House and Senate passed the record-breaking budget last night.

Within a matter of hours there were these developments:

Both House and Senate committees got to work on what to do about teachers' salaries.

The Senate Finance Committee voted out a $90,000,000 bonus bill for veterans of both world wars. It carries a referendum for the voters to decide on a bonus at the November, 1952, election.

The House Ways and Means Committee gave approval to a bond issue of $19,005,000 for various construction work and another for $1,500,000 for Johns Hopkins University. A $2,500,000 bond issue for civil defense was held back.

The House passed the Johns Hopkins bill at its afternoon session and sent it to the Senate.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill for a $5,000,000 bond issue to build a new state office building in or near Annapolis. It passed 21 to 7, with five Baltimore City senators and Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore) and McNabb (D-Hartford) opposed.

REMINGTON'S EX-MOTHER-IN-LAW ARRESTED—Mrs. Elizabeth Moos (right), former mother-in-law of William Remington, convicted perjurer, is handcuffed as she stands with U. S. Deputy Marshal Mae Maher at International Airport, New York, after being arrested yesterday for alleged failure to register as a foreign agent. The slight, gray-haired woman was taken into custody as she flew in from France. She was one of the American backers of the recent "Stockholm Peace Petition," labelled by the government as a Communist-inspired trick.

Ferrer Says Winning Oscar Slap At Those Trying To Smear Him

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Jose Ferrer said today his winning of a Hollywood Oscar for 1950's top film performance by an actor was a direct slap at those trying to smear him as a Red.

Ferrer, who was voted filmdom's most prized award for his acting in "Cyrano De Bergerac," heard of his triumph last night in a small Spanish night club on 52nd Street.

Piped in on the ABC national radio hookup, Ferrer told listeners he considered his victory "an act of faith and a vote of confidence."

As the celebration in the roaring tightly-jammed nightspot wore on into the early morning hours he explained what he meant.

"This is a direct rebuke to the people who tried maliciously to affect the voting by things that are (A) beside the point and (B) untrue," he said.

The actor is under subpoena to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee April 25 in its investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood.

Navy Pilot Wins Medal Of Honor

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Navy's first Medal of Honor in the Korean war will go to a Fall River, Mass., pilot, who crash-landed his plane in enemy territory in an effort to save a fellow airman's life.

Lt. (j. g.) Thomas J. Hudner will receive the nation's highest military honor from President Truman at a White House ceremony on April 13.

The shipmate whom Lt. Hudner risked his life to save was Ensign Jesse Leroy Brown, the first negro naval officer to lose his life in any American war. He was also the first negro naval aviator.

The two pilots from the aircraft carrier Leyte were flying close support over rugged mountains of North Korea last Dec. 2 while the First Marine Division and Seventh Army Division units were fighting their way from the Chosin reservoir.

Brown's plane went down in a rough field about five miles beyond the American positions. The flight leader, Lt. Commander Richard L. Cevoli of East Greenwich, Conn., said he saw that Ensign Brown was alive so he went off to call for a rescue helicopter and left Hudner and another pilot to destroy the crashed plane as soon as Brown got clear.

Lt. Hudner began to circle the area in an attempt to protect the injured pilot against hundreds of Chinese Reds in the vicinity. Seeing Brown's plane catch fire, Hudner crash-landed his own plane and ran to the trapped pilot. He could not open the cockpit canopy, so he packed snow around the fuselage to keep the flames away from Ensign Brown.

Hudner was soon joined by a Marine helicopter pilot. Both were in constant danger from the swarming Chinese. They worked with fire axes and fire extinguishers but were unable to pull Ensign Brown from the burning wreckage before he died.

Defense Rental Ceilings Urged

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — An effective system of rent ceilings on most new defense housing was recommended to the Senate today by its banking committee.

The rental ceilings would apply to all units constructed under a proposed $1,500,000,000 fund to aid defense housing.

Under its new single or two-family houses with two, three or four bedrooms would rent to defense workers or military personnel at not more than $75 to $95 monthly.

New row-houses or walk-up apartments would range from $77 to $99 monthly.

The rent ceilings were spelled out today in a lengthy committee report outlining details of the vast new defense housing bill previously reported.

It is expected to be the next major legislation taken up in the Senate.

C.& O. Canal Lock Parts Not Considered Junk

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 30 (AP)—The U. S. government served notice today that iron parts of 79 locks of the old Chesapeake and Ohio Cananl can't be considered junk.

U. S. Commissioner C. Welles Little dismissed three youths charged with taking parts of lock gates in the southern end of Washington County but warned them they would get jail sentence for any future offense.

Little emphasized that the metal is not considered abandoned scrap.

Samuel H. Hower, U. S. park policeman, testfied that the boys sold the iron for $3.50 but it cost the federal government $1,500 to replace it in the event the old canal is restored.

Pilot Killed As Jet Fighter Explodes

LEESBURG, Va., March 30 (AP)—An F-51 Air Force jet fighter expoded in the air near here late this afternoon and crashed in flames. Its pilot, the sole occupant, was killed.

A Bolling Field spokesman said the single-engine fighter was returning to Godman Air Force Base, Ft. Knox, Ky., and had left Bolling at 4:44 p. m.

The name of the pilot is being withheld pending notification of next of kin.

He's Only 8 Tons Behind In Reading

BOSTON, March 30 (AP) — Edward Stockbridge, 82, is a literary gentleman who's a bit behind in his reading.

That's why he has eight tons of newspapers in his house.

The fire department submitted photographs to the Roxbury District Court today to show that the weight of the newspapers and periodicals on floors in the ten-room brick house was such that walls were separating from ceilings.

Stockbridge assured Judge Frankland W. L. Miles that he has been "working on this literature from daylight to nightfall for literary purposes."

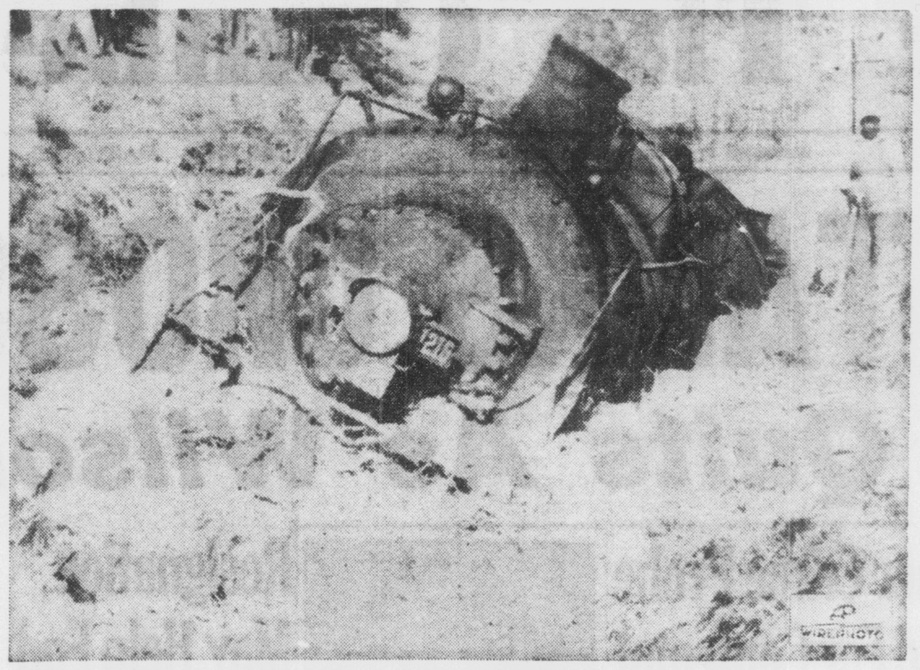
Ban On Civilian Use Of Aluminum Held Up

WASHINGTON, March 30. (AP)—The government has granted a 30-day postponement of the scheduled April 1 ban on using aluminum in more than 200 civilian products, officials said tonight.



TRAIN TRAPPED BY EARTH SLIDE—A landslide trapped this locomotive of an Illinois Central freight train near Ackerman, Miss. The big engine plowed into the mass of earth on the track as the train rounded a curve. A hill prevented the engineer from seeing the dirt until it was too late to stop. The locomotive and four cars were derailed but nobody was hurt. Heavy rain caused the landslide.

Ten Summoned In Primary Probe

BALTIMORE, March 30 (AP)—Ten political figures and defeated candidates were called today to appear before the grand jury in an "immediate, full and complete investigation" of Baltimore's recent primary election.

The probe was ordered by Judge Joseph Sherbow following complaints of "lavish expenditures of money" in the primary campaigns.

Witnesses summoned to appear next Monday and Tuesday included Mrs. Lillian Klecka, Edward A. Freburger and William Greenfeld, all defeated candidates for the City Council, and William J. Muth, city councilman who lost out in a bid for nomination to the council presidency.

Other political leaders called were George J. Mueller, Joseph Obrycki, Patrick F. O'Malley, Patrick Regan, Max Cohen and the Rev. H. Clifton Owens. The Rev. Mr. Owens is the only Republican in the group.

Even if no wrong doing is uncovered, Judge Sherbow believes the jury study may bring improvement of the Corrupt Practices Act.

Ferrer Says Winning Oscar Slap At Those Trying To Smear Him

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Jose Ferrer said today his winning of a Hollywood Oscar for 1950's top film performance by an actor was a direct slap at those trying to smear him as a Red.

Ferrer, who was voted filmdom's most prized award for his acting in "Cyrano De Bergerac," heard of his triumph last night in a small Spanish night club on 52nd Street.

Piped in on the ABC national radio hookup, Ferrer told listeners he considered his victory "an act of faith and a vote of confidence."

As the celebration in the roaring tightly-jammed nightspot wore on into the early morning hours he explained what he meant.

"This is a direct rebuke to the people who tried maliciously to affect the voting by things that are (A) beside the point and (B) untrue," he said.

The actor is under subpoena to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee April 25 in its investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood.

Navy Pilot Wins Medal Of Honor

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Navy's first Medal of Honor in the Korean war will go to a Fall River, Mass., pilot, who crash-landed his plane in enemy territory in an effort to save a fellow airman's life.

Lt. (j. g.) Thomas J. Hudner will receive the nation's highest military honor from President Truman at a White House ceremony on April 13.

The shipmate whom Lt. Hudner risked his life to save was Ensign Jesse Leroy Brown, the first negro naval officer to lose his life in any American war. He was also the first negro naval aviator.

The two pilots from the aircraft carrier Leyte were flying close support over rugged mountains of North Korea last Dec. 2 while the First Marine Division and Seventh Army Division units were fighting their way from the Chosin reservoir.

Brown's plane went down in a rough field about five miles beyond the American positions. The flight leader, Lt. Commander Richard L. Cevoli of East Greenwich, Conn., said he saw that Ensign Brown was alive so he went off to call for a rescue helicopter and left Hudner and another pilot to destroy the crashed plane as soon as Brown got clear.

Lt. Hudner began to circle the area in an attempt to protect the injured pilot against hundreds of Chinese Reds in the vicinity. Seeing Brown's plane catch fire, Hudner crash-landed his own plane and ran to the trapped pilot. He could not open the cockpit canopy, so he packed snow around the fuselage to keep the flames away from Ensign Brown.

Hudner was soon joined by a Marine helicopter pilot. Both were in constant danger from the swarming Chinese. They worked with fire axes and fire extinguishers but were unable to pull Ensign Brown from the burning wreckage before he died.

Defense Rental Ceilings Urged

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — An effective system of rent ceilings on most new defense housing was recommended to the Senate today by its banking committee.

The rental ceilings would apply to all units constructed under a proposed $1,500,000,000 fund to aid defense housing.

Under its new single or two-family houses with two, three or four bedrooms would rent to defense workers or military personnel at not more than $75 to $95 monthly.

New row-houses or walk-up apartments would range from $77 to $99 monthly.

The rent ceilings were spelled out today in a lengthy committee report outlining details of the vast new defense housing bill previously reported.

It is expected to be the next major legislation taken up in the Senate.

C.& O. Canal Lock Parts Not Considered Junk

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 30 (AP)—The U. S. government served notice today that iron parts of 79 locks of the old Chesapeake and Ohio Cananl can't be considered junk.

U. S. Commissioner C. Welles Little dismissed three youths charged with taking parts of lock gates in the southern end of Washington County but warned them they would get jail sentence for any future offense.

Little emphasized that the metal is not considered abandoned scrap.

Samuel H. Hower, U. S. park policeman, testfied that the boys sold the iron for $3.50 but it cost the federal government $1,500 to replace it in the event the old canal is restored.

He's Only 8 Tons Behind In Reading

BOSTON, March 30 (AP) — Edward Stockbridge, 82, is a literary gentleman who's a bit behind in his reading.

That's why he has eight tons of newspapers in his house.

The fire department submitted photographs to the Roxbury District Court today to show that the weight of the newspapers and periodicals on floors in the ten-room brick house was such that walls were separating from ceilings.

Stockbridge assured Judge Frankland W. L. Miles that he has been "working on this literature from daylight to nightfall for literary purposes."

Judge Miles continued the case until April 11 when he plans to make a personal tour of the house.

TRAIN TRAPPED BY EARTH SLIDE—A landslide trapped this locomotive of an Illinois Central freight train near Ackerman, Miss. The big engine plowed into the mass of earth on the track as the train rounded a curve. A hill prevented the engineer from seeing the dirt until it was too late to stop. The locomotive and four cars were derailed but nobody was hurt. Heavy rain caused the landslide.

Ten Summoned In Primary Probe

BALTIMORE, March 30 (AP)—Ten political figures and defeated candidates were called today to appear before the grand jury in an "immediate, full and complete investigation" of Baltimore's recent primary election.

The probe was ordered by Judge Joseph Sherbow following complaints of "lavish expenditures of money" in the primary campaigns.

Witnesses summoned to appear next Monday and Tuesday included Mrs. Lillian Klecka, Edward A. Freburger and William Greenfeld, all defeated candidates for the City Council, and William J. Muth, city councilman who lost out in a bid for nomination to the council presidency.

Other political leaders called were George J. Mueller, Joseph Obrycki, Patrick F. O'Malley, Patrick Regan, Max Cohen and the Rev. H. Clifton Owens. The Rev. Mr. Owens is the only Republican in the group.

Even if no wrong doing is uncovered, Judge Sherbow believes the jury study may bring improvement of the Corrupt Practices Act.

The coal firm listed 25,053 tons of coal mined at the Hampshire Mine and 959 tons at the Phoenix Mine last year. It was at these two operations that the acreage was depleted of coal.

The board approved the action of the Health Department in ordering the property owners to eliminate the sewage nuisance.

Investigations And Careers

The current Congressional investigations into crime, RFC loans, the 1950 Maryland Senatorial selection, and Communist ramifications could well start some of the investigators on the road to high office. Certain outstanding investigations of the past launched eminent political careers. Others didn't.

Harry S. Truman had been viewed as the common or garden variety of Senator in 1942, after seven years of Senate service, when made chairman of the special Senate committee to investigate the domestic defense program. His excellent work in that investigation made him the candidate of Democrats fighting the renomination of Vice President Wallace in 1944.

Crime investigations started the political career of Mr. Truman's opponent for the presidency in 1948. Thomas E. Dewey was a young lawyer in private practice in New York City in 1935 when named prosecutor for a special grand jury looking into corruption. District Attorney Dodge had suggested four other persons for the post, but each declined and recommended Dewey, whereupon Governor Lehman instructed Dodge to appoint Dewey.

Dewey had previously been counsel to the New York Bar Association on the removal of a municipal justice, an assistant U. S. attorney, then U. S. attorney. His success as prosecutor of criminals in 1935-37 led to his election as district attorney in 1937, and in the following year he was nominated for governor. He lost but was elected four years later. In 1944 and 1948 he was the Republican presidential nominee, and a different type of campaign in 1948 could have made him president.

One of Dewey's predecessors as Republican governor of New York and presidential nominee also came into the public eye from investigations. Charles Evans Hughes in 1905 was made counsel to the committee of the New York legislature that disclosed large political contributions by insurance companies. He had previously been counsel in another investigating committee of the legislature.

Hughes declined the nomination for mayor of New York in 1905, was elected governor in 1907 and again in 1909, resigned to go on the U. S. Supreme Court. He was nominated for president in 1916, would probably have been elected except for a campaign oversight in California, later became Secretary of State and Chief Justice.

Then there was Charles S. Whitman. He was district attorney in New York City when a gambler named Rosenthal, about to "sing" on bribes to police officers, was murdered in 1911. Whitman had the paid assassins, also Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, sent to the electric chair for the murder, and was elected governor in 1914. He was mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination in 1916 but Hughes got the nod.

Sen. Thomas J. Walsh of Montana uncovered the oil lease scandals of the Harding Administration but never got much consideration for the Democratic presidential nomination. Chosen for attorney general by President-elect Roosevelt in 1933, he died several days before he was to take office. Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana disclosed corruption in the Justice Department under Harding, ran for vice president in 1924 on the LaFolette third party ticket, in 1946 was defeated in the Democratic primaries for renomination to the Senate. Rep. Martin Dies of Texas received much publicity as chairman of the House committee on Un-American Activities but at the apex of his fame declined to run again for the House.

Corn—How Big A Crop

The Department of Agriculture has been saying right along that there is no cause for apprehension that the rearmament program will cause a food shortage. Now it is changing that tune a little. It has just issued a report to the effect that production of some vital food and livestock feed crops this year may fall considerably short of needs. It indicates special concern over corn.

When the experts come up with their forecasts, bright or gloomy, who is to challenge them? But cursory examination of the figures reveals that the 1951 goal, 3,500,000,000 bushels, is high. Only once in all its history has the nation produced a crop of that size. That was in 1948 when farmers harvested 3,682,000,000 bushels of corn.

Here are some more interesting statistics: The department says that the acreage farmers are now planning to put in corn will produce only 3,050,000,000 bushels at relatively high average yields per acre. However, though it has been aiming at getting 90,000,000 acres planted to corn, the prospective acreage of 85,694,000 is 1,324,000 acres above 1950. And the yield last year was approximately 3,200,000,000 bushels.

It is also true that a 3,050,000,000 crop is quite formidable. There have been only three crops in history that have exceeded that total by as much as 250,000,000 bushels. And in the years 1939-1943 inclusive there was only one that saw a yield of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels.

All this may not add up to a refutation of the department's report. It's reasonable to believe that the demand for meat will stimulate the demand for corn, as predicted, and cause a relative shortage. But the expected results should be blamed on the supply. If it reaches expectations, it will be large.

Britons To Migrate?

Danger of a large-scale economic war is the motive of a proposal for evacuating 20,000,000 Britons from Great Britain to commonwealth countries.

This proposal has been made in all seriousness to Prime Minister Attlee by the Migration Council, composed of influential Britons including members of Parliament. Such a wide migration would involve 40 per cent of the estimated British population of 50,519,000. At present some 1,700 to 1,800 persons weekly are going to Australia with government encouragement.

The justification for this gigantic new plan is threefold: first, to save possibly millions of Britons in a third world war; second, to ease the strain on a country "demonstrably overpopulated" with industry over-centralized; third, to aid the European-settled dominions, lacking in population and with undeveloped resources. That means Canada, Australia and New Zealand principally.

It is asserted a poll has revealed that 35 per cent of the population of Britain would be willing to move abroad under advantageous circumstances.

It was disclosed recently that the Army has more veterinarians than it has horses. Veterans know from memorable experience that it also has more canned meat than men.

How To Keep Well

The Meaning Of Coughs

AIR PASSAGEWAYS of the lungs (bronchi) are cleared through the coughing reflex. This occurs whenever the nerve endings in the membranes of the bronchial tubes are irritated thru dust, gases, inflammation, mucus, and allergy. Even excessive dryness may bring it on and we wonder sometimes why everyone living in a steam-heated apartment is not bothered along this line.

Most coughs are caused by colds, however. As a medical student I found this out thru and embarrassing experience. We were examining patients in the clinic and the professor asked me what was wrong with the middle-aged man who was being examined. My patient had been coughing for a week and felt miserable. As a neophyte, I thought of the various possibilities and stated that he might have tuberculosis, cancer of the lung, abcess, or even unresolved pneumonia. Several other students were called into the room and I was asked to repeat the discussion. Finally, when there was no more to be said, the professor stated, "Maybe your patient has an ordinary cold." Why the most common cause of cough didn't occur to me nas always haunted me. Needless to say, I never forgot the incident.

Such thinking is not unusual among the inexperienced. Many individuals suspect the worst when they become ill. The opposite also is true inasmuch as we encounter patients who are convinced they have a cold even tho the cough has lasted two months. Ordinary bronchitis does not last this long, hence X-ray is in order. This procedure is the only way to determine whether serious possibilities such as tuberculosis or cancer exist. If not, the knowledge is worth the cost because of the peace of mind it brings. On the other hand, should disease be present, treatment can be started at once.

Simple origins of cough include too much smoking or the inhalation of irritating fumes. Allergy is another source of trouble. One of my colleagues recently was consulted by the parents of a youngster who had been coughing for several months. All the X-rays were negative and the family was about to take the child down south as a palliative measure. The physician then recommended placing a steam inhalator in her bedroom. A large machine of this type was purchased and the first night it was used the youngster's cough stopped. Because the room had not been dry, and the cough could not be blamed on this factor, the girl probably was allergic to dust; the steam forced the particles to settle and eliminated this source of irritation. Tests now are being conducted to substantiate this theory.

Allergy must be kept in mind whenever bronchitis persists. Dust may be the most common but is not the only offender. Molds are suspects particularly when the individual lives in an old house. Foods must be considered and, in the warmer seasons, pollens are likely culprits. Chronic lung infections and heart disease are responsible occasionally. The latter produces a dry, hacking that is more likely to occur when lying flat in bed or after exertion. With appropriate treatment, the heart regains its strength and cough disappears.

TOMORROW: Impaired circulation to the feet.

CONTACT LENSES

R. C. writes: Can contact lenses be worn in myopia?

REPLY

Yes; this is one of the conditions in which they have been employed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on contact lenses.

SKIN DEFECT

G. R. Writes: Is there any cure for keratosis pilaris? My husband has not responded to various treatments including X-ray.

REPLY

This skin condition is difficult to treat but it responds occasionally to drugs that soften the skin or to X-ray therapy. But results rarely are permanent and in this respect cure is difficult to obtain. The lesions are somewhat similar to those caused by a vitamin A deficiency. Both resemble gooseflesh but in keratosis pilaris the stippled appearance is caused by plugging of the hair follicles thru hardened secretions.

CRAMPING WHILE SKATING

N. B. writes: My arches cramp when I go ice skating. Pain is so bad I have to take off the skates and rub my feet. What causes this?

REPLY

If your skates, shoes, and hose are large enough, cramping may be caused by poor circulation or the unusual strain associated with holding the ankles rigid.

IRRIGATIONS

J. C. writes: Will colon irrigations help arthritis?

REPLY

No. Now and then backache stems from constipation but there are easier ways of promoting elimination than by colon irrigations.

Laxity Of U. S. Attorneys Makes Senate Crime Probe Continuation Desirable; In Three Cases U. S. Attorneys Refused To Prosecute Guilty Persons

WASHINGTON—There are more reasons than meet the eye why the Kefauver crime probe should be indefinitely continued. One of them is the general lethargy of U. S. attorneys.

This lethargy is partly due to the system under which U. S. attorneys are appointed—a system which has developed without the blessing of the Constitution and which the average layman does not realize exists.

Today no U. S. district attorney in any of the 48 states is appointed without the personal blessing of the leading Democratic senator or Democratic political boss from that state. As a result the district attorney's office has become a matter of patronage—a part of the political machine which helps pave the way for re-election.

Naturally the senator who appoints, later influences. And the man who influences a district attorney with his power of prosecution or forgiveness, the power of jail or freedom, in some cases the power of life or death, is a powerful person himself.

That is why senators fight for the self-acquired right to name U. S. district attorneys. They are not given this right under the Constitution, but they are given the right to confirm district attorneys; and they have used the power of confirmation in such a way as to hamstring the Justice Department if it appoints a district attorney or a judge not acceptable to the interested senator.

Roosevelt had the courage to tangle with the Senate and appoint district attorneys on the basis of ability not politics. But not Truman. Truman has had courage in regard to some judges and has bucked the Senate on the appointment of a few judges—as in Iowa with Carroll Switzer; and as in Georgia with Neil Andrews — both opposed by Senators Gillette and Russell of these respective states.

In regard to district attorneys, however, Truman started setting the pattern the same week he became president by bouncing the U. S. attorney in Kansas City who had jailed Boss Pendergast, Maurice Milligan—an attorney whom he, as senator, had vigorously opposed, even held up his confirmation. And having blocked the confirmation of Milligan in Kansas City, he has since permitted senators virtually to name the U. S. attorneys in their states.

This means that local law enforcement as far as federal law is concerned is left largely up to the local political machine set up by the Democratic senators, governors or political bosses of each state. That is why many senators opposed creation of the Kefauver Crime Committee in the first place. That is also why Kefauver's resolution was held up in the Seante for four months last winter and did not pass until after I personally urged Sen. Scott Lucas, then majority leader of the Senate, that it would put him in a bad light if he did not give it the green light.

Lucas, I understand, has since regretted that decision and attributes his defeat to untimely and unfair disclosures of the Kefauver committee in Chicago. Personally, I was sorry about Lucas' defeat because I regarded him as an able and conscientious senator. However, both in war and in politics, casualties are inevitable in attaining major objectives.

There are many fine U. S. attorneys who do bang-up jobs. Many, however, take their cues from political leaders, also many become lethargic, forget that it is their job to crusade against crime. Here are a few examples:

In Maryland, last year, alert Treasury agents had caught Earl Sheriff, former sheriff of Prince Georges County, right under the shadow of the Capitol, taking protection money from the local gambling fraternity. The Treasury asked for income-tax prosecution, the Justice Department concurred and the case was sent to U. S. Attorney Bernard Flynn in Baltimore.

However, Flynn did not prosecute. He informed Washington that the case lacked sufficient evidence. In this instance, there was no indication that Flynn was taking a cue from either of the Maryland senators, though the local gamblers have been tied up with part of the local Maryland machine. But for reasons best known to himself Flynn sent the case back to the Justice Department.

Later this column published the facts regarding Earl Sheriff, following which he confessed to taking protection money. He pled guilty and no trial was necessary.

A similar case occurred in Alabama, where Sam Ripps and Joe Mitchell had made a small fortune selling jewelry to Army PX's but ducked paying income taxes on it. Hard - working Treasury agents caught them, recommended prosecution, and the Justice Department, concurring, sent the case on to John Hill, the U. S. attorney in Birmingham, Ala.

However, Ripps and Mitchell hired Ben Leader, former law partner of the U. S. attorney, and U. S. Attorney Hill eventually sent the case back to Washington marked "no prosecution." There it sat until this writer dug out the full facts and published them.

Whereupon the Justice Department reopened the case, went over the head of the U. S. Attorney in Birmingham to the U. S. attorney in Mobile. Ripps and Mitchell then went to jail.

Right Under D. A.'s Nose

Another case occurred closer to home — right under the Justice Department's nose. It involved an important member of the Washington police force, Lt. Joseph Shimon, who was attached to the staff of the U. S. attorney for the District of Columbia, Morris Fay.

Why Stop Inflation?

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE PRESENT debate in Congress on sending troops to Europe is a part of the current stage of our post-war relations with Communist Russia.

The first stage, during 1945 and much of 1946, was a period of belief on our part that Russia wanted peace, that she would cooperate with the United States for permanent peace, that the United Nations would be successful, that there would be "One World." It was because of these beliefs that we demobilize our armed forces, in large part disarmed.

The second stage began with recognition by us that Russia did not want peace in the world, that she wanted continuation of post-war prostration and chaos, because that condition would make war-weary and war-poor nations susceptible to communism; that because of Russia the United Nations could not function successfully, that there would be no "One World."

No "One World"

The third stage carried our relations with Communist Russia further. We recognized that she wanted world domination. We knew that we would resist and we told the other non-Communist nations that we would give them help to resist. We knew definitely now that there would be two worlds, the Communist one led by Russia, a non-Communist one led by us.

The fourth stage came with the Communist invasion of South Korea. This was, on the part of Russian communism, an act of aggression by force, even though the force was exercised by a puppet.

The Communist aggression in Korea brought two landmarks. We knew that a third world war was now a real potentiality. And we knew that we must arm, we began the vast program of military strength in which we are now engaged.

Upon recognition that a third world war was a real possibility, military strategists and men of thought put their minds on analysis of the prospect. An especially thoughtful analysis made last August by Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, put strong emphasis on a premise. Russia's purpose is inexorable, the "ruthless rulers in the Kremlin have world domination as their grim fixed objective." This premise is one to keep in mind.

Mr. Stassen also put emphasis on one of the methods Russia would be likely to follow. She would try to achieve her conquest not so much by use of her own armed forces as by use of puppets, as in Korea. She will, Mr. Stassen says, seek to achieve conquest by "continuous embroiling of . . . the United States in minor wars at distant difficult points to tire and weaken us and bleed us white."

All analyses and estimates of Russia's blueprint, as respects conquest of the United States directly and specifically, must give great weight to reliance by her upon economic debacle here. Expectation of economic debacle in the United States has been a premise of Communist thought held by Stalin and by Lenin before him. Communist ideology holds that capitalist countries and capitalism as an economic system will break down through forces within themselves. Light on this point is to be found in revelations about Stalin and the Politburo contained in "Behind Closed Doors" by Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias. An "economic estimate" prepared for Stalin in 1949 led him to base "his plans on an inevitability of an American depression in 1954 . . ."

In all this is warning for our people. The economic debacle which the Kremlin relies upon could result from our present inflation if it should go on to a violent and extreme stage. Prevention of that is as important as military success in Korea.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"If there is another war," says General Bob Eichelberger, "I recommended that the military, the correspondents, and everyone else concerned, drop the phrase 'mopping up' from their vocabularies. It is not a good enough phrase to die for."

Eichelberger's book, "Our Jungle Road to Tokyo," written in collaboration with Milton Mackaye, is not only a thrill-packed story, but particularly timely today. Here is one of the General's grimmer observations: "I think, insofar as Army officers are concerned, that the concept of graceful losing can be overdone; in combat warfare there may be no game next week."

A young secretary who never had attended a symphony concert in her life was given a complimentary ticket for the Philadelphia Orchstra by a salesman seeking a friend at court. She was so anxious to look her best that the concert had gotten under way by the time she arrived. "What are they playing?" she asked an usher. "Beethoven's Eighth Symphony," was the reply. "Oh, dear," sighed the secretary, "am I as late as that?"

Lawlessness And The Law

THE Kefauver investigation is important and should be continued so that the character of dual government can be exposed. But the question must arise as to what can be done about this sordid business.

The public is no more against a bet than it was against a drink during prohibition and while we might establish laws against betting or to make betting more difficult, we must watch out that we do not move into another prohibition situation during which the marriage between lawlessness and government was consummated.

Certain problems need to be considered not only from the standpoint of our disgust with the mean-faced gangsters whom we saw on television, but also from the broader position of maintaining our free institutions and constitutional government.

For instance, I do not think that the telephone company should be a law enforcement agency any more than a Woolworth store should be a law enforcement agency. If Erickson or Costello or any of their kind apply for telephones, the telephone company should never have the right to reject their application on grounds of moral trepitude. That is a function of the law, not of a private business.

What ever crimes these men commit are their crimes, and for them they should be prosecuted in the courts of law, in an open trial, in accordance with the Constitution. The men are guilty, not the mechanical devices they use.

It will in no manner lessen gambling nor the power of gamblers to restrict their use of the telephone or the mails. They will find means to convey their data, just as the Communists in this country got their instructions by reading certain dispatches in newspapers, the senders and recipients of which were innocent. The astute criminal and conspiratorial mind can devise means for meeting difficult situations.

This problem is one of law enforcement. In federal cases, that is, in those involving activities in interstate commerce, the Department of Justice is responsible for law enforcement. I am not as worried about dope peddling or the importation of heroin, marijuana and similar drugs that weaken our population. The gangsters that engage in such businesses should be prosecuted.

The fact that they may use telephones or the mails in their business should not be considered any more than that they use chairs and tables. What we need to do is to punish these men and to punish them with the full force of the law.

On the local level, it is the people who are really at fault. As long as only 50 per cent of the Americans entitled to elect officials vote on election day, the voice of the people is not making itself heard in this country. When local law enforcement officers and even judges are known by their neighbors to be unfit men and yet are elected year after year, respect for the law will not be very high.

We face, therefore, a problem in fundamentals. The real criminals are the local officials. The real culprits are the people who vote for crooks, knowing them to be crooks, or who do not vote at all and thereby sell their own governments to the combination of gangsters and public officials.

Until the people of this country recognize their own responsibility, no new legislation will have any value. Actually, there are plenty of good laws on the statute books which are not enforced. When Abner (Longie) Zwillman risked citation for contempt, when asked to list those politicians to whom he had contributed, he put the whole position clearly. He admitted thereby that it would incriminate him and the politicians if the people saw the pattern of association between those engaged or who had been engaged in underworld activities and public officials.

Lawlessness is our abiding sin as a people, and our greatest danger is that government will collapse altogether if it has not already done so in many areas of American life. Turning the FBI into a national police force will not solve this problem, for the worst of it remains on the local level where gangsters and officials are partners in the perpetuation of lawlessness.

When we, each one of us, recognize this and act upon it, this camarilla of crooks, whether inside or outside the Mafia, will cease to subvert this country. Passing new legislation of doubtful constitutionality will not solve our problems; it will only add more pages to our law books.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Way over there in Peiping where they listen to the hourly broadcasts of news from the United States, the Chinese Communists must be having many a chuckle as they learn how scared the UN and various American spokesmen seem to be about crossing the 38th Parallel. It certainly doesn't persuade the Red Chinese that they should quit. Rather it encourages them to keep on harassing our troops.

Just about the time that the forces of General MacArthur have inflicted considerable punishment on the Chinese divisions and the way is opened for a "cease fire" or further military movements to carry out the mission of the UN to liberate all of Korea, press dispatches from Washington say that the UN commander doesn't have this or that authority and the impression is given that the UN commander has been reprimanded, if not discredited.

Marshall Follows Truman

President Truman began the present chapter of comment with the statement that General MacArthur didn't need any additional instructions about the 38th Parallel. No sooner had he said those words than he was pounced upon abroad as having said something indiscreet. It seems that whenever anybody talks publicly about fighting the Red Chinese and the Russian-inspired North Koreans and punishing them for their aggression and their atrocities in Korea, the conversation must be suppressed as indiscreet.

The next episode came when Secretary of Defense Marshall tried to explain to the press that MacArthur had orders to protect the security of his command and he could go anywhere he pleased to protect it. Anything like a general advance, however, up to the Yalu River would require further consultation by the UN governments with troops in Korea. The Secretary did not say that such an advance would or would not be ordered. Obviously, any broad advance would require reinforcements and large-scale activity and perhaps the bombing of bases in Manchuria. It was this contingency which Secretary Marshall properly spoke of as one that would need further consideration on a political rather than a military level. When he uses the word "political," he doesn't mean "political" in the ordinary sense but high-level "policy" about which the civilian heads of government would consult.

Confirmation of the Marshall view has since come from President Truman, who told his press conference that General MacArthur has the power to go across the 38th Parallel as he sees necessary but said that this does not necessarily mean authority to go all the way to the Manchurian border on the Yalu River.

The foregoing is plain enough, but it is the very discussion of military plans which must make the Red Chinese feel that they have nothing to fear by continuing to kill American troops and their UN allies in Korea. Nothing more serious will happen to the enemy evidently than a patrol type of counter attack within a limited area.

Mrs. Roosevelt's View

On top of these impressions of weakness and hesitation among the UN countries comes the amazing declaration by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, a member of the American delegation to the UN, that UN troops "should not ever have crossed the 38th Parallel, and we should not cross it now."

Mrs. Roosevelt thinks that the UN should stabilize their defense line at the 38th Parallel and demand negotiations with Red China. The Peiping radio has just rejected our latest peace overtures, as it has repeatedly rejected past approaches. Mrs. Roosevelt thinks the UN should answer those rejections now by moving our forces back into South Korea and that the UN should then start a rehabilitation program designed to demonstrate the UN intentions toward North Korea. One might infer that these intentions had never before been demonstrated and that perhaps, as the Red Chinese allege, the UN itself has been guilty of aggression. One wonders what assurances anyboy can give that South Korea will not be attacked again.

Above all the confusion stands Mr. Truman's statement, repeated on Thursday of this week, that our goal is the establishment of a free Korea with a free government. Clearly this cannot be accomplished by recognizing any Communist authority in the north of Korea or any such boundary as the 38th Parallel again.

Investigations And Careers

The current Congressional investigations into crime, RFC loans, the 1950 Maryland Senatorial selection, and Communist ramifications could well start some of the investigators on the road to high office. Certain outstanding investigations of the past launched eminent political careers. Others didn't.

Harry S. Truman had been viewed as the common or garden variety of Senator in 1942, after seven years of Senate service, when made chairman of the special Senate committee to investigate the domestic defense program. His excellent work in that investigation made him the candidate of Democrats fighting the renomination of Vice President Wallace in 1944.

Crime investigations started the political career of Mr. Truman's opponent for the presidency in 1948. Thomas E. Dewey was a young lawyer in private practice in New York City in 1935 when named prosecutor for a special grand jury looking into corruption. District Attorney Dodge had suggested four other persons for the post, but each declined and recommended Dewey, whereupon Governor Lehman instructed Dodge to appoint Dewey.

Dewey had previously been counsel to the New York Bar Association on the removal of a municipal justice, an assistant U. S. attorney, then U. S. attorney. His success as prosecutor of criminals in 1935-37 led to his election as district attorney in 1937, and in the following year he was nominated for governor. He lost but was elected four years later. In 1944 and 1948 he was the Republican presidential nominee, and a different type of campaign in 1948 could have made him president.

One of Dewey's predecessors as Republican governor of New York and presidential nominee also came into the public eye from investigations. Charles Evans Hughes in 1905 was made counsel to the committee of the New York legislature that disclosed large political contributions by insurance companies. He had previously been counsel in another investigating committee of the legislature.

Hughes declined the nomination for mayor of New York in 1905, was elected governor in 1907 and again in 1909, resigned to go on the U. S. Supreme Court. He was nominated for president in 1916, would probably have been elected except for a campaign oversight in California, later became Secretary of State and Chief Justice.

Then there was Charles S. Whitman. He was district attorney in New York City when a gambler named Rosenthal, about to "sing" on bribes to police officers, was murdered in 1911. Whitman had the paid assassins, also Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, sent to the electric chair for the murder, and was elected governor in 1914. He was mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination in 1916 but Hughes got the nod.

Sen. Thomas J. Walsh of Montana uncovered the oil lease scandals of the Harding Administration but never got much consideration for the Democratic presidential nomination. Chosen for attorney general by President-elect Roosevelt in 1933, he died several days before he was to take office. Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana disclosed corruption in the Justice Department under Harding, ran for vice president in 1924 on the LaFolette third party ticket, in 1946 was defeated in the Democratic primaries for renomination to the Senate. Rep. Martin Dies of Texas received much publicity as chairman of the House committee on Un-American Activities but at the apex of his fame declined to run again for the House.

Corn—How Big A Crop

The Department of Agriculture has been saying right along that there is no cause for apprehension that the rearmament program will cause a food shortage. Now it is changing that tune a little. It has just issued a report to the effect that production of some vital food and livestock feed crops this year may fall considerably short of needs. It indicates special concern over corn.

When the experts come up with their forecasts, bright or gloomy, who is to challenge them? But cursory examination of the figures reveals that the 1951 goal, 3,500,000,000 bushels, is high. Only once in all its history has the nation produced a crop of that size. That was in 1948 when farmers harvested 3,682,000,000 bushels of corn.

Here are some more interesting statistics: The department says that the acreage farmers are now planning to put in corn will produce only 3,050,000,000 bushels at relatively high average yields per acre. However, though it has been aiming at getting 90,000,000 acres planted to corn, the prospective acreage of 85,694,000 is 1,324,000 acres above 1950. And the yield last year was approximately 3,200,000,000 bushels.

It is also true that a 3,050,000,000 crop is quite formidable. There have been only three crops in history that have exceeded that total by as much as 250,000,000 bushels. And in the years 1939-1943 inclusive there was only one that saw a yield of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels.

All this may not add up to a refutation of the department's report. It's reasonable to believe that the demand for meat will stimulate the demand for corn, as predicted, and cause a relative shortage. But the expected results should be blamed on the supply. If it reaches expectations, it will be large.

Britons To Migrate?

Danger of a large-scale economic war is the motive of a proposal for evacuating 20,000,000 Britons from Great Britain to commonwealth countries.

This proposal has been made in all seriousness to Prime Minister Attlee by the Migration Council, composed of influential Britons including members of Parliament. Such a wide migration would involve 40 per cent of the estimated British population of 50,519,000. At present some 1,700 to 1,800 persons weekly are going to Australia with government encouragement.

The justification for this gigantic new plan is threefold: first, to save possibly millions of Britons in a third world war; second, to ease the strain on a country "demonstrably overpopulated" with industry over-centralized; third, to aid the European-settled dominions, lacking in population and with undeveloped resources. That means Canada, Australia and New Zealand principally.

It is asserted a poll has revealed that 35 per cent of the population of Britain would be willing to move abroad under advantageous circumstances.

It was disclosed recently that the Army has more veterinarians than it has horses. Veterans know from memorable experience that it also has more canned meat than men.

How To Keep Well

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

The Meaning Of Coughs

AIR PASSAGEWAYS of the lungs (bronchi) are cleared through the coughing reflex. This occurs whenever the nerve endings in the membranes of the bronchial tubes are irritated thru dust, gases, inflammation, mucus, and allergy. Even excessive dryness may bring it on and we wonder sometimes why everyone living in a steam-heated apartment is not bothered along this line.

Most coughs are caused by colds, however. As a medical student I found this out thru and embarrassing experience. We were examining patients in the clinic and the professor asked me what was wrong with the middle-aged man who was being examined. My patient had been coughing for a week and felt miserable. As a neophyte, I thought of the various possibilities and stated that he might have tuberculosis, cancer of the lung, abcess, or even unresolved pneumonia. Several other students were called into the room and I was asked to repeat the discussion. Finally, when there was no more to be said, the professor stated, "Maybe your patient has an ordinary cold." Why the most common cause of cough didn't occur to me nas always haunted me. Needless to say, I never forgot the incident.

Such thinking is not unusual among the inexperienced. Many individuals suspect the worst when they become ill. The opposite also is true inasmuch as we encounter patients who are convinced they have a cold even tho the cough has lasted two months. Ordinary bronchitis does not last this long, hence X-ray is in order. This procedure is the only way to determine whether serious possibilities such as tuberculosis or cancer exist. If not, the knowledge is worth the cost because of the peace of mind it brings. On the other hand, should disease be present, treatment can be started at once.

Simple origins of cough include too much smoking or the inhalation of irritating fumes. Allergy is another source of trouble. One of my colleagues recently was consulted by the parents of a youngster who had been coughing for several months. All the X-rays were negative and the family was about to take the child down south as a palliative measure. The physician then recommended placing a steam inhalator in her bedroom. A large machine of this type was purchased and the first night it was used the youngster's cough stopped. Because the room had not been dry, and the cough could not be blamed on this factor, the girl probably was allergic to dust; the steam forced the particles to settle and eliminated this source of irritation. Tests now are being conducted to substantiate this theory.

Allergy must be kept in mind whenever bronchitis persists. Dust may be the most common but is not the only offender. Molds are suspects particularly when the individual lives in an old house. Foods must be considered and, in the warmer seasons, pollens are likely culprits. Chronic lung infections and heart disease are responsible occasionally. The latter produces a dry, hacking that is more likely to occur when lying flat in bed or after exertion. With appropriate treatment, the heart regains its strength and cough disappears.

Yes; this is one of the conditions in which they have been employed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on contact lenses.

SKIN DEFECT

G. R. Writes: Is there any cure for keratosis pilaris? My husband has not responded to various treatments including X-ray.

REPLY

This skin condition is difficult to treat but it responds occasionally to drugs that soften the skin or to X-ray therapy. But results rarely are permanent and in this respect cure is difficult to obtain. The lesions are somewhat similar to those caused by a vitamin A deficiency. Both resemble gooseflesh but in keratosis pilaris the stippled appearance is caused by plugging of the hair follicles thru hardened secretions.

CRAMPING WHILE SKATING

N. B. writes: My arches cramp when I go ice skating. Pain is so bad I have to take off the skates and rub my feet. What causes this?

If your skates, shoes, and hose are large enough, cramping may be caused by poor circulation or the unusual strain associated with holding the ankles rigid.

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE PRESENT debate in Congress on sending troops to Europe is a part of the current stage of our post-war relations with Communist Russia.

The first stage, during 1945 and much of 1946, was a period of belief on our part that Russia wanted peace, that she would cooperate with the United States for permanent peace, that the United Nations would be successful, that there would be "One World." It was because of these beliefs that we demobilize our armed forces, in large part disarmed.

The second stage began with recognition by us that Russia did not want peace in the world, that she wanted continuation of post-war prostration and chaos, because that condition would make war-weary and war-poor nations susceptible to communism; that because of Russia the United Nations could not function successfully, that there would be no "One World."

No "One World"

The third stage carried our relations with Communist Russia further. We recognized that she wanted world domination. We knew that we would resist and we told the other non-Communist nations that we would give them help to resist. We knew definitely now that there would be two worlds, the Communist one led by Russia, a non-Communist one led by us.

The fourth stage came with the Communist invasion of South Korea. This was, on the part of Russian communism, an act of aggression by force, even though the force was exercised by a puppet.

The Communist aggression in Korea brought two landmarks. We knew that a third world war was now a real potentiality. And we knew that we must arm, we began the vast program of military strength in which we are now engaged.

Upon recognition that a third world war was a real possibility, military strategists and men of thought put their minds on analysis of the prospect. An especially thoughtful analysis made last August by Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, put strong emphasis on a premise. Russia's purpose is inexorable, the "ruthless rulers in the Kremlin have world domination as their grim fixed objective." This premise is one to keep in mind.

Mr. Stassen also put emphasis on one of the methods Russia would be likely to follow. She would try to achieve her conquest not so much by use of her own armed forces as by use of puppets, as in Korea. She will, Mr. Stassen says, seek to achieve conquest by "continuous embroiling of . . . the United States in minor wars at distant difficult points to tire and weaken us and bleed us white."

All analyses and estimates of Russia's blueprint, as respects conquest of the United States directly and specifically, must give great weight to reliance by her upon economic debacle here. Expectation of economic debacle in the United States has been a premise of Communist thought held by Stalin and by Lenin before him. Communist ideology holds that capitalist countries and capitalism as an economic system will break down through forces within themselves. Light on this point is to be found in revelations about Stalin and the Politburo contained in "Behind Closed Doors" by Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias. An "economic estimate" prepared for Stalin in 1949 led him to base "his plans on an inevitability of an American depression in 1954 . . ."

In all this is warning for our people. The economic debacle which the Kremlin relies upon could result from our present inflation if it should go on to a violent and extreme stage. Prevention of that is as important as military success in Korea.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"If there is another war," says General Bob Eichelberger, "I recommended that the military, the correspondents, and everyone else concerned, drop the phrase 'mopping up' from their vocabularies. It is not a good enough phrase to die for."

Eichelberger's book, "Our Jungle Road to Tokyo," written in collaboration with Milton Mackaye, is not only a thrill-packed story, but particularly timely today. Here is one of the General's grimmer observations: "I think, insofar as Army officers are concerned, that the concept of graceful losing can be overdone; in combat warfare there may be no game next week."

A young secretary who never had attended a symphony concert in her life was given a complimentary ticket for the Philadelphia Orchstra by a salesman seeking a friend at court. She was so anxious to look her best that the concert had gotten under way by the time she arrived. "What are they playing?" she asked an usher. "Beethoven's Eighth Symphony," was the reply. "Oh, dear," sighed the secretary, "am I as late as that?"

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Lawlessness And The Law

THE Kefauver investigation is important and should be continued so that the character of dual government can be exposed. But the question must arise as to what can be done about this sordid business.

The public is no more against a bet than it was against a drink during prohibition and while we might establish laws against betting or to make betting more difficult, we must watch out that we do not move into another prohibition situation during which the marriage between lawlessness and government was consummated.

Certain problems need to be considered not only from the standpoint of our disgust with the mean-faced gangsters whom we saw on television, but also from the broader position of maintaining our free institutions and constitutional government.

For instance, I do not think that the telephone company should be a law enforcement agency any more than a Woolworth store should be a law enforcement agency. If Erickson or Costello or any of their kind apply for telephones, the telephone company should never have the right to reject their application on grounds of moral trepitude. That is a function of the law, not of a private business.

What ever crimes these men commit are their crimes, and for them they should be prosecuted in the courts of law, in an open trial, in accordance with the Constitution. The men are guilty, not the mechanical devices they use.

It will in no manner lessen gambling nor the power of gamblers to restrict their use of the telephone or the mails. They will find means to convey their data, just as the Communists in this country got their instructions by reading certain dispatches in newspapers, the senders and recipients of which were innocent. The astute criminal and conspiratorial mind can devise means for meeting difficult situations.

This problem is one of law enforcement. In federal cases, that is, in those involving activities in interstate commerce, the Department of Justice is responsible for law enforcement. I am not as worried about dope peddling or the importation of heroin, marijuana and similar drugs that weaken our population. The gangsters that engage in such businesses should be prosecuted.

The fact that they may use telephones or the mails in their business should not be considered any more than that they use chairs and tables. What we need to do is to punish these men and to punish them with the full force of the law.

On the local level, it is the people who are really at fault. As long as only 50 per cent of the Americans entitled to elect officials vote on election day, the voice of the people is not making itself heard in this country. When local law enforcement officers and even judges are known by their neighbors to be unfit men and yet are elected year after year, respect for the law will not be very high.

We face, therefore, a problem in fundamentals. The real criminals are the local officials. The real culprits are the people who vote for crooks, knowing them to be crooks, or who do not vote at all and thereby sell their own governments to the combination of gangsters and public officials.

Until the people of this country recognize their own responsibility, no new legislation will have any value. Actually, there are plenty of good laws on the statute books which are not enforced. When Abner (Longie) Zwillman risked citation for contempt, when asked to list those politicians to whom he had contributed, he put the whole position clearly. He admitted thereby that it would incriminate him and the politicians if the people saw the pattern of association between those engaged or who had been engaged in underworld activities and public officials.

Lawlessness is our abiding sin as a people, and our greatest danger is that government will collapse altogether if it has not already done so in many areas of American life. Turning the FBI into a national police force will not solve this problem, for the worst of it remains on the local level where gangsters and officials are partners in the perpetuation of lawlessness.

When we, each one of us, recognize this and act upon it, this camarilla of crooks, whether inside or outside the Mafia, will cease to subvert this country. Passing new legislation of doubtful constitutionality will not solve our problems; it will only add more pages to our law books.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Way over there in Peiping where they listen to the hourly broadcasts of news from the United States, the Chinese Communists must be having many a chuckle as they learn how scared the UN and various American spokesmen seem to be about crossing the 38th Parallel. It certainly doesn't persuade the Red Chinese that they should quit. Rather it encourages them to keep on harassing our troops.

Just about the time that the forces of General MacArthur have inflicted considerable punishment on the Chinese divisions and the way is opened for a "cease fire" or further military movements to carry out the mission of the UN to liberate all of Korea, press dispatches from Washington say that the UN commander doesn't have this or that authority and the impression is given that the UN commander has been reprimanded, if not discredited.

Marshall Follows Truman

President Truman began the present chapter of comment with the statement that General MacArthur didn't need any additional instructions about the 38th Parallel. No sooner had he said those words than he was pounced upon abroad as having said something indiscreet. It seems that whenever anybody talks publicly about fighting the Red Chinese and the Russian-inspired North Koreans and punishing them for their aggression and their atrocities in Korea, the conversation must be suppressed as indiscreet.

The next episode came when Secretary of Defense Marshall tried to explain to the press that MacArthur had orders to protect the security of his command and he could go anywhere he pleased to protect it. Anything like a general advance, however, up to the Yalu River would require further consultation by the UN governments with troops in Korea. The Secretary did not say that such an advance would or would not be ordered. Obviously, any broad advance would require reinforcements and large-scale activity and perhaps the bombing of bases in Manchuria. It was this contingency which Secretary Marshall properly spoke of as one that would need further consideration on a political rather than a military level. When he uses the word "political," he doesn't mean "political" in the ordinary sense but high-level "policy" about which the civilian heads of government would consult.

Confirmation of the Marshall view has since come from President Truman, who told his press conference that General MacArthur has the power to go across the 38th Parallel as he sees necessary but said that this does not necessarily mean authority to go all the way to the Manchurian border on the Yalu River.

The foregoing is plain enough, but it is the very discussion of military plans which must make the Red Chinese feel that they have nothing to fear by continuing to kill American troops and their UN allies in Korea. Nothing more serious will happen to the enemy evidently than a patrol type of counter attack within a limited area.

Mrs. Roosevelt's View

On top of these impressions of weakness and hesitation among the UN countries comes the amazing declaration by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, a member of the American delegation to the UN, that UN troops "should not ever have crossed the 38th Parallel, and we should not cross it now."

Mrs. Roosevelt thinks that the UN should stabilize their defense line at the 38th Parallel and demand negotiations with Red China. The Peiping radio has just rejected our latest peace overtures, as it has repeatedly rejected past approaches. Mrs. Roosevelt thinks the UN should answer those rejections now by moving our forces back into South Korea and that the UN should then start a rehabilitation program designed to demonstrate the UN intentions toward North Korea. One might infer that these intentions had never before been demonstrated and that perhaps, as the Red Chinese allege, the UN itself has been guilty of aggression. One wonders what assurances anyboy can give that South Korea will not be attacked again.

Above all the confusion stands Mr. Truman's statement, repeated on Thursday of this week, that our goal is the establishment of a free Korea with a free government. Clearly this cannot be accomplished by recognizing any Communist authority in the north of Korea or any such boundary as the 38th Parallel again.

Vindex Man Held For Hearing In Stabbing Case

Date Has Not Been Set By Authorities

GARRETT County authorities have set no date for the hearing of Vesley Fike, 21-year-old Vindex resident who is being held in Garrett County jail in default of $500 on a charge of assaulting Clarence McRobie, 30, last Wednesday.

Sheriff Paul W. Fisher said yesterday that the date of the hearing will depend on when McRobie, now in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, is able to testify on his behalf. Sheriff added that his condition yesterday "seemed to be alright."

McRobie was allegedly stabbed by Fike during an altercation on the streets of Vindex early Wednesday.

The knife has not yet been found, and under questioning by the State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover and Sheriff Paul W. Fisher, Fike neither denied nor admitted the use of a knife.

Dr. James Feaster told authorities the man was stabbed three times in the back, in all probability with a butcher knife or a large hunting knife. One of the wounds glanced off the man's ribs and cut a glancing blow under the skin for a distance of about eight inches, he said. Another cut was about six inches in length, and the third wound was small, the doctor said.

Piecing the story together after the questioning, Sheriff Fisher said apparently McRobie had gone to Kitzmiller with three women who were identifie by authorities as Miss Hazel Fike, Edna Sharpless Nogle and Elsie Tasker. They hitchhiked a ride most of the way back to Vindex and were walking along the road near the Fike house about 1:30 a. m., when McRobie was assaulted, officers were told.

The police report also showed that Shimon had broken into a bedroom occupied by the Argentine ambassador. In neither case was Shimon acting as a policeman. He was merely making some extra money doing private detective work on the side.

Furthermore, Shimon had done this while working for U. S. Attorney Fay, right under Mr. Faye's nose.

The official police report on these transgressions of the law went both to the Justice Department and to Mr. Fay in September, 1949. There the report proceeed to gather dust. The Justice Department had indicated high moral indignation regarding wire-tapping in the Amerasia case, but appeared quite content to ignore infringement of the wire-tapping law in the case of the policeman friend of the U. S. Attorney.

Finally when this column published the facts, U. S. Attorney Fay belatedly called a grand jury which proceeded to cross-examine Lieutenant Shimon. But he did not call the grand jury until just before the statute of limitations was about to expire and the unfinished case was left for a Senate committee to pursue further.

That is one reason why Senate committees are sometimes so necessary to hold a whip hand over the executive branch of the government. That is also why U. S. attorneys and local law enforcement agents will be a lot more alert if the Senate Crime Committee continues.

Habitual tension destroys the beauty and grace of hands. Teach yours to relax with these three routines!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

TENSION IS the gremlin that works the most mischief in hand beauty. The worst of it is that the possessor of habitually tensed-hands seldom is aware of the fact.

She doesn't know that she clutches her bag, grips the arms of chairs, squeezes her fingers to the hurting point when her hands are clasped, and stands with fists clenched tight at her sides. She doesn't even see the results—the flattened knuckles, the red, white and blue patches of protesting circulation and the stand-out veins. Surely, if she did, she would make an effort to relax her fingers for beauty' sake, if for no other.

To such a woman, relaxation of the hand muscles may come hard and even take a lot of determined concentration. But for the resolute, there are hand routines that will bring success. These work two ways. They relieve all tension immediately and for a period thereafter. And second, they help to establish consciousness of hand habits, which is most important to permanent cure.

Check yourself on the tension of your hands, or ask a friend to watch them while you are not on guard. Then, perform the following routines daily for a length of time that is proportionate to the amount of tension that is discovered.

1. Sit erect in a chair with your elbow resting on the arm and your forearm perpendicular to it. Make the tightest fist that you can, and hold it for a count of five; then fling all your fingers outward as hard as you can.

Developing Beauty

2. Raise your hand in front of you, palms down and thumbs pointing toward the body, and fingers extended to full length. From the large knuckles, bend the index fingers downward, stiff and straight. Similarly bend each finger in turn.

3. Tap your fingers as though you were playing a scale on the piano. Keep your hand in a straight line from the wrist to the middle knuckle. Raise your fingers high and rhythmically. Lower them with equal emphasis.

As you free yourself from the habit of tensing your hands, watch their grace and beauty grow!

"The Authority on Authorities"

STOPPERS NECESSARY

WHETHER your contract be in a suit or in No Trumps, you require stoppers to keep the defenders from running their suit—or suits. In a No Trump contract, a stopper is some card which can win a trick because of its height. In a suit project, even the tiniest trump may serve that vital purpose. But if your last stopper has been used up in No Trump, or your last trump in a suit contract, you don't dare let the opponents thereafter gain the lead.

2 ♣	2 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

South ruffed the second club honor with the heart 8 and drove the trump A out with the K, whereupon West led a third club, to be ruffed by the heart 10. The overconfident and careless declarer then cleared the trump suit with his Q and J, not thinking about the fact that he also was removing the last trump from his own hand. He scored four diamonds in a row and then led the spade 5 toward the K. West came in with the A so fast you could hardly see his hands move, and almost as rapidly he laid down the club A and 8 to beat the contract two tricks.

Observation of the simples principle of protection would have protected that contract. After ruffing the second club, knocking out the heart A with the K and then ruffing the third club, all that South had to do was conserve his trumps until the spade A was out of the way. To the fifth trick, he should have led a spade. If West played low, he should have won with the K and returned the 4 to the Q, forcing the A to play. If West returned a fourth club, the heart J could have ruffed it, and the Q could have been laid down next. Then the diamond A would have been an entry to the dummy, where the heart 9 remained to take out West's last trump. The spade J and diamonds then would have completed the hand with a successful contract.

Your Week-End Question

What is the sound middle ground between those players who say they never make high pre-emptive suit bids to shut out the opponents, because they so often shut out or crowd their own partners, and those players who make pre-emptive opening bids, overcalls, raises and take-outs at practically every possible opportunity? How can the balanced player distinguish between the times when such a bid is advisable and when it is unwise?

She doesn't even see the results—the flattened knuckles, the red, white and blue patches of protesting circulation and the stand-out veins. Surely, if she did, she would make an effort to relax her fingers for beauty' sake, if for no other.

To such a woman, relaxation of the hand muscles may come hard and even take a lot of determined concentration. But for the resolute, there are hand routines that will bring success. These work two ways. They relieve all tension immediately and for a period thereafter. And second, they help to establish consciousness of hand habits, which is most important to permanent cure.

Check yourself on the tension of your hands, or ask a friend to watch them while you are not on guard. Then, perform the following routines daily for a length of time that is proportionate to the amount of tension that is discovered.

1. Sit erect in a chair with your elbow resting on the arm and your forearm perpendicular to it. Make the tightest fist that you can, and hold it for a count of five; then fling all your fingers outward as hard as you can.

Developing Beauty

2. Raise your hand in front of you, palms down and thumbs pointing toward the body, and fingers extended to full length. From the large knuckles, bend the index fingers downward, stiff and straight. Similarly bend each finger in turn.

3. Tap your fingers as though you were playing a scale on the piano. Keep your hand in a straight line from the wrist to the middle knuckle. Raise your fingers high and rhythmically. Lower them with equal emphasis.

As you free yourself from the habit of tensing your hands, watch their grace and beauty grow!

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

STOPPERS NECESSARY

WHETHER your contract be in a suit or in No Trumps, you require stoppers to keep the defenders from running their suit—or suits. In a No Trump contract, a stopper is some card which can win a trick because of its height. In a suit project, even the tiniest trump may serve that vital purpose. But if your last stopper has been used up in No Trump, or your last trump in a suit contract, you don't dare let the opponents thereafter gain the lead.

2 ♣	2 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

South ruffed the second club honor with the heart 8 and drove the trump A out with the K, whereupon West led a third club, to be ruffed by the heart 10. The overconfident and careless declarer then cleared the trump suit with his Q and J, not thinking about the fact that he also was removing the last trump from his own hand. He scored four diamonds in a row and then led the spade 5 toward the K. West came in with the A so fast you could hardly see his hands move, and almost as rapidly he laid down the club A and 8 to beat the contract two tricks.

Observation of the simples principle of protection would have protected that contract. After ruffing the second club, knocking out the heart A with the K and then ruffing the third club, all that South had to do was conserve his trumps until the spade A was out of the way. To the fifth trick, he should have led a spade. If West played low, he should have won with the K and returned the 4 to the Q, forcing the A to play. If West returned a fourth club, the heart J could have ruffed it, and the Q could have been laid down next. Then the diamond A would have been an entry to the dummy, where the heart 9 remained to take out West's last trump. The spade J and diamonds then would have completed the hand with a successful contract.

Your Week-End Question

What is the sound middle ground between those players who say they never make high pre-emptive suit bids to shut out the opponents, because they so often shut out or crowd their own partners, and those players who make pre-emptive opening bids, overcalls, raises and take-outs at practically every possible opportunity? How can the balanced player distinguish between the times when such a bid is advisable and when it is unwise?

Progress Noted In Drive Against Sewage On Roads

Steady progress is being made this spring in correcting the many complaints of sewage seeping upon highways of Allegany County.

Health Department officials said about 20 complaints have been checked each week during March and add that at least double that number will be investigated each week from now until fall.

State Roads Commission officials reported last week that up to 300 cases of sewage seepage will be referred to the County Health Department.

SRC spokesmen said the situation resulting from sewage drainage upon the highways has been growing in seriousness over a number of years.

The severe winter of 1950-51 brought the condition to an intolerable point.

Drainage from homes, SRC officials said, caused continual trouble during severe weather as the warm seepage filled drainage ditches and froze, then began to spread out and build up over the highways.

In one week, officials said, icy spots up to 150 feet wide built up on several highways, creating a condition so dangerous that warning signs and lights had to be used to protect motorists.

The untreated sewage is a hazard to health at all times, officials said, and provides a breeding ground for mosquitoes and a garden spot for weeds.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said virtually all property owners have been cooperating splendidly when the cases are brought to their attention.

State and county sanitarians, headed by J. B. Dowling, have been assisting property owners in correcting the nuisances.

Dowling said in many cases the conditions exist due to improperly installed septic tanks or inadequate drainage fields.

The three pronged drive is being conducted by the Health Department, the State Roads Commission and the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

MET DEATH 20 YEARS AGO — Notre Dame University clubs throughout the country will observe the 20th anniversary of Knute Rockne's death by attending mass in a group tomorrow. Rockne, pictured above, probably the nation's most famous football coach, was killed in an airplane crash in Kansas March 31, 1931. It has been the custom of Notre Dame alumni to observe the anniversary by going to mass on the Sunday nearest the date of his death. A memorial breakfast will be held at South Bend Sunday after which alumni and friends will place a wreath on Rockne's grave in Highland Cemetery.

Every boy who plays in Cumberland's Little League during the 1951 season will be covered by insurance, according to Edmund F. Hoey, director of the City Recreation Department.

The group insurance covering the players and managing personnel of the 12 clubs has been taken out by the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, sponsor of the Little League.

The policy applies to members playing in a scheduled game, playing in a scheduled practice and going directly to and from a regularly scheduled game or regularly scheduled practice.

The certificate of group insurance is issued by the American Casualty Company of Reading, Pa.

Cumberland's Dapper Dan Little League is also now an associate member of Little League Baseball, Inc., and having organized a baseball league according to the established rules of procedures of Little League Baseball is entitled to participate in tournament play during 1951.

The certificate of sanction has been issued by Carl E. Stotz, Williamsport, Pa., commissioner of Little League Baseball, Inc.

Cumberland's Little League did not vie in tournament play in 1950 —its first year of existence.

There's a story going the rounds that when Jack Mayo, young outfielder, injured his shoulder shortly after signing with the Phillies, he offered to give back his bonus money because he feared his baseball career was ended.

Bob Carpenter, millionaire sponsor of the Philadelphia team, is reported to have given Mayo an extra $500 and told him to work that much harder.

Mayo, whose parents reside in Cumberland, was "farmed" to the Baltimore Orioles on Tuesday but may get back in the "big show" later in the season.

Bolt Catches Marty Furgol In Golf Meet

Both Turn In 139s In Azalea Tourney

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 30 (AP)—Marty Furgol was still front man, but he had company in Tommy Bolt as the field reached the halfway mark of the $10,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament today.

Furgol, the 33-year-old Long Beach, Calif., professional, matched par 72 today to go along with a first day 67 for a five-under-par 139 for 36 holes. Bolt, who calls Houston, Texas, home, but plays out of Durham, N. C., had 70 to go along with an initial 69 for his 139.

Six big threats were tied for third place, only two strokes from the top pair, at 141. The group included Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, the year's top money winner; John Palmer, Badin, N. C.; Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y.; Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago; Art Doering, Richmond, Va., and Doug Ford, Yonkers, N. Y., whose 33-33—66 was the best round of the tournament.

In ninth place, tied at 142, were Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., and Roberto De Vicenzo, Buenos Aires. Ransom, winner of the inaugural tournament here two years ago, had a snappy 67 today.

Ten more players were in at 143, only four shots out of the lead, making 20 men in all under par going into tomorrow's third round.

Furgol, the year's fifth money winner, started out with a two-under 34, but lost both strokes coming home. He had a bad drive and missed an iron shot for a six on the third, but his hot putter put him two under with birdie putts of 10 feet on No. 5, 20 feet on No. 7 and 15 feet on No. 8.

Bolt, whose best tournament effort was a second in the Savannah Open last November, played well although not feeling up to par. He's been bothered by a cold for over a week.

Wretched weather bothered the early starters. A driving rain greeted the early birds and shortly before noon, the rain was replaced by wind, which at times reached almost 50-mile-an-hour velocity.

Sixty-four players qualified for tomorrow's third round with 152 the limit. Four amateurs at 153 and 154 were also brought in to make a 10-man amateur field for the last two days and 68 players in all.

The 6,652-yard Cape Fear Country Club course, dried out nicely by the wind, promised to be in near perfect shape for the last two days.

EX-ILLINOIS STAR IS BIDDING FOR PHILLIE PITCHING SPOT

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The youth re-building program instituted by Bob Carpenter when he took over the Futile Phillies of seven years ago has brought the club several outstanding young pitchers who banded together last season to give the Phils their first pennant in 35 years.

One of those young stars, Curt Simmons, was enjoying his best season in 1950 and helping the Phils win a pennant when he was called into the Army.

The Philly youth movement has brought several new faces to the home club this spring. One of them may click. And that one may be John Albert (Jack) Brittin, a 25-year-old righthander who first attracted notice when he was pitching for the University of Illinois.

Brittin, who has been in pro ball just four years, has been impressive in camp work. Sawyer likes his stuff and Brittin may stick around long enough to help.

His record last year doesn't tell the true story of his promise. He appeared in 39 games with Toronto and won but seven while losing 11.

But Toronto was no leader; the club finished in seventh place.

The year before Jack had a fine record. He won 21 games while losing but seven for Wilmington in the Inter-State league. He was selected the league's most valuable player.

John Brittin

His first pro experience was with Danville and Terre Haute in 1947 when he won four and lost five. In 1948 his record was 6-7 but that also doesn't tell the story.

In the 1948 season he lost six games as a relief pitcher and after being put in as a starter in the last month of the campaign he won six straight.

BRITTIN started playing ball in high school at Athens, Ill., and after one year he transferred to Morrisonville, Ill., High where he played second base and pitched. In three years his record was 50 victories and only eight defeats. Included in his high school record were four no-hitters.

He entered the University of Illinois and played baseball his first two seasons. He had a 7-2 record in his final season and led his team to the N. C. A. A. finals at New Haven, Conn., where he was beaten by New York U. by a 2 to 1 score.

A teammate at Illinois was Marv Rotblatt, who later went up with the White Sox.

Before joining the Phillies Brittin was in the Chicago Cubs' organization. He played a few games for Davenport where he had a 1-1 record. He was released and signed by the Phils.

Brittin is single and lives with his parents in Springfield, Ill. He has four brothers, all of whom play ball but none of whom has made the pro game yet.

He has played some basketball and hopes to get a part-time job next winter coaching that game.

Brittin is an inch under six feet and weighs 175 pounds. He shows a lot of poise out on the mound.

Cuban Welter Wins Decision In Return Go

Favorite Is Victor By 3 To 0 Verdict, Persley Wins 25th

NEW YORK, March 30 (INS)—Kid Gavilan, Cuban welterweight challenger, avenged an earlier licking by taking a unanimous ten-round decision tonight at Madison Square Garden from Gene Hairston, 21-year-old Harlan deaf-mute.

The cagey Gavilan, who dropped a split decision to Hairston previously, used a right cross and a jarring left hook to advantage in one of his sharpest recent appearances.

Referee Ray Miller scored the fight the closest, giving Gavilan five rounds, Hairston four and calling one even. On the cards of Judges Charley Shortell and Arthur Aidala it was Gavilan 6-3-1 and 7-3, respectively.

Gavilan, a 2-to-1 favorite, weighed 150 to 155¾ for Hairston.

The Cuban hawk will meet Johnny Bratton for the welterweight title on May 18 at the Garden. Bratton was at ringside tonight.

The dark Cuban, fighting out of a crouch, scored heavily with left hooks and bolo rights to head and body while Hairston depended mainly on his solid body punching.

Left hooks and left jabs enabled Gavilan to race off with the first three rounds. Hairston came back to take the fourth. For the next three rounds, through the fifth, sixth, and seventh, Gavilan gave him a boxing lesson.

Hairston was the aggressor in those sessions but Gavilan met his advances with stiff counter shots, lashing left hooks and right hand bolos, and a combination of both.

Gavilan tired under Gene's thumping body blows in the eighth and ninth rounds and Hairston won both handily. Several times he belted Gavilan with hard rights to the head that drew cheers from the crowd. But the Keed was never hurt.

The Cuban clinched matters in the tenth, socking eager Gene with lefts and rights to the head and body.

There were no knockdowns and neither of the boys was staggered at any time. Gavilan bled from a cut inside his right ear from the fourth round on.

Arthur Persley, crack New Orleans negro lightweight, ran his unbeaten streak to 25 fights tonight by outclassing Roy Andrews of Lowell, Mass., in the eight round semi-final. Each weighed 136.

Ray Wilding, 200, England, stopped Clyde Williams, 226, Hinton, W. Va., in 2:11 of the third round of a six.

Carver High School Teams Lose In Tri-State Tourney

Howard Of Piedmont Beats Boys; Girls Downed By Rockville

KEYSER, March 30—Carver High School bowed out of the Tri-State Athletic Union's annual basketball tournament tonight when the Cumberland boys and girls lost opening round games to Piedmont, W. Va., and Rockville, Md., on the Potomac State court.

In the opening game of the tourney in which four boys' and four girls' teams are competing, Lincoln High School's girls of Rockville eliminated the Carver High sextet to the tune of 26-11, and advanced to the finals at 7:30 Saturday.

Taylor, Rockville forward, outscored the Carver team when she registered 15 points in six field goals and three free throws. McIntyre and Beckward scored all of Cumberland's points.

Howard High of Piedmont, which split even with Carver during the regular season, took the measure of the Cumberlanders in tonight's semi-final by the score of 67-38.

Perry and Allen were the "big guns" for Coach Vaughan's quint with 20 points each while A. Smith racked up 13. Woodson was high man for Carver with 13 tallies. The West Virginians held the long end of a 31-15 score at half.

The Cubs had taken a 2-0 lead in the first inning on a 400-foot homer by Hank Sauer with one on, but the Yanks had tied with a run in the first and another in the third on Joe DiMaggio's triple. Sauer's smash over the left center field fence was the longest hit here this spring. Score:

Jerome Travers, Former National Golf Champ, Dies

Copped Amateur Four Times, U. S. Open Once

EAST HARTFORD, Conn., March 30—(AP)—Jerome D. Travers, 64, a famed name in golf with a record surpassed only by the brilliant Bobby Jones, died today at his home here.

Travers, who won the national amateur championship four times between 1907 and 1913, and the United States Open—his greatest thrill—in 1915, passed away in comparative obscurity.

An inspector at an aircraft plant here, Travers was just another name to most of his fellow-workers, and neighbors.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Dyna Travers, who was his childhood sweetheart; a daughter, Gerry-Anne, both of them too ill to be told about his death, and two sons, David B., of New Haven, and Jerome A., of Meriden.

After a brief career as a broker on New York's Wall Street, Travers came to Connecticut in the late 1930's. He turned golf professional in the twilight of his career, but was not successful.

His biggest regret, he told an interviewer several years ago, was his failure to turn pro after winning the National Open when he had opportunities to cash in on scores of offers.

"I probably would have been better off, at least financially," he said.

One of the most famous putters in the history of golf, his biggest thrill came from winning the National Open in 1915 with a 72-hole score of 297 over Baltusrol's tricky layout at Springfield, N. J. That was the year before Jones came up from Atlanta, Ga., to become a quarter-finalist in the U. S. Amateur.

Slim and wiry with a keen sense of humor, Travers liked to talk about the early days of golf and although he never played in recent years, he followed the progress of the new crop of golfers avidly.

His favorites were Jones, Walter Hagan, Sam Snead, Byron Nelson, and Ben Hogan.

Flaming Bush Wins At Laurel

LAUREL, Md., March 30 (AP) — William Offerman's Flaming Bush was the best when a sloppy track turned up for the Walter Reed Purse, top purse at Laurel this afternoon. A superior off-track performer, the son of Blue Larkspur sped a rapid six furlongs in 1.12 2-5 to win to test by a length and one-half.

Blue Stone Farm's Val's Kid chased the winner across the line with three lengths separating J. H. Schlesinger's Pontalba. The last-named saved the show award by a neck over Mrs. Ellsworth H. Augustus, seven league.

Binky B., the choice with the crowd of 8,562, was never able to get close in the speed test and finished a badly-beaten fifth. The payoff were Flaming Bush, $8.80, $5.40, $4.00; Val's Kid, $7.20, $4.80 and Pontalba, $4.40.

Cubs Ask Waivers On Vander Meer

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 30—(INS)—The Chicago Cubs asked waivers today on pitcher Johnny Vander Meer preparatory to making a free agent of the 36-year-old lefthander who hurled two consecutive no-hit games in 1938.

Vander Meer, who pitched his no-hitters for Cincinnati against the Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers, won three games and lost four for the Cubs last year. In 11 seasons with the Reds, he won 116 games and lost 116.

Potomac State, Mt. Union Will Play In Keyser

KEYSER, March 30 — Rain spoiled the opening of Potomac State's baseball season today but the Catamounts hope that clearing weather will enable them to play Mount Union College of Ohio here Saturday at 2 p. m.

The Mount Union tossers arrived here today but a steady downpour caused postponement of the opener.

Potomac State will play West Virginia Wesleyan College at Buckhannon Wednesday. Kent State College of Kent, Ohio, is scheduled to play here Friday and Saturday, April 6 and 7.

BROWNS LOSE 15TH

ALPINE, Tex., March 30 (AP)—Effective pitching in the pinch by rookie Bob Mahoney and veteran Ken Holcombe today gave the Chicago White Sox their seventh straight victory over the St. Louis Browns, 3 to 1.

The defeat was the Browns' eighth in succession and fifteenth in 18 games.

Mahoney, drafted from the Cardinals' Omaha farm club, allowed only three hits in seven innings. Score:

NEW YORK, March 30—(INS)—Referee Charley Eckman who required a police escort after last night's National Basketball Association playoff game in Syracuse withdrew tonight from the rest of the New York-Syracuse series.

Eckman notified NBA president Maurice Podoloff that he was suffering from a strained stomach muscle. No replacement will be named until just before the third playoff game at Madison Square Garden tomorrow.

Syracuse and the Knickerbockers are tied at one game apiece in the best-of-five series.

Moore Hangs Up Freestyle Mark

AUSTIN, Tex., March 30 (INS) — Wayne Moore of Yale today rang up the second new intercollegiate record of the 1951 NCAA swimming championships in Austin.

Moore clocked in 2:07.3 in preliminaries of the 220-yard freestyle race, breaking the old mark of 2:08.5 set by William Smith of Ohio State in 1949.

John Marshall of Yale set a new record last night in the 1,500 meter race, the tournament's opening event.

The Australian champion, now a sophomore at Yale, won it with a time of 18:18.8, bettering the old mark of 18:38.3 set last year by Jack Taylor of Ohio State.

Marshall also shaved 0.2 seconds off the world mark established by Japan's Hironoshin Furuhashi in 1949. The record will not be recognized because of the University of Texas' "short course" pool.

Bratton-Gavilan Sign For Title Bout On May 18

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP) — The welterweight picture cleared up considerably today when NBA champion Johnny Bratton of Chicago and Cuba's Kid Gavilan signed to meet in a 15-round title bout in Madison Square Garden, May 18.

New York agreed to recognize the winner as world champion. Both Bratton and Gavilan posted $2,000 forfeit checks, guaranteeing that the victor will defend his crown against New York's Billy Graham in the Garden in July.

Bratton and Gavilan each will get 27½ per cent for the May 18th scrap. The winner will get 32½ per cent when he faces Graham. Billy will receive 25 per cent.

Both the NBA and New York Commission declared the 147-pound title vacant when Robinson, then the division's champion, won the middleweight crown by stopping Jake LaMotta in Chicago, Feb. 14. Both organizations rule that a champion can hold only one title at a time.

Bratton gained NBA recognition as champion when he defeated Charlie Fusari in a Chicago 15-rounder, March 14.

Gavilan Avenges Licking, Beats Hairston

MET DEATH 20 YEARS AGO — Notre Dame University clubs throughout the country will observe the 20th anniversary of Knute Rockne's death by attending mass in a group tomorrow. Rockne, pictured above, probably the nation's most famous football coach, was killed in an airplane crash in Kansas March 31, 1931. It has been the custom of Notre Dame alumni to observe the anniversary by going to mass on the Sunday nearest the date of his death. A memorial breakfast will be held at South Bend Sunday after which alumni and friends will place a wreath on Rockne's grave in Highland Cemetery.

Every boy who plays in Cumberland's Little League during the 1951 season will be covered by insurance, according to Edmund F. Hoey, director of the City Recreation Department.

The group insurance covering the players and managing personnel of the 12 clubs has been taken out by the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, sponsor of the Little League.

The policy applies to members playing in a scheduled game, playing in a scheduled practice and going directly to and from a regularly scheduled game or regularly scheduled practice.

The certificate of group insurance is issued by the American Casualty Company of Reading, Pa.

Cumberland's Dapper Dan Little League is also now an associate member of Little League Baseball, Inc., and having organized a baseball league according to the established rules of procedures of Little League Baseball is entitled to participate in tournament play during 1951.

The certificate of sanction has been issued by Carl E. Stotz, Williamsport, Pa., commissioner of Little League Baseball, Inc.

Cumberland's Little League did not vie in tournament play in 1950 —its first year of existence.

There's a story going the rounds that when Jack Mayo, young outfielder, injured his shoulder shortly after signing with the Phillies, he offered to give back his bonus money because he feared his baseball career was ended.

Bob Carpenter, millionaire sponsor of the Philadelphia team, is reported to have given Mayo an extra $500 and told him to work that much harder.

Mayo, whose parents reside in Cumberland, was "farmed" to the Baltimore Orioles on Tuesday but may get back in the "big show" later in the season.

Bolt Catches Marty Furgol In Golf Meet

Both Turn In 139s In Azalea Tourney

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 30 (AP)—Marty Furgol was still front man, but he had company in Tommy Bolt as the field reached the halfway mark of the $10,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament today.

Furgol, the 33-year-old Long Beach, Calif., professional, matched par 72 today to go along with a first day 67 for a five-under-par 139 for 36 holes. Bolt, who calls Houston, Texas, home, but plays out of Durham, N. C., had 70 to go along with an initial 69 for his 139.

Six big threats were tied for third place, only two strokes from the top pair, at 141. The group included Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, the year's top money winner; John Palmer, Badin, N. C.; Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y.; Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago; Art Doering, Richmond, Va., and Doug Ford, Yonkers, N. Y., whose 33-33—66 was the best round of the tournament.

In ninth place, tied at 142, were Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., and Roberto De Vicenzo, Buenos Aires. Ransom, winner of the inaugural tournament here two years ago, had a snappy 67 today.

Ten more players were in at 143, only four shots out of the lead, making 20 men in all under par going into tomorrow's third round.

Furgol, the year's fifth money winner, started out with a two-under 34, but lost both strokes coming home. He had a bad drive and missed an iron shot for a six on the third, but his hot putter put him two under with birdie putts of 10 feet on No. 5, 20 feet on No. 7 and 15 feet on No. 8.

Bolt, whose best tournament effort was a second in the Savannah Open last November, played well although not feeling up to par. He's been bothered by a cold for over a week.

Wretched weather bothered the early starters. A driving rain greeted the early birds and shortly before noon, the rain was replaced by wind, which at times reached almost 50-mile-an-hour velocity.

Sixty-four players qualified for tomorrow's third round with 152 the limit. Four amateurs at 153 and 154 were also brought in to make a 10-man amateur field for the last two days and 68 players in all.

The 6,652-yard Cape Fear Country Club course, dried out nicely by the wind, promised to be in near perfect shape for the last two days.

EX-ILLINOIS STAR IS BIDDING FOR PHILLIE PITCHING SPOT

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The youth re-building program instituted by Bob Carpenter when he took over the Futile Phillies of seven years ago has brought the club several outstanding young pitchers who banded together last season to give the Phils their first pennant in 35 years.

One of those young stars, Curt Simmons, was enjoying his best season in 1950 and helping the Phils win a pennant when he was called into the Army.

The Philly youth movement has brought several new faces to the home club this spring. One of them may click. And that one may be John Albert (Jack) Brittin, a 25-year-old righthander who first attracted notice when he was pitching for the University of Illinois.

John Brittin

Brittin, who has been in pro ball just four years, has been impressive in camp work. Sawyer likes his stuff and Brittin may stick around long enough to help.

His record last year doesn't tell the true story of his promise. He appeared in 39 games with Toronto and won but seven while losing 11.

But Toronto was no leader; the club finished in seventh place.

The year before Jack had a fine record. He won 21 games while losing but seven for Wilmington in the Inter-State league. He was selected the league's most valuable player.

His first pro experience was with Danville and Terre Haute in 1947 when he won four and lost five. In 1948 his record was 6-7 but that also doesn't tell the story.

In the 1948 season he lost six games as a relief pitcher and after being put in as a starter in the last month of the campaign he won six straight.

BRITTIN started playing ball in high school at Athens, Ill., and after one year he transferred to Morrisonville, Ill., High where he played second base and pitched. In three years his record was 50 victories and only eight defeats. Included in his high school record were four no-hitters.

He entered the University of Illinois and played baseball his first two seasons. He had a 7-2 record in his final season and led his team to the N. C. A. A. finals at New Haven, Conn., where he was beaten by New York U. by a 2 to 1 score.

A teammate at Illinois was Marv Rotblatt, who later went up with the White Sox.

Before joining the Phillies Brittin was in the Chicago Cubs' organization. He played a few games for Davenport where he had a 1-1 record. He was released and signed by the Phils.

Brittin is single and lives with his parents in Springfield, Ill. He has four brothers, all of whom play ball but none of whom has made the pro game yet.

He has played some basketball and hopes to get a part-time job next winter coaching that game.

Cuban Welter Wins Decision In Return Go

Favorite Is Victor By 3 To 0 Verdict, Persley Wins 25th

NEW YORK, March 30 (INS)—Kid Gavilan, Cuban welterweight challenger, avenged an earlier licking by taking a unanimous ten-round decision tonight at Madison Square Garden from Gene Hairston, 21-year-old Harlan deaf-mute.

The cagey Gavilan, who dropped a split decision to Hairston previously, used a right cross and a jarring left hook to advantage in one of his sharpest recent appearances.

Referee Ray Miller scored the fight the closest, giving Gavilan five rounds, Hairston four and calling one even. On the cards of Judges Charley Shortell and Arthur Aidala it was Gavilan 6-3-1 and 7-3, respectively.

Gavilan, a 2-to-1 favorite, weighed 150 to 155¾ for Hairston.

The Cuban hawk will meet Johnny Bratton for the welterweight title on May 18 at the Garden. Bratton was at ringside tonight.

The dark Cuban, fighting out of a crouch, scored heavily with left hooks and bolo rights to head and body while Hairston depended mainly on his solid body punching.

Left hooks and left jabs enabled Gavilan to race off with the first three rounds. Hairston came back to take the fourth. For the next three rounds, through the fifth, sixth, and seventh, Gavilan gave him a boxing lesson.

Hairston was the aggressor in those sessions but Gavilan met his advances with stiff counter shots, lashing left hooks and right hand bolos, and a combination of both.

Gavilan tired under Gene's thumping body blows in the eighth and ninth rounds and Hairston won both handily. Several times he belted Gavilan with hard rights to the head that drew cheers from the crowd. But the Keed was never hurt.

The Cuban clinched matters in the tenth, socking eager Gene with lefts and rights to the head and body.

There were no knockdowns and neither of the boys was staggered at any time. Gavilan bled from a cut inside his right ear from the fourth round on.

Arthur Persley, crack New Orleans negro lightweight, ran his unbeaten streak to 25 fights tonight by outclassing Roy Andrews of Lowell, Mass., in the eight round semi-final. Each weighed 136.

Ray Wilding, 200, England, stopped Clyde Williams, 226, Hinton, W. Va., in 2:11 of the third round of a six.

Jerome Travers, Former National Golf Champ, Dies

Copped Amateur Four Times, U. S. Open Once

EAST HARTFORD, Conn., March 30—(AP)—Jerome D. Travers, 64, a famed name in golf with a record surpassed only by the brilliant Bobby Jones, died today at his home here.

Travers, who won the national amateur championship four times between 1907 and 1913, and the United States Open—his greatest thrill—in 1915, passed away in comparative obscurity.

An inspector at an aircraft plant here, Travers was just another name to most of his fellow-workers, and neighbors.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Dyna Travers, who was his childhood sweetheart; a daughter, Gerry-Anne, both of them too ill to be told about his death, and two sons, David B., of New Haven, and Jerome A., of Meriden.

After a brief career as a broker on New York's Wall Street, Travers came to Connecticut in the late 1930's. He turned golf professional in the twilight of his career, but was not successful.

His biggest regret, he told an interviewer several years ago, was his failure to turn pro after winning the National Open when he had opportunities to cash in on scores of offers.

"I probably would have been better off, at least financially," he said.

One of the most famous putters in the history of golf, his biggest thrill came from winning the National Open in 1915 with a 72-hole score of 297 over Baltusrol's tricky layout at Springfield, N. J. That was the year before Jones came up from Atlanta, Ga., to become a quarter-finalist in the U. S. Amateur.

Slim and wiry with a keen sense of humor, Travers liked to talk about the early days of golf and although he never played in recent years, he followed the progress of the new crop of golfers avidly.

His favorites were Jones, Walter Hagan, Sam Snead, Byron Nelson, and Ben Hogan.

Flaming Bush Wins At Laurel

LAUREL, Md., March 30 (AP) — William Offerman's Flaming Bush was the best when a sloppy track turned up for the Walter Reed Purse, top purse at Laurel this afternoon. A superior off-track performer, the son of Blue Larkspur sped a rapid six furlongs in 1.12 2-5 to win to test by a length and one-half.

Blue Stone Farm's Val's Kid chased the winner across the line with three lengths separating J. H. Schlesinger's Pontalba. The last-named saved the show award by a neck over Mrs. Ellsworth H. Augustus, seven league.

Binky B., the choice with the crowd of 8,562, was never able to get close in the speed test and finished a badly-beaten fifth. The payoff were Flaming Bush, $8.80, $5.40, $4.00; Val's Kid, $7.20, $4.80 and Pontalba, $4.40.

Cubs Ask Waivers On Vander Meer

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 30—(INS)—The Chicago Cubs asked waivers today on pitcher Johnny Vander Meer preparatory to making a free agent of the 36-year-old lefthander who hurled two consecutive no-hit games in 1938.

Vander Meer, who pitched his no-hitters for Cincinnati against the Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers, won three games and lost four for the Cubs last year. In 11 seasons with the Reds, he won 116 games and lost 116.

INTERNATIONAL AMITY: Penn State's national championship collegiate soccer team, coached by the veteran Bill Jeffrey, is now in the Middle East to play Iran's best on a rapid-fire tour envisioned by the State Department at Washington as an international good-will mission. The Iranian Athletic Association extended the invitation through the State Department, and Pennsylvania State College officials readily agreed. The team, which boasts all-American Harry Little, of Dover, Pa., has been licked only once in its last 24 starts. Jeffrey, Manager Neil See and 15 players comprise the party.

The Maryland House of Delegates this week passed House Bill 477.

This measure specifies that a hunter, who accidentally kills a fawn, spike buck or doe during the open season for deer may keep the carcass if he voluntarily takes it to a checking station and pays a $150 fine.

This piece of legislation has a number of bad angles, among which are:

1. It would be just what the present day "market hunter" ordered. The only law that stops the "market hunter" now is that it is illegal to have a doe or fawn in possession at any time but during the lawful open season he could store up many illegal kills.

The only ones he would pay for is when he was caught by a game warden. Furthermore, no person actually would be violating the game laws by having an illegal deer. They all would prefer to pay the $150 and keep the deer if they were apprehended. Every person would have the privilege of making it look lawful.

2. With the few game wardens we have it would not be possible for them to control such a law. Wardens often admit that only about 10 per cent of the violators are apprehended. Think how easy this law would make things for the violator!

3. The law as a whole would be strictly class legislation in that it would favor the man that had plenty of money and the average hunter would have to stand by and see deer herds gradually sold off to men that had the ready cash but no sporting principles.

If the bill passes both houses and goes to the governor you can wager that sportsmen's groups will request a hearing to protest such a measure.

INTERNATIONAL AMITY: Penn State's national championship collegiate soccer team, coached by the veteran Bill Jeffrey, is now in the Middle East to play Iran's best on a rapid-fire tour envisioned by the State Department at Washington as an international good-will mission. The Iranian Athletic Association extended the invitation through the State Department, and Pennsylvania State College officials readily agreed. The team, which boasts all-American Harry Little, of Dover, Pa., has been licked only once in its last 24 starts. Jeffrey, Manager Neil See and 15 players comprise the party.

The Maryland House of Delegates this week passed House Bill 477.

This measure specifies that a hunter, who accidentally kills a fawn, spike buck or doe during the open season for deer may keep the carcass if he voluntarily takes it to a checking station and pays a $150 fine.

This piece of legislation has a number of bad angles, among which are:

1. It would be just what the present day "market hunter" ordered. The only law that stops the "market hunter" now is that it is illegal to have a doe or fawn in possession at any time but during the lawful open season he could store up many illegal kills.

The only ones he would pay for is when he was caught by a game warden. Furthermore, no person actually would be violating the game laws by having an illegal deer. They all would prefer to pay the $150 and keep the deer if they were apprehended. Every person would have the privilege of making it look lawful.

2. With the few game wardens we have it would not be possible for them to control such a law. Wardens often admit that only about 10 per cent of the violators are apprehended. Think how easy this law would make things for the violator!

3. The law as a whole would be strictly class legislation in that it would favor the man that had plenty of money and the average hunter would have to stand by and see deer herds gradually sold off to men that had the ready cash but no sporting principles.

If the bill passes both houses and goes to the governor you can wager that sportsmen's groups will request a hearing to protest such a measure.

Bill Keener, winner of the 175-pound title in the South Atlantic AAA tourney at Baltimore this week, is originally from Pittsburgh and learned to box at Brownsville, Pa., with Marion Klingensmith, well known here as a fighter, his teacher.

Bill whipped Charley Hamlin in the SAA finals.

Ralph McConnell who whipped Jimmie Catanese here in 1949, walked off with the SAA welter title on Wednesday by decisioning Harry Barnabee in the finals.

Other SAA champions crowned this week were:

112-Coleman Adams. 126—Walter Brown. 135—Lawrence Barrett. 160—Ted Eaton. Heavyweight—Warren Barrett. The 118 class was withdrawn because of only one entry.

SPORTS SPUTTERINGS

By WALTER L. JOHNS

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.—It's been quite a few years since "Larrupin' Lou" Gehrig passed from the baseball scene and probably no one ever will come along to equal his accomplishments as a slugging first baseman.

That's why we tell the story of "Lollipin' Lou" Limmer with reservations on comparisons and prospects.

However, there is similarity, although not from a physical side.

Lou Limmer, the No. 1 rookie in the Philadelphia Athletics camp, carries the same first name as the great Gehrig. Lou Limmer is a left-handed hitting first baseman, too. Lou Limmer is a New Yorker, too. And he was an all-around school star in the big city.

Lou Limmer's slugging is still something to be seen in the big leagues. But he gave plenty of promise last year when he banged 29 homers for St. Paul and wound up as "Rookie of the Year" in the American Association.

Whether Lou Limmer makes the grade remains to be seen. Who knows, maybe he will be another "Larrupin' Lou" instead of just a "Lollipin' Lou"?

• • • •

HOW LIMMER can miss being a champion in his own right is hard to fathom, if you consider the heritage that surrounds the Limmer name.

Lou himself was captain of his basketball, track, boxing and swimming teams at Manhattan Aviation high school in New York. And he was an outstanding baseball player, too.

But the rest of his family!

There are six brothers and four sisters.

One brother, Ralph, was a pro boxer and was undefeated in the middleweight class when he retired.

And the other two brothers were professional wrestlers!

• • • •

THE STORY of Lou Limmer is filled with unusual incidents in baseball. Incidents that involve injuries that could have killed off his career.

In 1947 at Lexington in the North Carolina league he fractured his ankle in a play and was out for some time.

In 1948 with Lincoln in the Western league he slid into third base on one play and was kicked in the head, causing a fracture of his neck. He was in a cast for weeks.

And, capping it all was a play in 1947 when an opposing batter hit a ball toward first and Lou lost it in the lights. The ball came down and hit him squarely on the top of his head, knocking him out!

• • • •

LIKE so many other players, Lou started out hoping to be a pitcher. But he liked to hit so he turned to first base.

He's been in baseball only since 1947 but he has come along fast.

The A's consider him their No. 1 player in the whole minor league system and believe he's ready for the majors.

The alighting speed of a ski jumper is rarely less than 50 miles an hour, often as high as 75 miles an hour.

American farmers in 1950 harvested the third largest volume of products in U. S. history.

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 30—(INS) I've never seen Darryl Zanuck in a happier frame of mind than he was when I talked with him the day after he came back from Europe. He's delighted over "Decision At Dawn" which I hear is another "All Quiet On The Western Front." There was a lot of trouble making it, but Darryl says it was worth it all.

He also cut "No Highway" which Jimmy Stewart made in London. Virginia tells me that she and Darryl had a perfectly wonderful time in spite of the work Darryl put in.

Darryl said that the French Union, which is eighty per cent non-Communist and twenty per cent Communist, called to protest about "The Desert Fox," the story of Gen. Rommel. But it's the Communists who are against this film and not the other group. He expects a lot of controversy and, of course, much of it comes right from the Communists who are attempting to have the picture boycotted.

I'd say Republic got themselves a good boy to star in "The Hoodlum Empire," INS Writer Bob Considine's gangster drama—one of the biggies at the valley studio. Brian Donlevy plays the hard-hitting, Kefauver-type prosecutor who goes after the crooks and racketeers.

While Papa Yates had Brian in his office, he did a good job of it and signed him for two more pictures to be made within the year. Donlevy is practically making Republic his home lot having just finished "Fighting U. S. Coast Guard" there.

Now that he is permanent, the order has gone out to give him the same stellar build up that lifted John Wayne to position of box office star No. 1 last year.

Richard Basehart is back from London after taking a 30-day suspension at 20th to go visiting his lady love, Valentina Cortesa, in England. Nope, he still won't talk about the status of their romance—but you'd have to be blind not to realize the Basehart is very much in love with the Italian charmer.

Now that he's home—and ready to go to work—20th has taken him off the naughty boy list and he's on salary again.

Frankly, I don't think his bosses were ever really seriously peeved with him, but when an actor takes off without leave there's not much a studio can do except discipline him in the department where it really hurts, the pocketbook.

Ilona Massey and her ex, Jay Kurtz, were together at the Bantam Cock a few nights ago. I didn't even know Ilona was in town.

Before Mari Aldon took the plane for Florida to meet Gary Cooper for "Distant Drums" she had dinner with Tay Garnett at the Windsor. Up to now he's her favorite boy friend.

At the Encore Dan Dailey and Brod Crawford were at a table for two, stagging it and having themselves a lot of laughs. Good to see Dan looking so well again.

Merle Oberon is a very busy girl entertaining the Earl of Beatty. He is the house guest of Joseph Schenck and a number of parties are being given in his honor. Cole Porter is having a party Tuesday, and the Douglas Fairbanks are also entertaining in honor of the English visitor.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should a woman propose marriage?

Answer: Only to a man who is too timid to take the initiative. As things are today, marriage is likely to be the woman's idea rather than the man's, but the less aware he is of this, the better. For not only does anyone do anything more spontaneously if he thinks he "thought of it first," but a normal man is jealous of his traditional right to "do the asking." Again, a man who can tell himself that he was "roped into" marriage has a plausible excuse for feeling that he need make no effort to adjust himself to it.

Can "permissiveness" be overdone?

Answer: Not when there is a valid reason for it — such as that it will give his wife pleasure. There is nothing masculine in the adult sense about wanting to wear old, untidy clothing — it is simply an extension of a small boy's dislike of having to wash before coming to the table. And this in turn implies an infantile insistence that people shall like you "just as you are." Being afraid other men will think you are "putting on the dog" is hardly less childish since it reflects a fear of being "different" which an adult should have outgrown.

Does a real man "hate to dress up"?

Answer: Yes, warns Dr. Lucie Jessner in Child Development. With a child who is emotionally disturbed or suffering from psychosomatic illness, you must first "accept him as he is and not as he should be," and let him feel that he can say or do anything he pleases without punishment or disapproval. But if carried beyond certain limits, this may lead to dangerous actions like setting the house on fire, and bring the child to the point where he becomes "afraid of his own overwhelming impulses." Let a child express his feelings in words, but know the limits of action.

Plenty Of Tools

Campbell has plenty of fire-fighting tools at his disposal. His equipment includes about 15 fire rakes, three Indian fire pumps, a carbide light which is attached to his cap, a flashlight and binoculars. The railroader usually carries a can of beans and a box of crackers so he will have something to eat when the seriousness of fire prevents him from returning home.

Each of the fire wardens is appointed by the governor, for a two-year term, upon the recommendation of the Department of State Forests and Parks. They are eligible for innumerable reappointments. Campbell began his service as a warden in 1945.

In his own neighborhood each warden is authorized to recruit a crew of no more than 12 registered crewmen. At the scene the warden acts as crew boss. He reports back to radio dispatcher if more help is needed and or when the fire is extinguished. He also reports in writing to the district forester on the cause of the fire.

40 Cents An Hour

How much do the wardens and registered crewmen receive for this important work? The wardens are paid $1.60 for the first four hours or less and 40 cents per hour thereafter. The crewmen get $1.20 for the first four hours or less and 30 cents per hour thereafter. But even these small fees are paid only for the time the men actually are fighting fires.

Under these circumstances it is certain that these men are not motivated by the money they receive. District Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin, himself a full-time employe of the Department of State Forests and Parks, contends that most of these men are sportsmen who realize the dangers of fires.

Campbell, for example, is quite a hunter. In a quiet way he goes about among his friens who also are sportsmen, distributing pamphlets urging them to be careful about starting and leaving fires. Then, too, he talks to many individuals in his Rawlings neighborhood along McMullen Highway.

There are others who play important roles in this campaign against forest fires. Three towersmen are on duty in Allegany county whenever weather conditions indicate fires are probable. The towers are located on Town Hill, Warrior Mountain an Dan's Rock. Three full-time patrolmen also check the woodlands for fires.

During March, April and May all these employes of the Department of State Forests and Parks are on the alert for fires. Experience shows that during the spring and fall months the danger of forest fires is greater than in other seasons. That's why there is a state law which prohibits burning of brush and debris except between 4 p. m. and midnight in March, April and May and from September 15 to December 15.

By JOHN CROSBY

Historic Occurrence

THERE is a thrice-told tale about Leo Tolstoy ("War and Peace") waking up in the middle of the night crying: "A yacht race! I left out a yacht race." It's virtually the only thing he didn't include in that massive novel. After listening to Lux Theater's revival of "Seventh Heaven" the other night, it occurred to me that the playwright, Austin Strong, might have had a bad night after the play opened, too.

John Crosby

"A deathbed scene!" he might have cried. "I left out a deathbed scene."

He didn't leave out anything else. "Seventh Heaven" contains all the other ingredients of popular drama—sex, sadism, religion, (faith lost, faith regained), poverty (followed by an inheritance), war, peace, renunciation, and love, love, love. The hero goes blind. The heroine gets flogged. War separates them. Another man — she thinks the hero dead almost gets her. The darn thing abounds in picturesque scenery—the slums and sewers of Paris—and in picturesque characters—the old taxi-driver Boul', the gentle priest, the sewer rat, Diane's absintine-maddened sister, the lamplighter, gendarmes. Oh brother! There's only that deathbed scene missing and it bothers me that Strong didn't work it in somewhere.

Actually, "Seventh Heaven," is a magnificently skillful piece of popular theater and it has shown extraordinary durability. Originally produced on Broadway by John Golden in the fall of 1922, the play ran 704 performances and was once the fifth longest running play of them all. (Of the five longest runs on Broadway in 1925, Golden had produced three—"Lightnin'," "The First year and "Seventh Heaven.") In 1937, it was made into a preposterously successful motion picture with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, conceivably the most successful romantic team. For her performance, Miss Gaynor won an Oscar the first year they gave those things out (1928).

"Seventh Heaven" was the play broadcast on the premiere production (1934) of Lux Theater, now radio's most popular program (if you believe the ratings), and it has since been done on that show three other times, the last one last Monday. On the Monday revival, Lux dug out of retirement the two screen originals, Charles Farrell, now the proprietor of the Racquet Club in Palm Springs; and Miss Gaynor, who is married to Adrian, the dress designer. The old magic—either the magic of the Gaynor-Farrell combination or that of "Seventh Heaven"—is still working. Lux was deluged with 5,000 requests for studio tickets to an auditorium that holds only 1,200.

I bring all this up because this "Seventh Heaven" production was primarily an historic occurrence, something akin to the resurrection of William Jennings Bryan declaiming the Cross of Gold speech with the original cast. Naturally, you view an event of that kind a little differently than you view Tallulah Bankhead, who's been on view almost uninterruptedly (4 p.m. till midnight except on Sundays and holidays) since the 12th century.

It was a fine show, "Seventh Heaven," and, listening to it, it occurred to me that the literary wheel has just about completed full circle. "Tale of Poor Lovers," for example, a pretty fine contemporary Italian novel, is a lot closer to "Seventh Heaven" than it is to "Grapes of Wrath" in spirit and in structure with one happy exception—"Seventh Heaven's" black-and-white, two-dimensional characters.

* * *

As for the acting, Mr. Farrell, the Jimmy Stewart of his time, still sounded arrogant, youthful, tender and tough in proper proportion for the part. His timing was off badly, but then it's hard to compare it with his performance in the picture, which was a silent film. With Miss Gaynor I find no criticism whatsoever. She took me right back to 1927 when we were just rehearsing the 1950s. President Roosevelt once described her as "cute as a button" and I don't think I can improve on that.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Historic Occurrence

THERE is a thrice-told tale about Leo Tolstoy ("War and Peace") waking up in the middle of the night crying: "A yacht race! I left out a yacht race." It's virtually the only thing he didn't include in that massive novel. After listening to Lux Theater's revival of "Seventh Heaven" the other night, it occurred to me that the playwright, Austin Strong, might have had a bad night after the play opened, too.

John Crosby

"A deathbed scene!" he might have cried. "I left out a deathbed scene."

He didn't leave out anything else. "Seventh Heaven" contains all the other ingredients of popular drama—sex, sadism, religion, (faith lost, faith regained), poverty (followed by an inheritance), war, peace, renunciation, and love, love, love. The hero goes blind. The heroine gets flogged. War separates them. Another man — she thinks the hero dead almost gets her. The darn thing abounds in picturesque scenery—the slums and sewers of Paris—and in picturesque characters—the old taxi-driver Boul', the gentle priest, the sewer rat, Diane's absinthe-maddened sister, the lamplighter, gendarmes. Oh brother! There's only that deathbed scene missing and it bothers me that Strong didn't work it in somewhere.

Actually, "Seventh Heaven," is a magnificently skillful piece of popular theater and it has shown extraordinary durability. Originally produced on Broadway by John Golden in the fall of 1922, the play ran 704 performances and was once the fifth longest running play of them all. (Of the five longest runs on Broadway in 1925, Golden had produced three—"Lightnin'," "The First year and "Seventh Heaven.") In 1937, it was made into a preposterously successful motion picture with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, conceivably the most successful romantic team. For her performance, Miss Gaynor won an Oscar the first year they gave those things out (1928).

"Seventh Heaven" was the play broadcast on the premiere production (1934) of Lux Theater, now radio's most popular program (if you believe the ratings), and it has since been done on that show three other times, the last one last Monday. On the Monday revival, Lux dug out of retirement the two screen originals, Charles Farrell, now the proprietor of the Racquet Club in Palm Springs; and Miss Gaynor, who is married to Adrian, the dress designer. The old magic—either the magic of the Gaynor-Farrell combination or that of "Seventh Heaven"—is still working. Lux was deluged with 5,000 requests for studio tickets to an auditorium that holds only 1,200.

I bring all this up because this "Seventh Heaven" production was primarily an historic occurrence, something akin to the resurrection of William Jennings Bryan declaiming the Cross of Gold speech with the original cast. Naturally, you view an event of that kind a little differently than you view Tallulah Bankhead, who's been on view almost uninterruptedly (4 p.m. till midnight except on Sundays and holidays) since the 12th century.

It was a fine show, "Seventh Heaven," and, listening to it, it occurred to me that the literary wheel has just about completed full circle. "Tale of Poor Lovers," for example, a pretty fine contemporary Italian novel, is a lot closer to "Seventh Heaven" than it is to "Grapes of Wrath" in spirit and in structure with one happy exception—"Seventh Heaven's" black-and-white, two-dimensional characters.

* * *

As for the acting, Mr. Farrell, the Jimmy Stewart of his time, still sounded arrogant, youthful, tender and tough in proper proportion for the part. His timing was off badly, but then it's hard to compare it with his performance in the picture, which was a silent film. With Miss Gaynor I find no criticism whatsoever. She took me right back to 1927 when we were just rehearsing the 1950s. President Roosevelt once described her as "cute as a button" and I don't think I can improve on that.

Mother dear you have gone and left us,
And you seem so far away.
And our hearts do ache with longing,
Till we meet you some glad day.
Sadly missed by Husband, children and grandchildren.

Rails And Steels Lead Way As Stock Market Advances

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—The stock market made a sizable advance today based on demand for railroad and steel issues.

Rails started things off early in the day, and before they faltered steels took over leadership.

The best gains were made in the rails—more than $2 a share—but the list in general was able to progress beyond $1 a share.

Plus signs had a little more than a two-to-one edge over the minus marks, which went to around $1 a share.

There was a certain amount of raggedness in the major groups but only one failed to head higher. That was the air line group. Issues there were unchanged to a little lower for the most part.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 60 cents to $92.80 with the industrial component up 80 cents, the rails 70 cents, and utilities 10 cents.

Volume came to only 1,150,000 shares, the smallest of the week. Yesterday was only a little better at 1,300,000 shares.

Graham-Paige, an investing company, topped the most active list with 20,400 issues traded. It closed up ⅜ at 3½. Others in order included New York Central unchanged at 19⅝, Radio Corp. up ⅛ at 19⅜, Jones & Laughlin up ⅜ at 25⅞, and Canadian Pacific up ¼ at 24¾.

N. Y. Eggs And Butter

Rails And Steels Lead Way As Stock Market Advances

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—The stock market made a sizable advance today based on demand for railroad and steel issues.

Rails started things off early in the day, and before they faltered steels took over leadership.

The best gains were made in the rails—more than $2 a share—but the list in general was able to progress beyond $1 a share.

Plus signs had a little more than a two-to-one edge over the minus marks, which went to around $1 a share.

There was a certain amount of raggedness in the major groups but only one failed to head higher. That was the air line group. Issues there were unchanged to a little lower for the most part.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 60 cents to $92.80 with the industrial component up 80 cents, the rails 70 cents, and utilities 10 cents.

Volume came to only 1,150,000 shares, the smallest of the week. Yesterday was only a little better at 1,300,000 shares.

Graham-Paige, an investing company, topped the most active list with 20,400 issues traded. It closed up ⅜ at 3½. Others in order included New York Central unchanged at 19⅝, Radio Corp. up ⅛ at 19⅜, Jones & Laughlin up ⅜ at 25⅞, and Canadian Pacific up ¼ at 24¾.

N. Y. Eggs And Butter

Eggs 10,250, steady. New York spot quotations follow:

Butter 334,713, irregular. Wholesale prices on bulk cartons: Creamery higher than 92 score (AA) fresh 67¼ cents, 92 score (A) fresh 66, 90 score (B) fresh 65, 89 score (C) fresh 64½.

Fund Drive For Industries Over The Top

Goal Is Exceeded By About $2,000

The industrial promotion fund drive which began Wednesday morning has "gone over the top" with contributions still coming in.

William C. Walsh, president of the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company yesterday said the $5,000 had been received Thursday night and that as of yesterday the fund swelled to over $7,000 including promised contributions.

He added that the balance of the local returns should be in by this afternoon and that some out-of-town donors are yet to be heard from.

Walsh commented on one particular contribution received from E. H. Carskadon, RFD No. 3, Keyser, W. Va., by saying that residents outside the county area are also interested to see new industry introduced into Cumberland and Allegany County.

Among the contributors of Cumberland who have sent in their checks are John I. Vandergrift Company, Community Baking Company, Ort Bakery Company, Liberty Milk Company, Masons Dairy, Wilson Hardware Company, Thompson Buick Company, Lazarus, Maurices, Ford's Drugstore, Louis Stein Inc., George's Funeral Home, Kights Funeral Home, Spoerls Garage, Jenkins and Schriver, Tri-State Paper Company, D. R. Kitzmiller, Ankeney Company.

Second National Bank, Barnes and Barnard, Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company, George's Creek Coal Company, Inc.; Catherman's Business School, Coyle Furniture Store.

Cumberland Man Awarded $10,000 In Damage Suit

Decision Reached Yesterday Afternoon

An Oakland jury awarded $10,000 yesterday to Patrick E. Kean, 222 Beall Street, in a $50,000 damage suit against the Hamilton Hotel, Hagerstown.

The verdict was reached about 3 p. m. and given to Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided at the trial.

Kean sued the Hamilton Hotel as a result of injuries he claims were sustained in a fall August 14, 1949. The plaintiff charged that because of improper lighting at the lobby entrance, he fell down steps and hit the pavement, breaking his hip.

Testimony in the damage suit ended about 4 p. m. Thursday after 11 witnesses were heard by the jury in Garrett County Circuit Court, Oakland.

Judge Harris presented instructions to the jury when court convened at 9:15 a. m. yesterday. Rival attorneys gave their closing arguments and the jury retired to deliberate its decision.

The case originally was docketed in Washington County, and on Kean's request, feeling that he would not get a fair trial there, the action was transferred to Allegany County.

Then the defendant prayed that the trial be removed from here for the same reason. The case was then transferred to Oakland.

Woman Struck By Train Here

A Berkley Springs, W. Va., woman was injured late yesterday evening when struck by Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 9 at the Baltimore Street crossing, here.

Mrs. Maggie Growden, 56, was admitted to Allegany Hospital at 6 p. m. suffering from contusions of the head and lacerations of the left elbow and right hand. Hospital attaches said last night that her condition was good.

A railroad spokesman said the woman presumably was walking across Baltimore Street from the subway toward the watchman's box and was near enough to Track 1 for the cylinder of the engine to strike her.

It is believed she was in Cumberland to visit a son, Virgil J. Bowers, Patterson's Creek, who is employed at the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge Shops.

Local SS Office To Be Open Today

The Social Security Office in Cumberland will be open today James S. Getty, manager, announced yesterday.

The reason is to take last day applications of persons who became eligible for Old-Age and Survivors Insurance benefits last September under the 1950 amendments. As back payments can be made for only six months, these people will lose one month's benefit check if application is delayed after this Saturday.

REV. JOHN B. JONES

College Fund Drive Leader Is Named

Rev. J. B. Jones Heads Campaign

Rev. John Bailey Jones, 46 West Main Street, Frostburg, has accepted the chairmanship of the Allegany County regional organization for the Western Maryland College Mid-Century Advance Program.

In January, Western Maryland College launched a major fund raising drive to secure needed funds for a building and increased endowment program. This announcement was first made public by Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, president, at the Homecoming weekend last November. The goal has been set at $1,500,000. To date over $730,000 has been contributed.

Other members of Rev. Jones' Allegany County organization include Paul Footen, Barton; Mrs. John Hohing and Margaret E. Hamilton, Lonaconing; Kathleen McDermitt, Mt. Savage; Phyllis Alexander and Francis Lee Cook, Frostburg; Mrs. Jessie Dom and Woodrow Malone, Cumberland; A. T. Brust, Jr., public relations chairman; and Rev. Norman O. Scribner, church-cooperation chairman, also this city.

The county has been divided into individual town and sectional organizations where there are concentrations of alumni and friends of the college. Also, the Methodist churches of the county have added their support in this effort to undergird this small, independent, church-related college.

Monday at 6:15 p.m., the total organization will meet for dinner at Hafer's Restaurant.

Former Native Gets Promotion

A former Cumberland resident has been named general foreman of Stemware production of Libbey Glass, Division of Owens-Illinois Glass Company, Toledo, Ohio.

Announcement of the promotion of James J. "Doc" Brehany was made by R. C. Schwyn, plant manager. Brehany took over his new duties January 1 of this year.

As general foreman, Brehany assumed full authority and responsibility for the entire Stemware operation, Schwyn said.

The new supervisor has a record of 17 years service with Libbey Glass, most of which was spent in Factory A of the plant. He started as a footsetter in 1928 and worked there until 1933 when he was sent to Libbey's plant in Rochester, Pa.

Upon his return to Toledo in 1935, Brehany worked in various capacities until 1940 when he was appointed assistant to John Schellhaus, manager of the factory. In January 1948 he took over Schellhaus' position and held that job until December 1948 when the factory was discontinued.

Then placed in charge of special projects in Factory D of the Toledo plant, Brehany supervised production of new NS machines in Stemware. The Cumberland native has relatives here and formerly worked in the Maryland Glass factory.

Amcelle Worker Cited For 25 Years Service

Shannon V. Winebrenner, Fairgo, was presented a pocket watch yesterday by Harrison C. Givens Jr., plant manager of the Amcelle Corporation. The award was given for 25 years service with the company.

W. J. Elvin, plant engineer, presented Winebrenner with a 25 year service certificate and emblem.

On March 31, 1926 Winebrenner started working for the Amcelle Corporation in the traffic department. In December 1926 he transferred to textile engineering where he is a textile machine fixer.

Before being employed at the Amcelle, Winebrenner worked as a coal miner in the George's Creek region for about 10 years.

State Buys Church For School Site

Frostburg Methodist Property Transferred

The state of Maryland has bought the property and church building of the John Wesley Methodist Church, Maple Street, Frostburg, for the expansion and development of Frostburg State Teachers College.

A deed recorded here yesterday revealed the transaction has been completed between the state and the trustees of the church for a large consideration.

Purchase 35 Acres

Property has now been acquired for the school on east side of Maple Street between College Avenue and Park Avenue and negotiations are in progress to obtain additional property on Park Avenue, Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, said last night. Altogether the state has now purchased about 35 or 40 additional acres of land for the program.

Harry Thuman, Baltimore, is architect for the new school buildings and is working on the general location of the additional buildings as well as plans for the library and administration building, Miss Compton added. S. Russell Minter, local architect, will supervise the actual construction when the final plans are approved, she said.

Already two buildings on College Avenue have been torn down for the expansion of the school while a third site on Maple Street was converted into a music building.

Construction To Begin

A new science building which has been approved will be placed on the present athletic field, Miss Compton noted, and construction of the building will begin very shortly. George F. Hazelwood Company has been awarded the contract for the building.

Property on Park Avenue will be graded and converted into a new athletic field to replace the present one, the president remarked, while grading and sloping of Maple Street property has already been completed.

Although the state bought the church building from the Methodist trustees, it granted them the privilege of moving the church to a new location if a site can be acquired. However, Miss Compton added, if a site cannot be located the state will take over the building for reconversion.

Adventist Evangelism Drive Starts

In cooperation with other Seventh-Day Adventist congregations the Cumberland church has made a special financial contribution to expand coverage of the denomination's network television program, "Faith For Today."

The program is the first to be sponsored by any denomination on a regular network basis, and has already received an appropriation of more than $300,000 for 1951. Beginning in New York December 3, the Eastern section of the nation-wide telecast now covers 10 principal cities of the East, South, and Mid-West. The Western section, originating in Los Angeles January 14, covers the Pacific Coast.

Officers of the church television commission report that response to the television program is up to 15 times greater than response received from a similar radio hour. The denomination also maintains an international radio program, "The Voice of Prophecy" heard on 700 stations over the world.

Success of the television program has been attributed to an unusual approach used in presenting religious subjects. Real-life characters and situations are dramatized and form a basis for the television minister's remarks.

Price Regulation Guide Available

Harold W. Smith, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that an OPS Guide to Ceiling Price Regulation 7 is available. This bulletin has been prepared as a primer, especially for small merchants without technical personnel to help them understand Ceiling Price Regulation 7 which was issued February 27, 1951.

Cumberland merchants and wholesalers can also secure copies of Ceiling Price Regulation No. 11 dated 13 March and No. 13, dated 21 March from the Chamber of Commerce office in the Liberty Trust Building.

Fire Warden Prepared

Oliver S. Campbell is shown sitting on the steps at his home, prepared for any call that might send him out to fight a forest fire in the area near his residence at Rawlings. Campbell is one of 75 fire wardens in Allegany County who respond whenever a forest or brush fire starts in their sections. Shown with Campbell are two Indian pumps, three fire rakes, a carbide light in his cap, a flashlight, a pair of binoculars, and a can of beans and a box of crackers in case he gets hungry while battling a blaze.

Rawlings Man Is Typical Of 75 County Fire Wardens

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

The days are approaching when District Forester William H. Johnson sits warily on the edge of his chair in his office on the third floor of the Allegany County Court House fearful that he may receive a call at any minute of a serious woods or grass fire in Western Maryland.

Although Johnson is concerned about the possibility of fires in the Western Maryland woodlands, he is happy that he has a large number of public-spirited men who will pitch in at a moment's notice to stop the spread of any blaze that threatens to damage valuable timberland.

Back Bone Of Force

These men are the fire wardens who are the backbone of the fire fighting force of the Department of State Forests and Parks. In Johnson's district, which embraces four Western Maryland counties, there were, at last count, 213 fire wardens.

Allegany county has 75, Garrett county counts 65, Washington county has 32 and Frederick county has call on 41.

Typical of these men is solemn-faced Oliver Campbell, 43-year old Rawlings resident. In his normal daily routine he is a trackman for Western Maryland Railway.

But on days when fire endangers woods near his home at the foot of Dan's Mountain, Campbell leaves his job with the railroad and hurries home. He gets in touch with available members of his 12-man fighting crew, and in the three trucks they have at their disposal they load their necessary tools and head for the blaze which may be

Police Probe More Thefts

City police detectives are continuing an investigation into another wave of breaking and entering which occurred early yesterday morning.

Establishments entered were Armour and Company, 326 Commerce Street; Cumberland Lumber Company, Williams Street, and Cumberland Motor Express Company, Springdale Street.

Police said the intruders entered the lumber company offices and took $28 in bills; $10 in loose change and $18 in wrapped packs of coins.

Two offices were rifled. The robbery was discovered at 8 a. m. yesterday by Mrs. Richard A. Reid, an employe. An empty half-pint whisky bottle was found at the rear of the building.

At the Armour meat packing company office, entry was gained by taping the glass on the rear door next to the railroad and breaking it in.

The dials on two safes were broken off, but they were not opened. While the offices were ransacked, company officials reported that nothing was missing.

Seven to ten cases of whisky were stolen from the warehouse of the Cumberland Motor Express Company. The robbers broke in the front door to gain entrance about 4 a. m. yesterday.

Torrential Rain Sends Potomac On Rampage

Flood Danger Not Likely In City

The Potomac River rose almost four feet yesterday following the hard downpour of rain during the morning and early afternoon. At 8 a. m. yesterday it was stationary at 5.8 feet according to the Constitution Park weather station but last night at 8:30 o'clock it measured 9.3 feet and was rising slowly at the rate of about one-third of a foot an hour. However, there was no danger of a flood in the city.

The Western Maryland Railway last night reported that no rain was falling in Bayard or Kitzmiller and that no reports of high water were sent in. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said that the river at Oakland and Mt. Lake Park was normal last night. Patterson's Creek had risen but not to a dangerous stage.

Dropping At Luke

At the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company the Potomac rose from 29 inches at 2 o'clock to 43.5 inches at 9 o'clock. The river stage at 6:15 p. m. had been 40.5 inches.

State Police from Romney reported that the river there had risen somewhat but no danger seemed close at hand.

The total rainfall in Cumberland yesterday according to the Constitution Park weather station was 1.24 inches.

George M. Hitchcock, water superintendent, reported 1.2 inches of rain fell at Lake Gordon yesterday between 7 a. m. and 3 p. m. He said the filtration process had to be stepped up as the heavy downpour stirred up the water in the dams.

City Streets Covered

Locally, the torrential downpour yesterday caused a miniature flood in North End where flood work is in progress. Water rushing down Furnace Street covered the sidewalk at the intersection of Valley Street.

According to the Associated Press, a flash flood in Hancock poured 12 inches of water over the western part of the town and caused a power shutoff for an hour and a half. Several furnaces in flooded cellars were put out of commission.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company had to rely on a hand crank to keep its power up at Hancock when a short circuit shut off electricity from the Potomac Edison power company.

WEATHER

Local citizens sloshed about the town in near-torrential rains yesterday as the weatherman made good his threat of showers. The river and creeks in the area were up some, but late last night they were not near the danger stage. Many local streets were virtual rivers several times during the day. Constitution Park weather station reports a high of 60 for the day with 45 as low. It was 45 last night at 9 o'clock. Rainfall totaled 1.24 inches during the 24 hour period with more than an inch falling between 9 and 12 o'clock yesterday morning. The prediction for today is "partly cloudy and cooler."

County Liquor Bill May Die In Committee

Whitworth To Ask Measure Be Held Up

The Alcoholic Beverages Committee of the House of Delegates will be asked to hold up a Senate-approved bill to revise Allegany County's liquor law, Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., said last night.

Whitworth said he objected vigorously to the manner in which the bill has been handled by Senator Robert B. Kimble who introduced it on February 16 and has held it up until now.

Fifty telegrams were received yesterday by each of the 23 members of the Alcoholic Beverages Committee from business establishments, clubs and private individuals from all sections of Allegany County, Whitworth pointed out.

He said every telegram objected to the bill because of having no knowledge of its contents and because there is no chance for hearings.

Whitworth emphasized that he raises the same objections concerning such an important piece of legislation which he said Senator Kimble is "trying to bulldog through" at the last minute.

He said he understands the bill has been amended until it is "all different" and that he has been unable to find out just what the amendments are, the measure now being at the printer's.

"We'll never know until tomorrow (Saturday) when the session is to end," Whitworth said last night, "what is in the bill.

"It's just silly to try to put a bill like this through now," he declared.

Baptists Give Reports For Special Series

A fellowship and report meeting of the Simultaneous Evangelistic Crusade of the Western Baptist District association was held at LaVale yesterday afternoon, Rev. Sam W. Scantlan, director, reported.

Rev. Scantlan, superintendent of Rural and City Missions of the Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma, said nine of the eleven churches of the Western District are cooperating in the crusade. He added that reports from the churches show since the beginning of the crusade Easter Sunday morning, the following visible results have been registered: thirty three public professions of faith, six rededications of lives to Christ, one addition by letter, and six professions of faith in the homes of persons visited.

Revival services have been held at First Baptist Church and will continue through the evening worship services Sunday, April 8. Rev. Scantlan stated that two more fellowship and luncheon report meetings will be held at LaVale Monday and Friday at 12:30 p. m.

Rev. Scantlan revealed that 15,000 out of the 18,000 Southern Baptist churches east of the Mississippi River are cooperating in this evangelistic crusade, while approximately six thousand pastors west are aiding the work.

Three Cars Damaged In West Side Crash

A considerable amount of property damage was reported in an early-morning three-car accident at Greene and Smallwood streets yesterday.

Two of the drivers were charged with reckless driving and will be given hearings next week in Trial Magistrates Court.

Officers identified the operators as Ivan Lloyd Mills, of 215 Hay Street, and Mrs. Winifred Broome Flook, of 844 Buckingham Road.

The accident occurred at 2:45 a.m. Police said the 1949 sedan driven by Mills traveling east on Greene Street collided with the 1950 convertible operated by Mrs. Flook, heading west.

From the marks of the Mills car tires, at the point of impact, Officers John Daum and Harold Crawford said Mills was on Mrs. Flook's side of the street.

The Mills car continued after striking the Flook auto and swerved to the left into the parked coupe of Miss Virginia Harmison, of 204 Greene Street.

The front end of the Flook and Mills cars were badly damaged and had to be towed from the scene, the officers said. Miss Harmison's coupe, which was pushed a car-length forward, had its rear axle broken.

LaVale Civic Group To Elect Directors

The purpose of the meeting is to nominate and elect five directors to replace those whose terms are expiring. Other routine business will be considered.

Paper Collection Set

Waste paper will be collected Monday on all streets south of Baltimore Street and Avenue to Oldtown Road. Bundles should be placed on curbs before 9 a.m.

Hans Schuler, 77 Dies In Baltimore

Hans Schuler, 77, well known American sculptor and director of the Maryland Institute of Art, Baltimore, died last night in a Baltimore Hospital.

He was the father-in-law of Dr. Howard L. Briggs, 35 Frost Avenue, Frostburg, history professor at Frostburg State Teachers College.

No Action Slated On Industrial Board Measure

See Says Hearings Would Be Necessary

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, reported last night that action on House Bill 740, setting up an Allegany County Industrial Board, will not be acted upon by the General Assembly which is now winding up its activities in Annapolis.

He said the comprehensive plan introduced by the Delegation at the request of the Steering Committee for Economic Development, is in the hands of the House Judiciary Committee, which is not expected to take action at the present session.

Mississippi Plan

Delegate See said the bill, which provides a modification, on a local level, of the Mississippi Balance Agriculture with Industry Plan, is entirely too wide in scope to be passed without extensive hearings.

There just was not time, since the bill was introduced only last week, to provide for such hearings, See added.

The Steering Committee stressed that the bill was sought as "standby legislation" to be used only if private sources were unable to meet the industrial needs of the county.

In brief, the bill would create an Allegany County Industrial Board, representing business, labor, industry and agriculture which would cooperate with other agencies in securing coordinated, economic development within the county.

Would Build Plants

The board would have the power to determine whether the public good requires that any municipality shall have the right to acquire land and erect enterprises, operate them, and to dispose of or rent or lease such lands and enterprises.

The Board is required to limit bonded indebtedness of any municipality for such industrial enterprises at not more than 20 per cent of assessed valuation of the municipality.

If any part of the county should desire to sponsor a plan to finance a new industry, the bill calls for an election at which all qualified voters affected could vote.

Approval of such a plan or bond issue to finance it, would require a two-third majority with a simple majority of qualified voters casting ballots.

Two Injured In Car Crash

Two persons were injured, one hospitalized yesterday as the result of a two-car head-on collision about 3:25 p. m. on Oldtown Road five miles south of Cumberland.

Mrs. Dorothy Stafford, wife of Charles Stafford, 30, one of the drivers from RFD No. 2, Flintstone, was admitted to Memorial Hospital at 4:15 p. m. X-rays showed evidence of no broken bones but hospital attaches said last night she was under observation.

Charles Stafford received a few lacerations. Also taken to the hospital for treatment were Mrs. Emma Twigg, RFD 2, Flintstone, who was riding in the Stafford car, and Stafford's son. Elmer Lewis Brooks, 44, Spring Gap, driver of the other car received minor abrasions.

State Police yesterday said the accident happened on a long sweeping curve about five and two-tenths miles south of Cumberland on the Oldtown Road.

Stafford was driving with the three other occupants toward Cumberland while Brooks was travelling south from Cumberland. The left front fender of each car hit in the collision.

State Police are continuing an investigation.

Police Doubt Accused Killer Is In Area

Police last night expessed a doubt that the abandoned car found one mile north of the Pennsylvania State line between here and Bedford, Thursday, had been used by the accused triple slayer, Charles Edward Rovinsky, 25, Ashley, Pa.

Pennsylvania State Police had alerted the Maryland State Police and City Police Thursday night to be on the lookout, but investigation in and around Cumberland resulted in no findings in the case.

State Police at Bedford are not pressing the search for Rovinsky to any great extent in this area.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Breighner, 22 Mullen Street, a daughter yesterday evening.

City Parking Lot Approved By Senate

Other County Bills Pass Legislature

Activity on local measures was stepped up by the Legislature yesterday as final action was taken on several bills including Senate approval to authorize the Mayor and Council of Cumberland to establish a municipal parking lot.

The measure, HB 527 was introduced by the Allegany County Delegation at the request of the Mayor and Council. It would allow the city to acquire real estate, by purchase, lease or condemnation, to establish a parking lot or garage in the city and to issue revenue bonds to finance the program. The bill now goes to the governor.

Pass DST Bill

The Senate also passed House Bill 547, sponsored by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., calling for an Allegany County referendum at the 1952 election on Daylight Savings Time.

A similar bill passed providing for a DST referendum in Cumberland, introduced by Senator Kimble, led to the introduction of the bill calling for a county-wide vote on fast time.

Senate approval was voted yesterday on SB473, by Kimble, to increase the salary of the magistrate for Juvenile Court in Allegany County from $2,100 to $2,400.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, said last night that the House has turned down a bill which would have kept the Board of Education from requiring Barton students to attend school in another community.

He said the House concurred, by a voice vote, on an unfavorable report on the bill issued by its Education committee.

"Not Sympathetic"

See said the Delegation has not yet had a chance to consider Senate Bill 490, introduced by Senator Kimble last week, to give special taxing powers to the City of Cumberland.

He said the Delegation may take action on the bill today if it gets to the Delegation.

See said there has of course been no formal vote on the bill but that the delegates are "not sympathetic" to the measure which would allow the city, among other things, to tax telephone, gas and electric service in this city.

The measure would give the city power to tax shuffleboards, music boxes, vending, claw and pinball machines and certain gas, electric and telephone service.

Pass Barber Bill

The House last night also passed SB 430, by Senator Kimble, creating a Board of Barber Examiners in Allegany County.

The bill was introduced last week after the Senate turned down a similar bill introduced by Delegate Fred B. Driscoll setting up a State Board of Barber Examiners.

Pass Industry Tax Bill

House Bill 772, introduced by the Allegany County Delegation, also passed the House last night.

It exempts from all Allegany County and municipal taxation any new manufacturing companies and the land and equipment for a period of 10 years from the date of location in Allegany County.

The House also passed HB773, by the Garrett Delegation, relating to the expenses of the county commissioners and road board.

Ruling Is Given On Use Of City Auditoriums

Auditoriums at City Hall may be used only by duly constituted authorities, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, announced yesterday.

The announcement was made following the denial of the use of the auditorium, on grounds of lack of specific organization and purpose, to Walter R. Walters, this city, and his subsequent appeals to the Mayor and Council.

Use of the auditoriums is governed by an order of July 1, 1937, which follows:

"Public auditoriums in City Hall shall be closed to all associations and organizations desiring to hold meetings therein, effective July 2, 1937, except as the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property may arrange to permit the use of said auditoriums to duly constituted authorities holding meetings therein with the purpose of transacting business authorized by law."

Officials said the order is interpreted to mean that the rooms may be used only by organizations composed of, affiliated with or sponsored by a city, county, state or federal organization. The order would prohibit granting permission for meetings by fraternal, labor or religious organizations.

Will Probated

Fund Drive For Industries Over The Top

Goal Is Exceeded By About $2,000

The industrial promotion fund drive which began Wednesday morning has "gone over the top" with contributions still coming in.

William C. Walsh, president of the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company yesterday said the $5,000 had been received Thursday night and that as of yesterday the fund swelled to over $7,000 including promised contributions.

He added that the balance of the local returns should be in by this afternoon and that some out-of-town donors are yet to be heard from.

Walsh commented on one particular contribution received from E. H. Carskadon, RFD No. 3, Keyser, W. Va., by saying that residents outside the county area are also interested to see new industry introduced into Cumberland and Allegany County.

Among the contributors of Cumberland who have sent in their checks are John I. Vandergrift Company, Community Baking Company, Ort Bakery Company, Liberty Milk Company, Masons Dairy, Wilson Hardware Company, Thompson Buick Company, Lazarus, Maurices, Ford's Drugstore, Louis Stein Inc., George's Funeral Home, Kights Funeral Home, Spoerls Garage, Jenkins and Schriver, Tri-State Paper Company, D. R. Kitzmiller, Ankeney Company.

Cumberland Man Awarded $10,000 In Damage Suit

Decision Reached Yesterday Afternoon

An Oakland jury awarded $10,000 yesterday to Patrick E. Kean, 222 Beall Street, in a $50,000 damage suit against the Hamilton Hotel, Hagerstown.

The verdict was reached about 3 p. m. and given to Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided at the trial.

Kean sued the Hamilton Hotel as a result of injuries he claims were sustained in a fall August 14, 1949. The plaintiff charged that because of improper lighting at the lobby entrance, he fell down steps and hit the pavement, breaking his hip.

Testimony in the damage suit ended about 4 p. m. Thursday after 11 witnesses were heard by the jury in Garrett County Circuit Court, Oakland.

Judge Harris presented instructions to the jury when court convened at 9:15 a. m. yesterday. Rival attorneys gave their closing arguments and the jury retired to deliberate its decision.

The case originally was docketed in Washington County, and on Kean's request, feeling that he would not get a fair trial there, the action was transferred to Allegany County.

Then the defendant prayed that the trial be removed from here for the same reason. The case was then transferred to Oakland.

Woman Struck By Train Here

A Berkley Springs, W. Va., woman was injured late yesterday evening when struck by Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 9 at the Baltimore Street crossing, here.

Mrs. Maggie Growden, 56, was admitted to Allegany Hospital at 6 p. m. suffering from contusions of the head and lacerations of the left elbow and right hand. Hospital attaches said last night that her condition was good.

A railroad spokesman said the woman presumably was walking across Baltimore Street from the subway toward the watchman's box and was near enough to Track 1 for the cylinder of the engine to strike her.

It is believed she was in Cumberland to visit a son, Virgil J. Bowers, Patterson's Creek, who is employed at the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge Shops.

Local SS Office To Be Open Today

The Social Security Office in Cumberland will be open today James S. Getty, manager, announced yesterday.

As back payments can be made for only six months, these people will lose one month's benefit check if application is delayed after this Saturday.

College Fund Drive Leader Is Named

Rev. J. B. Jones Heads Campaign

Rev. John Bailey Jones, 46 West Main Street, Frostburg, has accepted the chairmanship of the Allegany County regional organization for the Western Maryland College Mid-Century Advance Program.

In January, Western Maryland College launched a major fund raising drive to secure needed funds for a building and increased endowment program. This announcement was first made public by Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, president, at the Homecoming weekend last November. The goal has been set at $1,500,000. To date over $730,000 has been contributed.

Other members of Rev. Jones' Allegany County organization include Paul Footen, Barton; Mrs. John Hohing and Margaret E. Hamilton, Lonaconing; Kathleen McDermitt, Mt. Savage; Phyllis Alexander and Francis Lee Cook, Frostburg; Mrs. Jessie Dom and Woodrow Malone, Cumberland; A. T. Brust, Jr., public relations chairman; and Rev. Norman O. Scribner, church-cooperation chairman, also this city.

The county has been divided into individual town and sectional organizations where there are concentrations of alumni and friends of the college. Also, the Methodist churches of the county have added their support in this effort to undergird this small, independent, church-related college.

Monday at 6:15 p.m., the total organization will meet for dinner at Hafer's Restaurant.

Former Native Gets Promotion

A former Cumberland resident has been named general foreman of Stemware production of Libbey Glass, Division of Owens-Illinois Glass Company, Toledo, Ohio.

Announcement of the promotion of James J. "Doc" Brehany was made by R. C. Schwyn, plant manager. Brehany took over his new duties January 1 of this year.

As general foreman, Brehany assumed full authority and responsibility for the entire Stemware operation, Schwyn said.

The new supervisor has a record of 17 years service with Libbey Glass, most of which was spent in Factory A of the plant. He started as a footsetter in 1928 and worked there until 1933 when he was sent to Libbey's plant in Rochester, Pa.

Upon his return to Toledo in 1935, Brehany worked in various capacities until 1940 when he was appointed assistant to John Schellhaus, manager of the factory. In January 1948 he took over Schellhaus' position and held that job until December 1948 when the factory was discontinued.

Then placed in charge of special projects in Factory D of the Toledo plant, Brehany supervised production of new NS machines in Stemware. The Cumberland native has relatives here and formerly worked in the Maryland Glass factory.

Amcelle Worker Cited For 25 Years Service

Shannon V. Winebrenner, Fairgo, was presented a pocket watch yesterday by Harrison C. Givens Jr., plant manager of the Amcelle Corporation. The award was given for 25 years service with the company.

W. J. Elvin, plant engineer, presented Winebrenner with a 25 year service certificate and emblem.

On March 31, 1926 Winebrenner started working for the Amcelle Corporation in the traffic department. In December 1926 he transferred to textile engineering where he is a textile machine fixer.

Before being employed at the Amcelle, Winebrenner worked as a coal miner in the George's Creek region for about 10 years.

State Buys Church For School Site

Frostburg Methodist Property Transferred

The state of Maryland has bought the property and church building of the John Wesley Methodist Church, Maple Street, Frostburg, for the expansion and development of Frostburg State Teachers College.

A deed recorded here yesterday revealed the transaction has been completed between the state and the trustees of the church for a large consideration.

Purchase 35 Acres

Property has now been acquired for the school on east side of Maple Street between College Avenue and Park Avenue and negotiations are in progress to obtain additional property on Park Avenue, Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, said last night. Altogether the state has now purchased about 35 or 40 additional acres of land for the program.

Harry Thuman, Baltimore, is architect for the new school buildings and is working on the general location of the additional buildings as well as plans for the library and administration building, Miss Compton added. S. Russell Minter, local architect, will supervise the actual construction when the final plans are approved, she said.

Already two buildings on College Avenue have been torn down for the expansion of the school while a third site on Maple Street was converted into a music building.

Construction To Begin

A new science building which has been approved will be placed on the present athletic field, Miss Compton noted, and construction of the building will begin very shortly. George F. Hazelwood Company has been awarded the contract for the building.

Property on Park Avenue will be graded and converted into a new athletic field to replace the present one, the president remarked, while grading and sloping of Maple Street property has already been completed.

Although the state bought the church building from the Methodist trustees, it granted them the privilege of moving the church to a new location if a site can be acquired. However, Miss Compton added, if a site cannot be located the state will take over the building for reconversion.

Adventist Evangelism Drive Starts

In cooperation with other Seventh-Day Adventist congregations the Cumberland church has made a special financial contribution to expand coverage of the denomination's network television program, "Faith For Today."

The program is the first to be sponsored by any denomination on a regular network basis, and has already received an appropriation of more than $300,000 for 1951. Beginning in New York December 3, the Eastern section of the nation-wide telecast now covers 10 principal cities of the East, South, and Mid-West. The Western section, originating in Los Angeles January 14, covers the Pacific Coast.

Officers of the church television commission report that response to the television program is up to 15 times greater than response received from a similar radio hour. The denomination also maintains an international radio program, "The Voice of Prophecy" heard on 700 stations over the world.

Success of the television program has been attributed to an unusual approach used in presenting religious subjects. Real-life characters and situations are dramatized and form a basis for the television minister's remarks.

Price Regulation Guide Available

Harold W. Smith, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that an OPS Guide to Ceiling Price Regulation 7 is available. This bulletin has been prepared as a primer, especially for small merchants without technical personnel to help them understand Ceiling Price Regulation 7 which was issued February 27, 1951.

Cumberland merchants and wholesalers can also secure copies of Ceiling Price Regulation No. 11 dated 13 March and No. 13, dated 21 March from the Chamber of Commerce office in the Liberty Trust Building.

Fire Warden Prepared

Oliver S. Campbell is shown sitting on the steps at his home, prepared for any call that might send him out to fight a forest fire in the area near his residence at Rawlings. Campbell is one of 75 fire wardens in Allegany County who respond whenever a forest or brush fire starts in their sections. Shown with Campbell are two Indian pumps, three fire rakes, a carbide light in his cap, a flashlight, a pair of binoculars, and a can of beans and a box of crackers in case he gets hungry while battling a blaze.

Rawlings Man Is Typical Of 75 County Fire Wardens

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

The days are approaching when District Forester William H. Johnson sits warily on the edge of his chair in his office on the third floor of the Allegany County Court House fearful that he may receive a call at any minute of a serious woods or grass fire in Western Maryland.

Although Johnson is concerned about the possibility of fires in the Western Maryland woodlands, he is happy that he has a large number of public-spirited men who will pitch in at a moment's notice to stop the spread of any blaze that threatens to damage valuable timberland.

Back Bone Of Force

These men are the fire wardens who are the backbone of the fire fighting force of the Department of State Forests and Parks. In Johnson's district, which embraces four Western Maryland counties, there were, at last count, 213 fire wardens.

Allegany county has 75, Garrett county counts 65, Washington county has 32 and Frederick county has call on 41.

Typical of these men is solemn-faced Oliver Campbell, 43-year old Rawlings resident. In his normal daily routine he is a trackman for Western Maryland Railway.

But on days when fire endangers woods near his home at the foot of Dan's Mountain, Campbell leaves his job with the railroad and hurries home. He gets in touch with available members of his 12-man fighting crew, and in the three trucks they have at their disposal they load their necessary tools and head for the blaze which may be

Police Probe More Thefts

City police detectives are continuing an investigation into another wave of breaking and entering which occurred early yesterday morning.

The stolen loot ranged from money to whisky, according to police.

Establishments entered were Armour and Company, 326 Commerce Street; Cumberland Lumber Company, Williams Street, and Cumberland Motor Express Company, Springdale Street.

Police said the intruders entered the lumber company offices and took $28 in bills; $10 in loose change and $18 in wrapped packs of coins.

Two offices were rifled. The robbery was discovered at 8 a. m. yesterday by Mrs. Richard A. Reid, an employe. An empty half-pint whisky bottle was found at the rear of the building.

At the Armour meat packing company office, entry was gained by taping the glass on the rear door next to the railroad and breaking it in.

The dials on two safes were broken off, but they were not opened. While the offices were ransacked, company officials reported that nothing was missing.

Seven to ten cases of whisky were stolen from the warehouse of the Cumberland Motor Express Company. The robbers broke in the front door to gain entrance about 4 a. m. yesterday.

Torrential Rain Sends Potomac On Rampage

Flood Danger Not Likely In City

The Potomac River rose almost four feet yesterday following the hard downpour of rain during the morning and early afternoon. At 8 a. m. yesterday it was stationary at 5.8 feet according to the Constitution Park weather station but last night at 8:30 o'clock it measured 9.3 feet and was rising slowly at the rate of about one-third of a foot an hour. However, there was no danger of a flood in the city.

The Western Maryland Railway last night reported that no rain was falling in Bayard or Kitzmiller and that no reports of high water were sent in. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said that the river at Oakland and Mt. Lake Park was normal last night. Patterson's Creek had risen but not to a dangerous stage.

Dropping At Luke

At the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company the Potomac rose from 29 inches at 2 o'clock to 43.5 inches at 9 o'clock. The river stage at 6:15 p. m. had been 40.5 inches.

State Police from Romney reported that the river there had risen somewhat but no danger seemed close at hand.

The total rainfall in Cumberland yesterday according to the Constitution Park weather station was 1.24 inches.

George M. Hitchcock, water superintendent, reported 1.2 inches of rain fell at Lake Gordon yesterday between 7 a. m. and 3 p. m. He said the filtration process had to be stepped up as the heavy downpour stirred up the water in the dams.

City Streets Covered

Locally, the torrential downpour yesterday caused a miniature flood in North End where flood work is in progress. Water rushing down Furnace Street covered the sidewalk at the intersection of Valley Street.

According to the Associated Press, a flash flood in Hancock poured 12 inches of water over the western part of the town and caused a power shutoff for an hour and a half. Several furnaces in flooded cellars were put out of commission.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company had to rely on a hand crank to keep its power up at Hancock when a short circuit shut off electricity from the Potomac Edison power company.

WEATHER

Local citizens sloshed about the town in near-torrential rains yesterday as the weatherman made good his threat of showers. The river and creeks in the area were up some, but late last night they were not near the danger stage. Many local streets were virtual rivers several times during the day. Constitution Park weather station reports a high of 60 for the day with 45 as low. It was 45 last night at 9 o'clock. Rainfall totaled 1.24 inches during the 24 hour period with more than an inch falling between 9 and 12 o'clock yesterday morning. The prediction for today is "partly cloudy and cooler."

County Liquor Bill May Die In Committee

Whitworth To Ask Measure Be Held Up

The Alcoholic Beverages Committee of the House of Delegates will be asked to hold up a Senate-approved bill to revise Allegany County's liquor law, Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., said last night.

Whitworth said he objected vigorously to the manner in which the bill has been handled by Senator Robert B. Kimble who introduced it on February 16 and has held it up until now.

Fifty telegrams were received yesterday by each of the 23 members of the Alcoholic Beverages Committee from business establishments, clubs and private individuals from all sections of Allegany County, Whitworth pointed out.

He said every telegram objected to the bill because of having no knowledge of its contents and because there is no chance for hearings.

Whitworth emphasized that he raises the same objections concerning such an important piece of legislation which he said Senator Kimble is "trying to bulldog through" at the last minute.

He said he understands the bill has been amended until it is "all different" and that he has been unable to find out just what the amendments are, the measure now being at the printer's.

"We'll never know until tomorrow (Saturday) when the session is to end," Whitworth said last night, "what is in the bill.

"It's just silly to try to put a bill like this through now," he declared.

Baptists Give Reports For Special Series

A fellowship and report meeting of the Simultaneous Evangelistic Crusade of the Western Baptist District association was held at LaVale yesterday afternoon, Rev. Sam W. Scantlan, director, reported.

Rev. Scantlan, superintendent of Rural and City Missions of the Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma, said nine of the eleven churches of the Western District are cooperating in the crusade. He added that reports from the churches show since the beginning of the crusade Easter Sunday morning, the following visible results have been registered: thirty three public professions of faith, six rededications of lives to Christ, one addition by letter, and six professions of faith in the homes of persons visited.

Revival services have been held at First Baptist Church and will continue through the evening worship services Sunday, April 8. Rev. Scantlan stated that two more fellowship and luncheon report meetings will be held at LaVale Monday and Friday at 12:30 p. m.

Rev. Scantlan revealed that 15,000 out of the 18,000 Southern Baptist churches east of the Mississippi River are cooperating in this evangelistic crusade, while approximately six thousand pastors west are aiding the work.

Three Cars Damaged In West Side Crash

A considerable amount of property damage was reported in an early-morning three-car accident at Greene and Smallwood streets yesterday.

Two of the drivers were charged with reckless driving and will be given hearings next week in Trial Magistrates Court.

Officers identified the operators as Ivan Lloyd Mills, of 215 Hay Street, and Mrs. Winifred Broome Flook, of 844 Buckingham Road.

The accident occurred at 2:45 a.m. Police said the 1949 sedan driven by Mills traveling east on Greene Street collided with the 1950 convertible operated by Mrs. Flook, heading west.

From the marks of the Mills car tires, at the point of impact, Officers John Daum and Harold Crawford said Mills was on Mrs. Flook's side of the street.

The Mills car continued after striking the Flook auto and swerved to the left into the parked coupe of Miss Virginia Harmison, of 204 Greene Street.

The front end of the Flook and Mills cars were badly damaged and had to be towed from the scene, the officers said. Miss Harmison's coupe, which was pushed a car-length forward, had its rear axle broken.

The left front wheel of Mills' sedan came off at the point of impact, the accident report said.

Hans Schuler, 77 Dies In Baltimore

Hans Schuler, 77, well known American sculptor and director of the Maryland Institute of Art, Baltimore, died last night in a Baltimore Hospital.

He was the father-in-law of Dr. Howard L. Briggs, 35 Frost Avenue, Frostburg, history professor at Frostburg State Teachers College.

No Action Slated On Industrial Board Measure

See Says Hearings Would Be Necessary

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, reported last night that action on House Bill 740, setting up an Allegany County Industrial Board, will not be acted upon by the General Assembly which is now winding up its activities in Annapolis.

He said the comprehensive plan introduced by the Delegation at the request of the Steering Committee for Economic Development, is in the hands of the House Judiciary Committee, which is not expected to take action at the present session.

Mississippi Plan

Delegate See said the bill, which provides a modification, on a local level, of the Mississippi Balance Agriculture with Industry Plan, is entirely too wide in scope to be passed without extensive hearings.

There just was not time, since the bill was introduced only last week, to provide for such hearings, See added.

The Steering Committee stressed that the bill was sought as "standby legislation" to be used only if private sources were unable to meet the industrial needs of the county.

In brief, the bill would create an Allegany County Industrial Board, representing business, labor, industry and agriculture which would cooperate with other agencies in securing coordinated, economic development within the county.

Would Build Plants

The board would have the power to determine whether the public good requires that any municipality shall have the right to acquire land and erect enterprises, operate them, and to dispose of or rent or lease such lands and enterprises.

The Board is required to limit bonded indebtedness of any municipality for such industrial enterprises at not more than 20 per cent of assessed valuation of the municipality.

If any part of the county should desire to sponsor a plan to finance a new industry, the bill calls for an election at which all qualified voters affected could vote.

Approval of such a plan or bond issue to finance it, would require a two-third majority with a simple majority of qualified voters casting ballots.

Two Injured In Car Crash

Two persons were injured, one hospitalized yesterday as the result of a two-car head-on collision about 3:25 p. m. on Oldtown Road five miles south of Cumberland.

Mrs. Dorothy Stafford, wife of Charles Stafford, 30, one of the drivers from RFD No. 2, Flintstone, was admitted to Memorial Hospital at 4:15 p. m. X-rays showed evidence of no broken bones but hospital attaches said last night she was under observation.

Charles Stafford received a few lacerations. Also taken to the hospital for treatment were Mrs. Emma Twigg, RFD 2, Flintstone, who was riding in the Stafford car, and Stafford's son, Elmer Lewis Brooks, 44, Spring Gap, driver of the other car received minor abrasions.

State Police yesterday said the accident happened on a long sweeping curve about five and two-tenths miles south of Cumberland on the Oldtown Road.

Stafford was driving with the three other occupants toward Cumberland while Brooks was travelling south from Cumberland. The left front fender of each car hit in the collision.

State Police are continuing an investigation.

Police Doubt Accused Killer Is In Area

Police last night expessed a doubt that the abandoned car found one mile north of the Pennsylvania State line between here and Bedford, Thursday, had been used by the accused triple slayer, Charles Edward Rovinsky, 25, Ashley, Pa.

Pennsylvania State Police had alerted the Maryland State Police and City Police Thursday night to be on the lookout, but investigation in and around Cumberland resulted in no findings in the case.

State Police at Bedford are not pressing the search for Rovinsky to any great extent in this area.

BIRTHS

Allegany Hospital announces the following birth:

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Breighner, 22 Mullen Street, a daughter yesterday evening.

Memorial Hospital announces the following birth:

City Parking Lot Approved By Senate

Other County Bills Pass Legislature

Activity on local measures was stepped up by the Legislature yesterday as final action was taken on several bills including Senate approval to authorize the Mayor and Council of Cumberland to establish a municipal parking lot.

The measure, HB 527 was introduced by the Allegany County Delegation at the request of the Mayor and Council. It would allow the city to acquire real estate, by purchase, lease or condemnation, to establish a parking lot or garage in the city and to issue revenue bonds to finance the program. The bill now goes to the governor.

Pass DST Bill

The Senate also passed House Bill 547, sponsored by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., calling for an Allegany County referendum at the 1952 election on Daylight Savings Time.

A similar bill passed providing for a DST referendum in Cumberland, introduced by Senator Kimble, led to the introduction of the bill calling for a county-wide vote on fast time.

Senate approval was voted yesterday on SB473, by Kimble, to increase the salary of the magistrate for Juvenile Court in Allegany County from $2,100 to $2,400.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, said last night that the House has turned down a bill which would have kept the Board of Education from requiring Barton students to attend school in another community.

He said the House concurred, by a voice vote, on an unfavorable report on the bill issued by its Education committee.

"Not Sympathetic"

See said the Delegation has not yet had a chance to consider Senate Bill 490, introduced by Senator Kimble last week, to give special taxing powers to the City of Cumberland.

He said the Delegation may take action on the bill today if it gets to the Delegation.

See said there has of course been no formal vote on the bill but that the delegates are "not sympathetic" to the measure which would allow the city, among other things, to tax telephone, gas and electric service in this city.

The measure would give the city power to tax shuffleboards, music boxes, vending, claw and pinball machines and certain gas, electric and telephone service.

Pass Barber Bill

The House last night also passed SB 430, by Senator Kimble, creating a Board of Barber Examiners in Allegany County.

The bill was introduced last week after the Senate turned down a similar bill introduced by Delegate Fred B. Driscoll setting up a State Board of Barber Examiners.

Pass Industry Tax Bill

House Bill 772, introduced by the Allegany County Delegation, also passed the House last night.

It exempts from all Allegany County and municipal taxation any new manufacturing companies and the land and equipment for a period of 10 years from the date of location in Allegany County.

The House also passed HB773, by the Garrett Delegation, relating to the expenses of the county commissioners and road board.

Ruling Is Given On Use Of City Auditoriums

Auditoriums at City Hall may be used only by duly constituted authorities, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, announced yesterday.

The announcement was made following the denial of the use of the auditorium, on grounds of lack of specific organization and purpose, to Walter R. Walters, this city, and his subsequent appeals to the Mayor and Council.

Use of the auditoriums is governed by an order of July 1, 1937, which follows:

"Public auditoriums in City Hall shall be closed to all associations and organizations desiring to hold meetings therein, effective July 2, 1937, except as the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property may arrange to permit the use of said auditoriums to duly constituted authorities holding meetings therein with the purpose of transacting business authorized by law."

Officials said the order is interpreted to mean that the rooms may be used only by organizations composed of, affiliated with or sponsored by a city, county, state or federal organization. The order would prohibit granting permission for meetings by fraternal, labor or religious organizations.

Will Probated

The last will and testament of James McRae was filed for probate yesterday in Orphans Court of Allegany County. His widow, Mrs. Wilhelmina McRae, was sole heir to the estate and was named administratrix.

Clay Quits As Wilson's Top Adviser

Costello, 11 Other Crime Probe Witnesses, Cited For Contempt

Two Senators Plan Resolution Extending Life Of Committee Until Next January 15

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—The Senate topped off the sensation-packed hearings of its crime committee today by voting contempt citations against 12 balky witnesses headed by Frank Costello, reputed New York gambling kingpin.

At the same time Sen. Wiley (R-Wis) announced he and Sen. Tobey (R-NH) will introduce a resolution within a week to extend the life of the committee until next January 15.

The committee's authority originally was scheduled to expire tomorrow night but the Senate, acceding to popular demand, voted late yesterday for a month's extension.

Sen. Kefauver (D-Tenn) crime committee chairman, asked the Senate to cite Jacob (Greasy Thumb) Guzik, reputed former treasurer for the Chicago Al Capone gang. The Senate voted unanimously for that and then Kefauver sent over the other 11 names, including Costello.

Erickson's Name On List

This list, besides Costello, included Frank Erickson, big-time New York bookmaker who is serving a two-year jail sentence for gambling; Joe Adonis, New York and New Jersey gambler described as a Costello lieutenant; Morris Kleinman, said to have once been the king of Cleveland bootleggers, and Louis Rothkopf, another alleged former Cleveland bootlegger.

Then there was William G. O'Brien, Florida gambler; John Doyle, Gary, Ind., questioned about gambling and slot machines; Ralph J. O'Hara, Chicago race wire figure; George S. Bowers, Florida gambler; John Croft, linked with Kentucky gambling, and Stanley Cohen, identified by the committee as a San Francisco race wire figure.

Conviction of contempt carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $1,000 fine on each count.

Costello Balked At Telling Worth

Costello was cited for a refusal to tell the committee how much he was worth, financially, and to give other information.

Most of the others declined to give information on the grounds it might tend to incriminate them; or they refused to appear before television cameras set up in the hearings.

The committee has held sessions the past 11 months in various parts of the country. These were climaxed by televised hearings in New York and Washington which were watched by millions of persons and brought a flood of mail to Congress as well as threats of death to committee members. Many letters urged the committee to keep up its work of bringing out evidence of links between the underworld, gamblers and political leaders.

U. S. Navy Nearly Doubles Strength In Mediterranean

ABOARD THE U.S.S. NEWPORT NEWS, flagship U. S. Mediterranean fleet, at Gibraltar, March 30 (AP)—The U. S. Navy nearly doubled today its recent normal strength in the Mediterranean. The head of this powerful task force said its role is to support American occupation forces in Europe and American policy.

Vice-Adm. M. B. Gardner, who became chief of the U. S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean only 11 days ago, declared that "in the present situation (of tension) we are here more for business than for pleasure."

Fleet reinforcements included the heavy carried Salem, 11 destroyers, one submarine and several auxiliary vessels. The giant carrier Coral Sea and two destroyers are expected to reach Gibraltar Sunday after their final search sweep for an American Globemaster plan missing for a week over the North Atlantic with 53 airmen aboard.

Gromyko Raises Atlantic Treaty Issue At Paris

PARIS, March 30 (AP) — Andrei Gromyko attacked the North Atlantic pact in the Big Four deputies meeting tonight and said it should be discussed by the Council of Foreign Ministers.

The Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister singled out "the creation of American military bases in England, Norway, Iceland and in other countries of Europe and the Near East" under the 12-nation alliance.

Attacks Western Proposal

He introduced also a proposal that the foreign ministers take up provisions of the Italian, Romanian, Bulgarian and Hungarian peace treaties.

In a speech, Gromyko attacked a recent Western proposal for a discussion of reported treaty violations in Communist-ruled Romania, Bulgaria and Hungary and indicated he wanted to emphasize Russian charges that Nazi and Fascist elements were working for the West in Italy and the Balkans.

Could Be Serious Setback

Western officials who attended this 20th session of the United States, British, French and Russian deputies said Gromyko, by raising the Atlantic pact issue, may have "seriously set back" the four-power efforts to draw up an agenda for the foreign ministers. The United States, Britain and France are all members of the pact.

Early in the long meeting, Gromyko asked the Western delegates for their answers to the new proposals on the level of four-power armament and German demilitarization which he introduced Wednesday.

Burglars Steal Sink

BEMIDJI, Minn., March 30 (AP)—When Harry Reynolds returned to his basement home after a four-month absence he found burglars had broken in the place. The only loss—the kitchen sink. Everything else in the house was untouched.

PMA Officials Are Demoted

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Two top Department of Agriculture officials were demoted today by Secretary Brannan in a major shakeup of the Production Marketing Administration.

PMA Administrator Ralph S. Trigg and his deputy, Frank K Wooley, were transferred to lesser posts as special assistants to Brannan.

There have been rumors for a long time the shakeup was pending.

Some farm groups have accused the department of not giving farmers enough help in obtaining machinery, fertilizer and insecticides. Increasing amounts of these are necessary for the defense program. PMA was given the job of obtaining necessary allocations from defense agencies.

Trigg is a holdover appointee from the administration of former Secretary Clinton P. Anderson, a Democrat and now senator from New Mexico.

Belle Of Italian Red Party Guilty Of Insulting Pope

Laura Diez Receives Suspended Sentence

CHIETI, Italy, March 30 (AP) — Communist Deputy Laura Diaz was convicted tonight of insulting Pope Pius by saying his hands "are dripping with blood." A three-judge court gave her a suspended sentence of eight months in jail.

A Communist Party belle who was once a society girl of Leghorn, Miss Diaz is the first member of Italy's Parliament ever brought to trial on charges of "offenses against the Pope."

She testified she had never said the Pope's hands were bloody, but had said he did nothing to prevent bloodshed in Greece, Spain and Palestine.

Charge Lodged Under Pact

The prosecution charged she insulted the Pope in a speech at Ortona-a-Mare June 13, 1948, two months after Italy's Catholic Christian Democrats trounced the Communist-led Popular Front in a general election.

The charge was lodged under the Lateran Pact of 1929, regulating relations between Italy and the Vatican. Insults against the Pope are punishable by fines and prison terms up to five years, as are insults against the Italian chief of state.

Miss Diaz, 30, is the sister of Leghorn's Communist mayor and is reputed wealthy. She is the daughter of a prosperous attorney. She joined the Communist Party in 1941. The Chamber of Deputies removed her parliamentary immunity for the long delayed trial.

Heavily rouged and dressed in a tailored beige-colored suit, she smiled and appeared at ease.

34 Witnesses Called

Thirty-four witnesses were called before the court for testimony concerning the state's charge that she had said:

"The hands of the Pope are dripping with the blood of the children of Greece and Palestine because he did not move one finger to prevent the wars which ravaged Palestine and Greece, just as some time before he did not move a finger to prevent or limit the World War, and there is no holy water which can clear them."

Miss Diaz declared that quotation was incorrect, but said she had "criticized the political actions of the chief of a foreign state."

Hotel Fire Interrupts Legislature

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 30 (AP)—Historic old Carvel Hall, where most visitors to the U. S. Naval Academy stay, caught fire tonight.

Guests were forced to flee in their night clothing, but no injuries were reported.

The blaze started in the kitchen wing of the old hotel, part of which was once the home of one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence—William Paca.

At 12:15 a. m. four fire companies still fought the fire. Smoke poured out in clouds from the east and west wings of the hotel but the fire still was contained to the kitchen wing.

Both houses of the Legislature — holding night sessions to speed up work on bills—recessed to go to the fire.

The old hostelry is the home during legislative sessions of many legislators, newspaper people and lobbyists. A few were able to rescue their belongings but the most of them stood outside and hoped for the best.

Resignation May Help End Labor 'Revolt'

General Denies He Had That In Mind

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Gen. Lucius D. Clay, target of labor union criticism, resigned today as a top adviser to Defense Mobilizer Charles E. Wilson.

His departure may help end the union leaders' "revolt" against the administration's home-front policies, although Clay denied emphatically he had that in mind.

Clay, who is returning to his post as chairman of the Continental Can Company, New York, had been assailed by union representatives who expressed fear that he might favor compulsory labor service. Wilson denied that Clay or any other of his assistants had that in mind.

There was no suggestion that Clay was forced out or that he had broken with Wilson, a close friend. In denying that he stepped out to pave the way for an agreement with the unions, Clay told newsmen:

"Any such thought is a real injustice to Mr. Wilson and myself. That did not enter into it."

Wilson Praises Clay

Labor leaders pulled their representatives out of the federal emergency agencies several weeks ago with a blast at Wilson and the charge that big business was running the mobilization show.

Union spokesmen commenting on Clay's action said it alone was not enough to bring them trooping back to Wilson's setup.

Wilson said today there had long been an understanding that Clay could return to private business when the Office of Defense Mobilization in which he held the rank of special assistant, was well embarked on its gigantic task.

Wilson issued a statement praising Clay for an "outstanding contribution" to the program. He said he would continue to call on Clay for special counsel.

The day brought these other events on the economic mobilization front.

1. Price Controller Michael V. DiSalle said price cuts are coming—"in certain fields where they are warranted." Rationing isn't in the picture, he added.

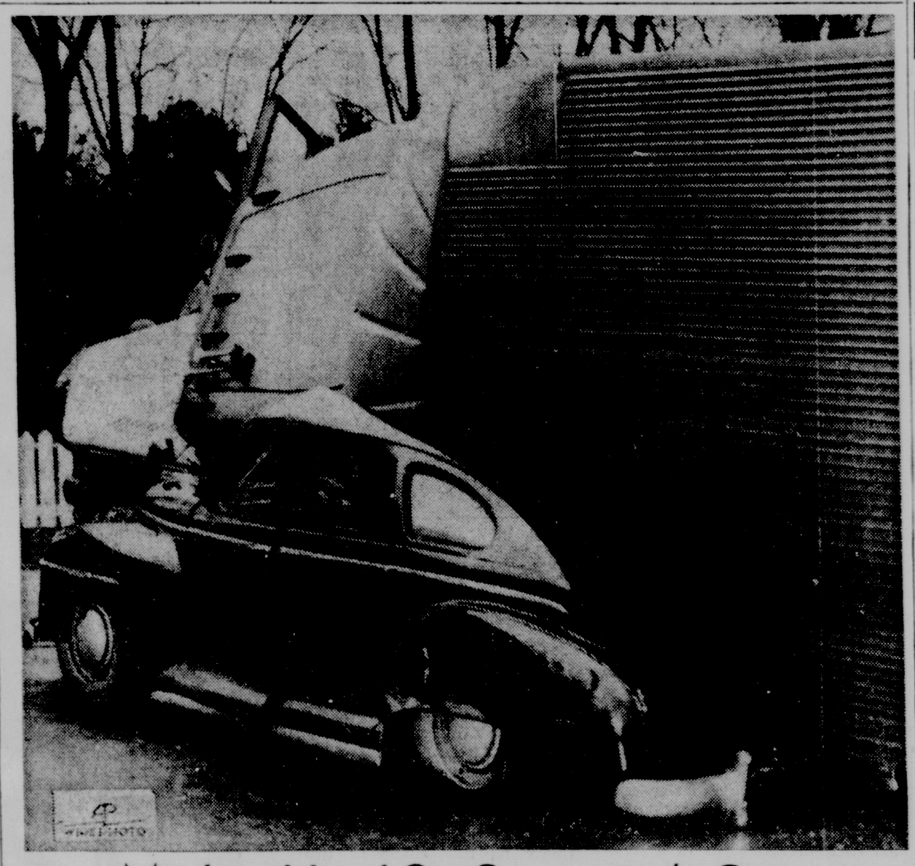
Farm Prices Decline

2. Average farm prices slipped back one per cent between mid-February and mid-March. They have advanced 26 per cent during the Korean war. The cost of things the farmer buys went up 1.5 per cent in the month to reach a new high, the Agriculture department reported.

Wholesale prices, as measured by the Bureau of Labor Statistics, remained unchanged during the week ended March 27. It was the first time in several weeks that the BLS index failed to show a new high record.

3. A Senate Small Business subcommittee asked the National Production Authority to abandon a proposed five per cent cut in rubber allocations for April. It also asked that beginning April 1 not less than 10,000 tons a month be assigned to companies other than the largest four. Small manufacturers have contended the present system injures them.

Prior to the subcommittee action, reports circulated that NPA was considering increasing its April allotment of natural rubber for civilian use by 5,000 tons. Officials said this would give small manufacturers a lift while synthetic rubber plants are increasing their production.



Mighty Hard On Someone's Car

A tractor-trailer truck which was trying not to hit a stalled auto on Route 3 near Lancaster, Pa., yesterday, swerved off the highway and overturned on a parked auto in the driveway of a diner with the above result. No one was injured.

O'Conor Pleads For Senate Unity On Troop Plans

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Sen. O'Conor (D-Md) pleaded for unity on the Senate's troops-for-Europe resolutions today, but Republicans renewed their attacks on the measures with warnings about atomic warfare.

The GOP floor leader, Sen. Wherry of Nebraska, told the Senate that if the United States were crippled by atomic attack American divisions in the Western European army would be left without support from home.

Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa) asked in another address whether President Truman has the authority "to give atomic bombs, and to authorize their use, to an international authority which is beyond the complete control of the United States."

It was the last day of debate on the resolution. On Monday the Senate will vote to decide whether:

1—To endorse the President's intention of sending four more divisions of ground troops into the North Atlantic Treaty force, and

2—To claim for Congress the right to authorize all future commitments of troops across the Atlantic.

Sen O'Conor's call for unity opened today's debate.

"The security of the United States will be served by nothing less than unstinting cooperation between the two branches of government on this important matter," he said.

"Affirmative congressional action will be helpful both at home and abroad. Such action will dissipate any last lingering hope of the Soviet government and of its satellites that we are faltering in our support of Europe."

CLEVELAND, March 30 (AP)—Archbishop Francis P. Keough, 61, of Baltimore was elected president today of the National Catholic Educational Association.

Plenty Of April Showers Likely

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Weather Bureau expects plenty of the traditional April showers in most of the country.

It said in a month-long forecast today:

"The 30-day outlook for April calls for temperatures averaging below the seasonal normal over most of the nation between the Rockies and the Appalachians. In the coastal states bordering the Pacific, Atlantic, and Gulf of Mexico, temperatures are expected to average not far from normal.

"Rainfall is expected to be abundant over most of the nation except in extreme southeast and southwest portions where subnormal rainfall is indicated."

Trainmen Accept Arbitration Plan

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen accepted, with reservations, a plan to name an arbitrator for their long dispute with the railroads.

But there remained formidable obstacles in the path of complete settlement of the two-year-argument, which has been punctuated by strikes.

The trainmen's acceptance of arbitration was announced by their President, W. Park Kennedy, at a Senate Labor subcommittee hearing.

Three other operating railroad unions, those of conductors, firemen and engineers, promptly announced they declined to go along with the trainmen. The conductors reserved judgment; the others turned it down flatly.

The trainmen tied strings to their acceptance of management's proposal for arbitration of rules governing working conditions.

Kennedy asked exclusion of one basic point from arbitration. That is the issue of how much money trainmen would be paid for coupling air hoses when they are called upon to do this work. He said this should be a matter for negotiation between the union and individual railroads.

Also, he said the trainmen do not want Dr. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, as the arbitrator.

3-Pronged Probe Of Profitable Oil Tanker Deal Due

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—A three-pronged Senate investigation was in prospect tonight as a result of a profitable oil tanker deal to which the names of a war hero admiral, a former secretary of state and other notables have been linked.

Investigating senators have received testimony that a $100,000 investment resulted in a $2,800,000 profit. The group bought five surplus government ships, chartered them and later sold them.

The Maritime Administration last night named Adm. William F. Halsey, the late former Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., and Julius C. Holmes, high in U. S. diplomatic circles, as members of the group which engineered the transaction.

Associated With Casey

The administration identified them and others as the men associated with former Rep. Joseph E. Casey (D-Mass.) in the transaction. Casey had refused Wednesday to identify his associates to a Senate Banking subcommittee already investigating the transaction.

He had challenged the group's authority to investigate the deal, which he termed "clean and honorable." No charge of impropriety has been made.

Casey on March 12 had told the group the size of the profit but insisted then he could not recall the names of his associates. His own portion of the profit, he said was $250,000—earned on a $20,000 investment.

Johnson Awaits Details

Sen. Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.), who heads the Senate Commerce Committee, tonight awaited further details from the Maritime Administration on the sale of the ships, before announcing what further steps he will take. The administration is the successor to the Maritime Commission.

He told reporters, however, that "it seems quite likely" that his group will start a big scale inquiry into the deal, possibly within a week.

Armored Unit Punches Over North Of Seoul

Reds Push Within Mile Of Chunchon

TOKYO, Saturday, March 31 (AP) — American tank forces smashed across the 38th parallel into Red North Korea today.

The crossing by U. S. troops north of Seoul came just a week after South Korean forces on the east coast punched over parallel 38 without opposition.

The republic's forces (ROKs) are more than eight miles above the parallel, beyond Yangyang village, and meeting some opposition now.

The Americans crossed where the fighting is heavier and met stiffer resistance from Red forces, who apparently are building up for a spring counteroffensive.

The American crossing was timed at 10:21 Saturday (8:21 p. m., EST, Friday).

The armored column crossed 38 on the main road north of Uijingbu. It was heading toward the Hantan River, and was reported a half mile north of the political border on the initial lunge.

American forces had been forced out of North Korea by the Chinese Reds' breakthrough that started on the Imjin River last New Year's Eve.

About 40 miles east of where U. S. tanks crossed, the Reds threw fresh troops into the central front yesterday. Today the Communists had seized positions a mile short of American-occupied Chunchon, offensive springboard for either side.

This was not the expected Red spring offensive but it may be a forerunner of it. Heavy movement of enemy traffic toward the front continued despite unrelenting Allied aerial assaults. Allied pilots said they destroyed about 100 of 1,800 vehicles sighted Friday night.

Reds Use Hand Grenades

American forces, still driving ahead against stouter resistance, reached within two miles of the 38th parallel at one undisclosed point.

The lunge close to Chunchon was the Reds' strongest push south of 38 since the Communist Chinese and North Koreans began their withdrawal six weeks ago.

Some of the day's sharpest fighting was in the sector west of Changgo, 25 miles northeast of Seoul on a highway running northeast out of Uijongbu.

A small Red force attacked with hand grenades against Americans advancing into hill positions. Another American force, attacking northwest of Changgo, was opposed by heavy rifle and machine-gun fire but pushed ahead.

The Communists from the fresh 26th Chinese Army Corps appeared to be trying to hold high ground in the sector between the Uibongju-Yonchon road and the Unjongbu-Changgo road, two main highway routes leading into Seoul.

There was evidence of a Communist withdrawal across the Imjin River in the Munsan area 21 miles northwest of Seoul. U. S. troops pushed north for substantial gains Friday south and east of the Imjin.

Red casualties in Friday's action were listed as 585 killed or wounded and 36 prisoners.

Red Jet Shot Down

At least 30,000 rested Chinese troops were rushed into central front positions, field reports said. These replaced battle casualties and troops incapacitated by disease.

Once again a massive Red buildup appeared definitely underway. Allied commanders anticipated a spring drive sometime during the first three weeks of April from as many as 270,000 fresh or well-rested Chinese of the Third Field Army.

Red aircraft also were more venturesome Friday. Up to 48 Russian-built MIG jets crossed south of the Manchurian border to attack American jets. One MIG was shot down in flames. Two more were damaged but escaped. No American planes were lost.

Little School Made Famous By Mary, Lamb Will Close

SOUTH SUDBURY, Mass., March 30 (AP)—School will be out forever, come June, in the most famous little red schoolhouse in the country—the one to which Mary's little lamb followed Mary nearly 150 years ago.

An empty half-ruined shell in 1926, the old school building which once stood in the Second School District of the town of Sterling, was moved by Automobile Manufacturer Henry Ford to his Wayside Inn property and there opened to classes.

Today, the trustees of Wayside Inn Corporation announced that the school would be closed at the end of the school year and that its 17 students would thenceforth be absorbed into the public school system in the area.

Mary Elizabeth Sawyer, born in 1806, was a student in the school at Sterling long ago.

"Mary had a little lamb. Its fleece was white as snow. And everywhere that Mary went, the lamb was sure to go; it followed her to school one day, that was against the rule. It made the children laugh and play to see a lamb in school." So according to tradition, wrote John Roulstone, an older student, who was preparing for his Harvard entrance examinations.

Boost In Corporation Income Tax Backed To Give Teachers Pay Hike

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 30 (AP) —An increase in the income tax on corporations got attention of the Legislature today as a way to give salary increases to teachers.

But even if the taxes are voted, Gov. McKeldin promised a veto.

The Governor, who has consistently opposed any kinds of tax boosts, said:

"No tax boost will come out of this session with my approval."

The Senate Finance Committee voted to approve the tax increase so $3,200,000 a year could be raised and give teachers a flat $200 increase.

The present tax on corporate net income is four per cent. It was estimated that a proposed increase of one per cent would increase the yield from $14,550,000 a year to $18,170,000. If a $200 pay increase were granted, the extra one per cent would about take care of it.

The House Ways and Means Committee overwhelmingly backed a $300 raise. And it suggested the same money provider, an additional charge on corporation income. The full House set aside the committee recommendation temporarily.

The issue of more pay for teachers, debated at length early in the session, has come out front again in the last 24 hours. Whether any final action would be taken before the 1951 session ends was still a question.

With the $163,000,000 budget bill out of the way, the General Assembly turned its mind to other money

Aly Denies Report Rita May Leave Him

Cairo, Egypt, Saturday, March 31 (AP)—Prince Aly Khan, through his secretary, today termed "complete nonsense" a report that his wife, Movie Actress Rita Hayworth, is considering a separation.

The secretary, Ibrahim Nato, said he had been authorized by the Prince to deny the report published in the New York Post. Aly arrived here last night from Beirut, Lebanon, after a tour of Syria where some 100,000 Ismaili Moslems, spiritual followers of his father, the Agha Khan, live.

"The Princess (Rita) left Prince Aly early in March when he was on a hunting tour in East Africa," Nato said. "She went to Cannes to see her children, and from France she is going to the states. I am authorized by Prince Aly Khan to say that the published separation report is complete nonsense."

Death, Last Mailman, Comes For Little Bobby Hiftline

DETROIT, March 30 (AP)—Death, the last mailman, came today for little Bobby Hiftline.

He knocked for Bobby as the six-year-old cancer sufferer slept in an oxygen tent at Ford Hospital here.

They rode together then, it seemed, down the lonely farm road near Adrian, Mich., where Bobby had watched so long for another mailman.

That mailman had brightened the last days of Bobby's short life by bringing him more than 300,000 letters and packages from well-wishers.

His mother, Mrs. Henry Hiftline, had written to the New York Times newspaper, explaining that her son had only "a few weeks or months to live."

He liked to watch for the mailman, she said, and was thrilled when he stopped. So she asked a "few kind people" to drop Bobby a card.

The story was carried by the Associated Press, and within a day or so, the first of the 300,000 letters began arriving.

They overflowed the Hiftline home, and at last, were carted off in trucks to the basement of the First Baptist Church in Adrian.

A few were still arriving today, as plans were laid for Bobby's funeral, in the same church.

But first, an autopsy will be performed on Bobby's body "in hopes," Mrs. Hiftline said, "that it may help in cancer research."

Southern Floods Force Hundreds To Leave Homes

[By The Associated Press]

Rampaging southern rivers, which already have driven 1,200 persons from their homes, posed new threats today to South Alabama and East Mississippi rural areas. Two drowned in Mississippi and an Alabama man was missing.

The rivers crested at some danger points in North and Central Alabama and began a slow decline. But the muddy torrents were on the rise downsteram. Near-record stages were threatened there.

The streams were swollen past bursting by two days of record rains in mid-week.

No Estimate Of Damage

There was no authoritative estimate of the damage so far. But indications were that it would run into the millions of dollars. This includes damage to roads and bridges, homes and stores in the path of the flood waters, and the loss in livestock and early crops along the river sheds.

The danger apparently was past at Northport, little West Alabama town of 3,000 that was largely engulfed when the Warrior River surged upward 42 feet in a 24-hour period.

The river crested there at 66 feet and began a slow fall of one-tenth of a foot an hour.

Childersburg Hard Hit

Northport had been almost paralyzed since back waters flowed into its business section two days ago. About 200 were forced to flee from their homes there.

Another hard-hit town was Childersburg, across the state from Northport. Between 800 and 1,000 persons were evacuated there after the usually mild Coosa surged out of its banks and sent flood waters as much as five feet deep into the city.

The river was up to 29.8 feet and still rising. Simple flood stage is 20 feet.

A battery of National Guardsmen from nearby Sylacauga was on duty at Childersburg. Mayor Earl Rainwater said about 200 homes were partly under water.

Showdown On UAW Dues Issue Assured

CLEVELAND, O., March 30 (AP)—A showdown battle at next week's CIO United Auto Workers convention was assured today when Union President Walter Reuther bluntly announced he would accept no compromise on a hot dues raise issue.

Reuther's proposed one dollar monthly dues boost would provide the UAW a strike fund of up to $15,000,000—biggest in history. It also would earmark ten cents a month per member for a "citizenship" fund—sort of a political action kitty.

Reuther charged that John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers union was contributing funds to his opposition in an effort to defeat the dues hike and to "disrupt our union."

Report On Md. Election Probe Due In Mid-April

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP)—Chairman Monroney (D-Okla.) said today it will be mid-April or later before his committee can make a report on the Maryland Senate campaign investigation.

He said the hearings which began Feb. 20 would end next week. Then it will take a week or two to prepare a report.

Former Democratic Sen. Millard Tydings will be heard Tuesday for the second time. It was Tydings' complaint of "smear" tactics by supporters of Sen. Butler (R-Md.) that led to the inquiry.

Butler declined to express an opinion to a reporter today on the conflicting testimony so far taken.

matters. Under the Constitution, no appropriation measures can be considered until the budget is passed.

The House and Senate passed the record-breaking budget last night.

Within a matter of hours there were these developments:

Both House and Senate committees got to work on what to do about teachers' salaries.

The Senate Finance Committee voted out a $90,000,000 bonus bill for veterans of both world wars. It carries a referendum for the voters to decide on a bonus at the November, 1952, election.

The House Ways and Means Committee gave approval to a bond issue of $19,005,000 for various construction work and another for $1,500,000 for Johns Hopkins University. A $2,500,000 bond issue for civil defense was held back.

The House passed the Johns Hopkins bill at its afternoon session and sent it to the Senate.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill for a $5,000,000 bond issue to build a new state office building in or near Annapolis. It passed 21 to 7, with five Baltimore City senators and Sen. Turnbull (D-Baltimore) and McNabb (D-Hartford) opposed.

Deputy Marshal Mae Maher at International Airport, New York, after being arrested yesterday for alleged failure to register as a foreign agent. Ferrer Says Winning Oscar Slap At Those Trying To Smear Him

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—Jose Ferrer said today his winning of a Hollywood Oscar for 1950's top film performance by an actor was a direct slap at those trying to smear him as a Red.

Ferrer, who was voted filmdom's most prized award for his acting in "Cyrano De Bergerac," heard of his triumph last night in a small Spanish night club on 52nd Street.

Piped in on the ABC national radio hookup, Ferrer told listeners he considered his victory "an act of faith and a vote of confidence."

As the celebration in the roaring tightly-jammed nightspot wore on into the early morning hours he explained what he meant.

"This is a direct rebuke to the people who tried maliciously to affect the voting by things that are (A) beside the point and (B) untrue," he said.

The actor is under subpoena to appear before the House Un-American Activities Committee April 25 in its investigation of Communist influences in Hollywood.

Navy Pilot Wins Medal Of Honor

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — The Navy's first Medal of Honor in the Korean war will go to a Fall River, Mass., pilot, who crash-landed his plane in enemy territory in an effort to save a fellow airman's life.

Lt. (j. g.) Thomas J. Hudner will receive the nation's highest military honor from President Truman at a White House ceremony on April 13.

The shipmate whom Lt. Hudner risked his life to save was Ensign Jesse Leroy Brown, the first negro naval officer to lose his life in any American war. He was also the first negro naval aviator.

The two pilots from the aircraft carrier Leyte were flying close support over rugged mountains of North Korea last Dec. 2 while the First Marine Division and Seventh Army Division units were fighting their way from the Chosin reservoir.

Brown's plane went down in a rough field about five miles beyond the American positions. The flight leader, Lt. Commander Richard L. Cevoli of East Greenwich, Conn., said he saw that Ensign Brown was alive so he went off to call for a rescue helicopter and left Hudner and another pilot to destroy the crashed plane as soon as Brown got clear.

Lt. Hudner began to circle the area in an attempt to protect the injured pilot against hundreds of Chinese Reds in the vicinity. Seeing Brown's plane catch fire, Hudner crash-landed his own plane and ran to the trapped pilot. He could not open the cockpit canopy, so he packed snow around the fuselage to keep the flames away from Ensign Brown.

Hudner was soon joined by a Marine helicopter pilot. Both were in constant danger from the swarming Chinese. They worked with fire axes and fire extinguishers but were unable to pull Ensign Brown from the burning wreckage before he died.

Defense Rental Ceilings Urged

WASHINGTON, March 30 (AP) — An effective system of rent ceilings on most new defense housing was recommended to the Senate today by its banking committee.

The rental ceilings would apply to all units constructed under a proposed $1,500,000,000 fund to aid defense housing.

Under its new single or two-family houses with two, three or four bedrooms would rent to defense workers or military personnel at not more than $75 to $95 monthly.

New row-houses or walk-up apartments would range from $77 to $99 monthly.

The rent ceilings were spelled out today in a lengthy committee report outlining details of the vast new defense housing bill previously reported.

It is expected to be the next major legislation taken up in the Senate.

C.& O. Canal Lock Parts Not Considered Junk

HAGERSTOWN, Md., March 30 (AP)—The U. S. government served notice today that iron parts of 79 locks of the old Chesapeake and Ohio Canal can't be considered junk.

U. S. Commissioner C. Welles Little dismissed three youths charged with taking parts of lock gates in the southern end of Washington County but warned them they would get jail sentence for any future offense.

Little emphasized that the metal is not considered abandoned scrap.

Samuel H. Hower, U. S. park policeman, testfied that the boys sold the iron for $3.50 but it cost the federal government $1,500 to replace it in the event the old canal is restored.

He's Only 8 Tons Behind In Reading

BOSTON, March 30 (AP) — Edward Stockbridge, 82, is a literary gentleman who's a bit behind in his reading.

That's why he has eight tons of newspapers in his house.

The fire department submitted photographs to the Roxbury District Court today to show that the weight of the newspapers and periodicals on floors in the ten-room brick house was such that walls were separating from ceilings.

Stockbridge assured Judge Frankland W. L. Miles that he has been "working on this literature from daylight to nightfall for literary purposes."

Judge Miles continued the case until April 11 when he plans to make a personal tour of the house.

TRAIN TRAPPED BY EARTH SLIDE—A landslide trapped this locomotive of an Illinois Central freight train near Ackerman, Miss. The big engine plowed into the mass of earth on the track as the train rounded a curve. A hill prevented the engineer from seeing the dirt until it was too late to stop. The locomotive and four cars were derailed but nobody was hurt. Heavy rain caused the landslide.

Ten Summoned In Primary Probe

BALTIMORE, March 30 (AP)—Ten political figures and defeated candidates were called today to appear before the grand jury in an "immediate, full and complete investigation" of Baltimore's recent primary election.

The probe was ordered by Judge Joseph Sherbow following complaints of "lavish expenditures of money" in the primary campaigns.

Witnesses summoned to appear next Monday and Tuesday included Mrs. Lillian Klecka, Edward A. Freburger and William Greenfeld, all defeated candidates for the City Council, and William J. Muth, city councilman who lost out in a bid for nomination to the council presidency.

Other political leaders called were George J. Mueller, Joseph Obrycki, Patrick F. O'Malley, Patrick Regan, Max Cohen and the Rev. H. Clifton Owens. The Rev. Mr. Owens is the only Republican in the group.

Even if no wrong doing is uncovered, Judge Sherbow believes the jury study may bring improvement of the Corrupt Practices Act.

Commissioners Study Plan For Issuing Permits

A proposed resolution providing fr issuance of permits by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners was discussed yesterday by th board with J. Walker Chapman, suervisor of the County Roads Department.

The permits for crossing of county rods by utilities and contractors are deemed necessary to eliminate futre problems and make certain roadways are replaced properly.

Chapman would be given full autority in the matter of issuing perits under the resolution.

A situation pertaining to county roas was brought up by Joseph Stele, of Lonaconing. He reported to he board that the Water Station Road has been damaged by a Cuberland contracting firm which has been using the road to haul heay equipment to a strip mining operation above Lonaconing.

The attorney to the board was instructed to notify the contractors to rfrain from damaging the road. It i against the law to damage roadways by driving or transporting heavy equipment over them.

Pillip Devine, of Fairgo, appeard before the board to ask that cinders scraped from his roadway by ounty workers be replaced. The mater was referred to Chapman.

Walter Hansrote appeared before the board to notify the commissioners that rights of way can be obtined for proposed work on the Keier Road below Oldtown.

The board also authorized Chapman to put Ernest Drew in charge of all blasting and shooting on county road work. Chapman said Drw is an ex-coal miner and is experienced in handling explosives on this type of work.

Chapman also was granted permission to stockpile stone in various sections of the county for surface treating work this summer.

Campbell Coal Company Given Tax Abatement

An order was passed by the Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday granting the Campbell Coal Company an abatement of $435 in taxes for 8.67 acres of coal lands which became depleted during the past year.

The coal firm listed 25,053 tons of coal mined at the Hampshire Mine and 959 tons at the Phoenix Mine last year. It was at these two operations that the acreage was depleted of coal.

J. Byron Dowling, senior state sanitarian, submitted 17 complaints concerning property owners on the McMullen Highway who are maintaining nuisances through faulty sewage disposal. The board approved the action of the Health Department in ordering the property owners to eliminate the sewage nuisance.

The board received an invitation to attend a meeting of the Western Shore County Commissioners Association on April 11 at 11 a.m. at Frederick. The group will consider changes in the by-laws and constitution for the County Commissioners Association of the State of Maryland, which is the main organization of commissioners in the state.

Keith Seegmiller, an official of the National Association of County Officials, will address the group and discuss the method of making proposed changes in the by-laws and constitution.

Investigations And Careers

The current Congressional investigations into crime, RFC loans, the 1950 Maryland Senatorial selection, and Communist ramifications could well start some of the investigators on the road to high office. Certain outstanding investigations of the past launched eminent political careers. Others didn't.

Harry S. Truman had been viewed as the common or garden variety of Senator in 1942, after seven years of Senate service, when made chairman of the special Senate committee to investigate the domestic defense program. His excellent work in that investigation made him the candidate of Democrats fighting the renomination of Vice President Wallace in 1944.

Crime investigations started the political career of Mr. Truman's opponent for the presidency in 1948. Thomas E. Dewey was a young lawyer in private practice in New York City in 1935 when named prosecutor for a special grand jury looking into corruption. District Attorney Dodge had suggested four other persons for the post, but each declined and recommended Dewey, whereupon Governor Lehman instructed Dodge to appoint Dewey.

Dewey had previously been counsel to the New York Bar Association on the removal of a municipal justice, an assistant U. S. attorney, then U. S. attorney. His success as prosecutor of criminals in 1935-37 led to his election as district attorney in 1937, and in the following year he was nominated for governor. He lost but was elected four years later. In 1944 and 1948 he was the Republican presidential nominee, and a different type of campaign in 1948 could have made him president.

One of Dewey's predecessors as Republican governor of New York and presidential nominee also came into the public eye from investigations. Charles Evans Hughes in 1905 was made counsel to the committee of the New York legislature that disclosed large political contributions by insurance companies. He had previously been counsel in another investigating committee of the legislature.

Hughes declined the nomination for mayor of New York in 1905, was elected governor in 1907 and again in 1909, resigned to go on the U. S. Supreme Court. He was nominated for president in 1916, would probably have been elected except for a campaign oversight in California, later became Secretary of State and Chief Justice.

Then there was Charles S. Whitman. He was district attorney in New York City when a gambler named Rosenthal, about to "sing" on bribes to police officers, was murdered in 1911. Whitman had the paid assassins, also Police Lieutenant Charles Becker, sent to the electric chair for the murder, and was elected governor in 1914. He was mentioned for the Republican presidential nomination in 1916 but Hughes got the nod.

Sen. Thomas J. Walsh of Montana uncovered the oil lease scandals of the Harding Administration but never got much consideration for the Democratic presidential nomination. Chosen for attorney general by President-elect Roosevelt in 1933, he died several days before he was to take office. Sen. Burton K. Wheeler of Montana disclosed corruption in the Justice Department under Harding, ran for vice president in 1924 on the LaFolette third party ticket, in 1946 was defeated in the Democratic primaries for renomination to the Senate. Rep. Martin Dies of Texas received much publicity as chairman of the House committee on Un-American Activities but at the apex of his fame declined to run again for the House.

Corn—How Big A Crop

The Department of Agriculture has been saying right along that there is no cause for apprehension that the rearmament program will cause a food shortage. Now it is changing that tune a little. It has just issued a report to the effect that production of some vital food and livestock feed crops this year may fall considerably short of needs. It indicates special concern over corn.

When the experts come up with their forecasts, bright or gloomy, who is to challenge them? But cursory examination of the figures reveals that the 1951 goal, 3,500,000,000 bushels, is high. Only once in all its history has the nation produced a crop of that size. That was in 1948 when farmers harvested 3,682,000,000 bushels of corn.

Here are some more interesting statistics: The department says that the acreage farmers are now planning to put in corn will produce only 3,050,000,000 bushels at relatively high average yields per acre. However, though it has been aiming at getting 90,000,000 acres planted to corn, the prospective acreage of 85,694,000 is 1,324,000 acres above 1950. And the yield last year was approximately 3,200,000,000 bushels.

It is also true that a 3,050,000,000 crop is quite formidable. There have been only three crops in history that have exceeded that total by as much as 250,000,000 bushels. And in the years 1939-1943 inclusive there was only one that saw a yield of more than 3,000,000,000 bushels.

All this may not add up to a refutation of the department's report. It's reasonable to believe that the demand for meat will stimulate the demand for corn, as predicted, and cause a relative shortage. But the expected results should be blamed on the supply. If it reaches expectations, it will be large.

Britons To Migrate?

Danger of a large-scale economic war is the motive of a proposal for evacuating 20,000,000 Britons from Great Britain to commonwealth countries.

This proposal has been made in all seriousness to Prime Minister Attlee by the Migration Council, composed of influential Britons including members of Parliament. Such a wide migration would involve 40 per cent of the estimated British population of 50,519,000. At present some 1,700 to 1,800 persons weekly are going to Australia with government encouragement.

The justification for this gigantic new plan is threefold: first, to save possibly millions of Britons in a third world war; second, to ease the strain on a country "demonstrably overpopulated" with industry over-centralized; third, to aid the European-settled dominions, lacking in population and with undeveloped resources. That means Canada, Australia and New Zealand principally.

It is asserted a poll has revealed that 35 per cent of the population of Britain would be willing to move abroad under advantageous circumstances.

It was disclosed recently that the Army has more veterinarians than it has horses. Veterans know from memorable experience that it also has more canned meat than men.

How To Keep Well

The Meaning Of Coughs

AIR PASSAGEWAYS of the lungs (bronchi) are cleared through the coughing reflex. This occurs whenever the nerve endings in the membranes of the bronchial tubes are irritated thru dust, gases, inflammation, mucus, and allergy. Even excessive dryness may bring it on and we wonder sometimes why everyone living in a steam-heated apartment is not bothered along this line.

Most coughs are caused by colds, however. As a medical student I found this out thru and embarrassing experience. We were examining patients in the clinic and the professor asked me what was wrong with the middle-aged man who was being examined. My patient had been coughing for a week and felt miserable. As a neophyte, I thought of the various possibilities and stated that he might have tuberculosis, cancer of the lung, abcess, or even unresolved pneumonia. Several other students were called into the room and I was asked to repeat the discussion. Finally, when there was no more to be said, the professor stated, "Maybe your patient has an ordinary cold." Why the most common cause of cough didn't occur to me nas always haunted me. Needless to say, I never forgot the incident.

Such thinking is not unusual among the inexperienced. Many individuals suspect the worst when they become ill. The opposite also is true inasmuch as we encounter patients who are convinced they have a cold even tho the cough has lasted two months. Ordinary bronchitis does not last this long, hence X-ray is in order. This procedure is the only way to determine whether serious possibilities such as tuberculosis or cancer exist. If not, the knowledge is worth the cost because of the peace of mind it brings. On the other hand, should disease be present, treatment can be started at once.

Simple origins of cough include too much smoking or the inhalation of irritating fumes. Allergy is another source of trouble. One of my colleagues recently was consulted by the parents of a youngster who had been coughing for several months. All the X-rays were negative and the family was about to take the child down south as a palliative measure. The physician then recommended placing a steam inhalator in her bedroom. A large machine of this type was purchased and the first night it was used the youngster's cough stopped. Because the room had not been dry, and the cough could not be blamed on this factor, the girl probably was allergic to dust; the steam forced the particles to settle and eliminated this source of irritation. Tests now are being conducted to substantiate this theory.

Allergy must be kept in mind whenever bronchitis persists. Dust may be the most common but is not the only offender. Molds are suspects particularly when the individual lives in an old house. Foods must be considered and, in the warmer seasons, pollens are likely culprits. Chronic lung infections and heart disease are responsible occasionally. The latter produces a dry, hacking that is more likely to occur when lying flat in bed or after exertion. With appropriate treatment, the heart regains its strength and cough disappears.

TOMORROW: Impaired circulation to the feet.

CONTACT LENSES

R. C. writes: Can contact lenses be worn in myopia?

REPLY

Yes; this is one of the conditions in which they have been employed. Send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on contact lenses.

SKIN DEFECT

G. R. Writes: Is there any cure for keratosis pilaris? My husband has not responded to various treatments including X-ray.

REPLY

This skin condition is difficult to treat but it responds occasionally to drugs that soften the skin or to X-ray therapy. But results rarely are permanent and in this respect cure is difficult to obtain. The lesions are somewhat similar to those caused by a vitamin A deficiency. Both resemble gooseflesh but in keratosis pilaris the stippled appearance is caused by plugging of the hair follicles thru hardened secretions.

CRAMPING WHILE SKATING

N. B. writes: My arches cramp when I go ice skating. Pain is so bad I have to take off the skates and rub my feet. What causes this?

REPLY

If your skates, shoes, and hose are large enough, cramping may be caused by poor circulation or the unusual strain associated with holding the ankles rigid.

IRRIGATIONS

J. C. writes: Will colon irrigations help arthritis?

REPLY

No. Now and then backache stems from constipation but there are easier ways of promoting elimination than by colon irrigations.

OLD AUREOMYCIN

D. T. writes: Does aureomycin lose its value if it sits in the medicine cabinet for a month?

REPLY

No.

Laxity Of U. S. Attorneys Makes Senate Crime Probe Continuation Desirable; In Three Cases U. S. Attorneys Refused To Prosecute Guilty Persons

WASHINGTON—There are more reasons than meet the eye why the Kefauver crime probe should be indefinitely continued. One of them is the general lethargy of U. S. attorneys.

This lethargy is partly due to the system under which U. S. attorneys are appointed—a system which has developed without the blessing of the Constitution and which the average layman does not realize exists.

Today no U. S. district attorney in any of the 48 states is appointed without the personal blessing of the leading Democratic senator or Democratic political boss from that state. As a result the district attorney's office has become a matter of patronage—a part of the political machine which helps pave the way for re-election.

Naturally the senator who appoints, later influences. And the man who influences a district attorney with his power of prosecution or forgiveness, the power of jail or freedom, in some cases the power of life or death, is a powerful person himself.

That is why senators fight for the self-acquired right to name U. S. district attorneys. They are not given this right under the Constitution, but they are given the right to confirm district attorneys; and they have used the power of confirmation in such a way as to hamstring the Justice Department if it appoints a district attorney or a judge not acceptable to the interested senator.

Roosevelt had the courage to tangle with the Senate and appoint district attorneys on the basis of ability not politics. But not Truman. Truman has had courage in regard to some judges and has bucked the Senate on the appointment of a few judges—as in Iowa with Carroll Switzer; and as in Georgia with Neil Andrews — both opposed by Senators Gillette and Russell of these respective states.

In regard to district attorneys, however, Truman started setting the pattern the same week he became president by bouncing the U. S. attorney in Kansas City who had jailed Boss Pendergast, Maurice Milligan—an attorney whom he, as senator, had vigorously opposed, even held up his confirmation. And having blocked the confirmation of Milligan in Kansas City, he has since permitted senators virtually to name the U. S. attorneys in their states.

This means that local law enforcement as far as federal law is concerned is left largely up to the local political machine set up by the Democratic senators, governors or political bosses of each state. That is why many senators opposed creation of the Kefauver Crime Committee in the first place. That is also why Kefauver's resolution was held up in the Seante for four months last winter and did not pass until after I personally urged Sen. Scott Lucas, then majority leader of the Senate, that it would put him in a bad light if he did not give it the green light.

Lucas, I understand, has since regretted that decision and attributes his defeat to untimely and unfair disclosures of the Kefauver committee in Chicago. Personally, I was sorry about Lucas' defeat because I regarded him as an able and conscientious senator. However, both in war and in politics, casualties are inevitable in attaining major objectives.

There are many fine U. S. attorneys who do bang-up jobs. Many, however, take their cues from political leaders, also many become lethargic, forget that it is their job to crusade against crime. Here are a few examples:

In Maryland, last year, alert Treasury agents had caught Earl Sheriff, former sheriff of Prince Georges County, right under the shadow of the Capitol, taking protection money from the local gambling fraternity. The Treasury asked for income-tax prosecution, the Justice Department concurred and the case was sent to U. S. Attorney Bernard Flynn in Baltimore.

However, Flynn did not prosecute. He informed Washington that the case lacked sufficient evidence. In this instance, there was no indication that Flynn was taking a cue from either of the Maryland senators, though the local gamblers have been tied up with part of the local Maryland machine. But for reasons best known to himself Flynn sent the case back to the Justice Department.

Later this column published the facts regarding Earl Sheriff, following which he confessed to taking protection money. He pled guilty and no trial was necessary.

A similar case occurred in Alabama, where Sam Ripps and Joe Mitchell had made a small fortune selling jewelry to Army PX's but ducked paying income taxes on it. Hard - working Treasury agents caught them, recommended prosecution, and the Justice Department, concurring, sent the case on to John Hill, the U. S. attorney in Birmingham, Ala.

However, Ripps and Mitchell hired Ben Leader, former law partner of the U. S. attorney, and U. S. Attorney Hill eventually sent the case back to Washington marked "no prosecution." There it sat until this writer dug out the full facts and published them.

Whereupon the Justice Department reopened the case, went over the head of the U. S. Attorney in Birmingham to the U. S. attorney in Mobile. Ripps and Mitchell then went to jail.

Right Under D. A.'s Nose

Another case occurred closer to home — right under the Justice Department's nose. It involved an important member of the Washington police force, Lt. Joseph Shimon, who was attached to the staff of the U. S. attorney for the District of Columbia, Morris Fay.

In September 1949 an official po-

Why Stop Inflation?

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE PRESENT debate in Congress on sending troops to Europe is a part of the current stage of our post-war relations with Communist Russia.

The first stage, during 1945 and much of 1946, was a period of belief on our part that Russia wanted peace, that she would cooperate with the United States for permanent peace, that the United Nations would be successful, that there would be "One World." It was because of these beliefs that we demobilize our armed forces, in large part disarmed.

The second stage began with recognition by us that Russia did not want peace in the world, that she wanted continuation of post-war prostration and chaos, because that condition would make war-weary and war-poor nations susceptible to communism; that because of Russia the United Nations could not function successfully, that there would be no "One World."

No "One World"

The third stage carried our relations with Communist Russia further. We recognized that she wanted world domination. We knew that we would resist and we told the other non-Communist nations that we would give them help to resist. We knew definitely now that there would be two worlds, the Communist one led by Russia, a non-Communist one led by us.

The fourth stage came with the Communist invasion of South Korea. This was, on the part of Russian communism, an act of aggression by force, even though the force was exercised by a puppet.

The Communist aggression in Korea brought two landmarks. We knew that a third world war was now a real potentiality. And we knew that we must arm, we began the vast program of military strength in which we are now engaged.

Upon recognition that a third world war was a real possibility, military strategists and men of thought put their minds on analysis of the prospect. An especially thoughtful analysis made last August by Harold E. Stassen, president of the University of Pennsylvania, put strong emphasis on a premise. Russia's purpose is inexorable, the "ruthless rulers in the Kremlin have world domination as their grim fixed objective." This premise is one to keep in mind.

Mr. Stassen also put emphasis on one of the methods Russia would be likely to follow. She would try to achieve her conquest not so much by use of her own armed forces as by use of puppets, as in Korea. She will, Mr. Stassen says, seek to achieve conquest by "continuous embroiling of . . . the United States in minor wars at distant difficult points to tire and weaken us and bleed us white."

All analyses and estimates of Russia's blueprint, as respects conquest of the United States directly and specifically, must give great weight to reliance by her upon economic debacle here. Expectation of economic debacle in the United States has been a premise of Communist thought held by Stalin and by Lenin before him. Communist ideology holds that capitalist countries and capitalism as an economic system will break down through forces within themselves. Light on this point is to be found in revelations about Stalin and the Politburo contained in "Behind Closed Doors" by Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias. An "economic estimate" prepared for Stalin in 1949 led him to base "his plans on an inevitability of an American depression in 1954 . . ."

In all this is warning for our people. The economic debacle which the Kremlin relies upon could result from our present inflation if it should go on to a violent and extreme stage. Prevention of that is as important as military success in Korea.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

"If there is another war," says General Bob Eichelberger, "I recommended that the military, the correspondents, and everyone else concerned, drop the phrase 'mopping up' from their vocabularies. It is not a good enough phrase to die for."

Eichelberger's book, "Our Jungle Road to Tokyo," written in collaboration with Milton Mackaye, is not only a thrill-packed story, but particularly timely today. Here is one of the General's grimmer observations: "I think, insofar as Army officers are concerned, that the concept of graceful losing can be overdone; in combat warfare there may be no game next week."

A young secretary who never had attended a symphony concert in her life was given a complimentary ticket for the Philadelphia Orchstra by a salesman seeking a friend at court. She was so anxious to look her best that the concert had gotten under way by the time she arrived. "What are they playing?" she asked an usher. "Beethoven's Eighth Symphony," was the reply. "Oh, dear," sighed the secretary, "am I as late as that?"

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Lawlessness And The Law

THE Kefauver investigation is important and should be continued so that the character of dual government can be exposed. But the question must arise as to what can be done about this sordid business.

The public is no more against a bet than it was against a drink during prohibition and while we might establish laws against betting or to make betting more difficult, we must watch out that we do not move into another prohibition situation during which the marriage between lawlessness and government was consummated.

Certain problems need to be considered not only from the standpoint of our disgust with the mean-faced gangsters whom we saw on television, but also from the broader position of maintaining our free institutions and constitutional government.

For instance, I do not think that the telephone company should be a law enforcement agency any more than a Woolworth store should be a law enforcement agency. If Erickson or Costello or any of their kind apply for telephones, the telephone company should never have the right to reject their application on grounds of moral trepitude. That is a function of the law, not of a private business.

What ever crimes these men commit are their crimes, and for them they should be prosecuted in the courts of law, in an open trial, in accordance with the Constitution. The men are guilty, not the mechanical devices they use.

It will in no manner lessen gambling nor the power of gamblers to restrict their use of the telephone or the mails. They will find means to convey their data, just as the Communists in this country got their instructions by reading certain dispatches in newspapers, the senders and recipients of which were innocent. The astute criminal and conspiratorial mind can devise means for meeting difficult situations.

This problem is one of law enforcement. In federal cases, that is, in those involving activities in interstate commerce, the Department of Justice is responsible for law enforcement. I am not as worried about dope peddling or the importation of heroin, marijuana and similar drugs that weaken our population. The gangsters that engage in such businesses should be prosecuted.

The fact that they may use telephones or the mails in their business should not be considered any more than that they use chairs and tables. What we need to do is to punish these men and to punish them with the full force of the law.

On the local level, it is the people who are really at fault. As long as only 50 per cent of the Americans entitled to elect officials vote on election day, the voice of the people is not making itself heard in this country. When local law enforcement officers and even judges are known by their neighbors to be unfit men and yet are elected year after year, respect for the law will not be very high.

We face, therefore, a problem in fundamentals. The real criminals are the local officials. The real culprits are the people who vote for crooks, knowing them to be crooks, or who do not vote at all and thereby sell their own governments to the combination of gangsters and public officials.

Until the people of this country recognize their own responsibility, no new legislation will have any value. Actually, there are plenty of good laws on the statute books which are not enforced. When Abner (Longie) Zwillman risked citation for contempt, when asked to list those politicians to whom he had contributed, he put the whole position clearly. He admitted thereby that it would incriminate him and the politicians if the people saw the pattern of association between those engaged or who had been engaged in underworld activities and public officials.

Lawlessness is our abiding sin as a people, and our greatest danger is that government will collapse altogether if it has not already done so in many areas of American life. Turning the FBI into a national police force will not solve this problem, for the worst of it remains on the local level where gangsters and officials are partners in the perpetuation of lawlessness.

When we, each one of us, recognize this and act upon it, this camarilla of crooks, whether inside or outside the Mafia, will cease to subvert this country. Passing new legislation of doubtful constitutionality will not solve our problems; it will only add more pages to our law books.

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Way over there in Peiping where they listen to the hourly broadcasts of news from the United States, the Chinese Communists must be having many a chuckle as they learn how scared the UN and various American spokesmen seem to be about crossing the 38th Parallel. It certainly doesn't persuade the Red Chinese that they should quit. Rather it encourages them to keep on harassing our troops.

Just about the time that the forces of General MacArthur have inflicted considerable punishment on the Chinese divisions and the way is opened for a "cease fire" or further military movements to carry out the mission of the UN to liberate all of Korea, press dispatches from Washington say that the UN commander doesn't have this or that authority and the impression is given that the UN commander has been reprimanded, if not discredited.

Marshall Follows Truman

President Truman began the present chapter of comment with the statement that General MacArthur didn't need any additional instructions about the 38th Parallel. No sooner had he said those words than he was pounced upon abroad as having said something indiscreet. It seems that whenever anybody talks publicly about fighting the Red Chinese and the Russian-inspired North Koreans and punishing them for their aggression and their atrocities in Korea, the conversation must be suppressed as indiscreet.

The next episode came when Secretary of Defense Marshall tried to explain to the press that MacArthur had orders to protect the security of his command and he could go anywhere he pleased to protect it. Anything like a general advance, however, up to the Yalu River would require further consultation by the UN governments with troops in Korea. The Secretary did not say that such an advance would or would not be ordered. Obviously, any broad advance would require reinforcements and large-scale activity and perhaps the bombing of bases in Manchuria. It was this contingency which Secretary Marshall properly spoke of as one that would need further consideration on a political rather than a military level. When he uses the word "political," he doesn't mean "political" in the ordinary sense but high-level "policy" about which the civilian heads of government would consult.

Confirmation of the Marshall view has since come from President Truman, who told his press conference that General MacArthur has the power to go across the 38th Parallel as he sees necessary but said that this does not necessarily mean authority to go all the way to the Manchurian border on the Yalu River.

The foregoing is plain enough, but it is the very discussion of military plans which must make the Red Chinese feel that they have nothing to fear by continuing to kill American troops and their UN allies in Korea. Nothing more serious will happen to the enemy evidently than a patrol type of counter attack within a limited area.

Mrs. Roosevelt's View

On top of these impressions of weakness and hesitation among the UN countries comes the amazing declaration by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, a member of the American delegation to the UN, that UN troops "should not ever have crossed the 38th Parallel, and we should not cross it now."

Mrs. Roosevelt thinks that the UN should stabilize their defense line at the 38th Parallel and demand negotiations with Red China. The Peiping radio has just rejected our latest peace overtures, as it has repeatedly rejected past approaches. Mrs. Roosevelt thinks the UN should answer those rejections now by moving our forces back into South Korea and that the UN should then start a rehabilitation program designed to demonstrate the UN intentions toward North Korea. One might infer that these intentions had never before been demonstrated and that perhaps, as the Red Chinese allege, the UN itself has been guilty of aggression. One wonders what assurances anybody can give that South Korea will not be attacked again.

Above all the confusion stands Mr. Truman's statement, repeated on Thursday of this week, that our goal is the establishment of a free Korea with a free government. Clearly this cannot be accomplished by recognizing any Communist authority in the north of Korea or any such boundary as the 38th Parallel again.

Vindex Man Held For Hearing In Stabbing Case

Date Has Not Been Set By Authorities

GARRETT County authorities have set no date for the hearing of Vesley Fike, 21-year-old Vindex resident who is being held in Garrett County jail in default of $500 on a charge of assaulting Clarence McRobie, 30, last Wednesday.

Sheriff Paul W. Fisher said yesterday that the date of the hearing will depend on when McRobie, now in Garrett County Memorial Hospital, is able to testify on his behalf. Sheriff added that his condition yesterday "seemed to be alright."

McRobie was allegedly stabbed by Fike during an altercation on the streets of Vindex early Wednesday.

The knife has not yet been found, and under questioning by the State's Attorney W. Dwight Stover and Sheriff Paul W. Fisher, Fike neither denied nor admitted the use of a knife.

Dr. James Feaster told authorities the man was stabbed three times in the back, in all probability with a butcher knife or a large hunting knife. One of the wounds glanced off the man's ribs and cut a glancing blow under the skin for a distance of about eight inches, he said. Another cut was about six inches in length, and the third wound was small, the doctor said.

Piecing the story together after the questioning, Sheriff Fisher said apparently McRobie had gone to Kitzmiller with three women who were identifie by authorities as Miss Hazel Fike, Edna Sharpless Nogle and Elsie Tasker. They hitchhiked a ride most of the way back to Vindex and were walking along the road near the Fike house about 1:30 a. m., when McRobie was assaulted, officers were told.

The Merry-Go-Round

lice report charged that Lieutenant Shimon had tapped the wires of Howard Hughes, head of Trans-World Airlines with the wire-tapping expenses paid by Sen. Owen Brewster of Maine. The police report also showed that Shimon had broken into a bedroom occupied by the Argentine ambassador. In neither case was Shimon acting as a policeman. He was merely making some extra money doing private detective work on the side.

Furthermore, Shimon had done this while working for U. S. Attorney Fay, right under Mr. Faye's nose.

The official police report on these transgressions of the law went both the Justice Department and to Mr. Fay in September, 1949. There the report proceeed to gather dust. The Justice Department had indicated high moral indignation regarding wire-tapping in the Amerasia case, but appeared quite content to ignore infringement of the wire-tapping law in the case of the policeman friend of the U. S. Attorney.

Finally when this column published the facts, U. S. Attorney Fay belatedly called a grand jury which proceeded to cross-examine Lieutenant Shimon. But he did not call the grand jury until just before the statute of limitations was about to expire and the unfinished case was left for a Senate committee to pursue further.

That is one reason why Senate committees are sometimes so necessary to hold a whip hand over the executive branch of the government. That is also why U. S. attorneys and local law enforcement agents will be a lot more alert if the Senate Crime Committee continues.

Habitual tension destroys the beauty and grace of hands. Teach yours to relax with these three routines!

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

TENSION IS the gremlin that works the most mischief in hand beauty. The worst of it is that the possessor of habitually tensed-hands seldom is aware of the fact.

She doesn't know that she clutches her bag, grips the arms of chairs, squeezes her fingers to the hurting point when her hands are clasped, and stands with fists clenched tight at her sides. She doesn't even see the results—the flattened knuckles, the red, white and blue patches of protesting circulation and the stand-out veins. Surely, if she did, she would make an effort to relax her fingers for beauty' sake, if for no other.

To such a woman, relaxation of the hand muscles may come hard and even take a lot of determined concentration. But for the resolute, there are hand routines that will bring success. These work two ways. They relieve all tension immediately and for a period thereafter. And second, they help to establish consciousness of hand habits, which is most important to permanent cure.

Check yourself on the tension of your hands, or ask a friend to watch them while you are not on guard. Then, perform the following routines daily for a length of time that is proportionate to the amount of tension that is discovered.

1. Sit erect in a chair with your elbow resting on the arm and your forearm perpendicular to it. Make the tightest fist that you can, and hold it for a count of five; then fling all your fingers outward as hard as you can.

Developing Beauty

2. Raise your hand in front of you, palms down and thumbs pointing toward the body, and fingers extended to full length. From the large knuckles, bend the index fingers downward, stiff and straight. Similarly bend each finger in turn.

3. Tap your fingers as though you were playing a scale on the piano. Keep your hand in a straight line from the wrist to the middle knuckle. Raise your fingers high and rhythmically. Lower them with equal emphasis.

As you free yourself from the habit of tensing your hands, watch their grace and beauty grow!

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

STOPPERS NECESSARY

WHETHER your contract be in a suit or in No Trumps, you require stoppers to keep the defenders from running their suit—or suits. In a No Trump contract, a stopper is some card which can win a trick because of its height. In a suit project, even the tiniest trump may serve that vital purpose. But if your last stopper has been used up in No Trump, or your last trump in a suit contract, you don't dare let the opponents thereafter gain the lead.

1 ♣	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
2 ♣	2 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

South ruffed the second club honor with the heart 8 and drove the trump A out with the K, whereupon West led a third club, to be ruffed by the heart 10. The overconfident and careless declarer then cleared the trump suit with his Q and J, not thinking about the fact that he also was removing the last trump from his own hand. He scored four diamonds in a row and then led the spade 5 toward the K. West came in with the A so fast you could hardly see his hands move, and almost as rapidly he laid down the club A and 8 to beat the contract two tricks.

Observation of the simples principle of protection would have protected that contract. After ruffing the second club, knocking out the heart A with the K and then ruffing the third club, all that South had to do was conserve his trumps until the spade A was out of the way. To the fifth trick, he should have led a spade. If West played low, he should have won with the K and returned the 4 to the Q, forcing the A to play. If West returned a fourth club, the heart J could have ruffed it, and the Q could have been laid down next. Then the diamond A would have been an entry to the dummy, where the heart 9 remained to take out West's last trump. The spade J and diamonds then would have completed the hand with a successful contract.

Your Week-End Question

What is the sound middle ground between those players who say they never make high pre-emptive suit bids to shut out the opponents, because they so often shut out or crowd their own partners, and those players who make pre-emptive opening bids, overcalls, raises and take-outs at practically every possible opportunity? How can the balanced player distinguish between the times when such a bid is advisable and when it is unwise?

Mrs. Couter To Head Three-Day Program

Presiding over the three-day Rebekah Assembly of Maryland which begins here Monday will be State President Catherine M. Couter, 10 Broadway Circle, a member of Colfax Lodge No. 1, of Cumberland, hosts to the 41st annual affair.

Mrs. Couter will end her tenure of office with the election of new officers Wednesday by the Assembly.

Officers To Be Elected

The extensive program will open with a banquet at Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club at 6:45 p. m. Monday, will include formal presentation of present officers Tuesday, regular business sessions, presentation of assembly degree to Past Grands of the Subordinate Lodge and Past Noble Grands of the Rebekah Lodge, a memorial to deceased members of the Maryland Assembly, special degree work and election of officers.

Chairman of arrangements for the huge three-day program is Mrs. Bertie M. Ranck, 20 Harrison Street, who is state musician for the assembly. In addition to arranging the activities for the state convention, Mrs. Ranck also is in charge of the tableau which will be a feature of the opening day banquet at the Shrine Club. Members of Colfax Lodge will assist Mrs. Ranck in the presentation of the tableau.

Follows State Policy

Following the policy of the Rebekah lodges the State President presented two deep freeze units to the Independent Order of Odd Fellows Home for the Aged at Frederick as her special project for the year.

Soliciting contributions from the 60 state lodges Mrs. Couter had the units placed at the home, a 90-acre farm which cares for the 40 aged members or relatives of the Odd Fellows and Rebekah lodges.

Members of the farm raise their own garden products, have a producing dairy, and an infirmary with night nurses, doctors, nurses aides and other available means to care for the sick or disabled.

The farm was built by the Odd Fellows organization in accordance with its policy of caring for widows or orphans of members of the group if anything happens to the head of the household.

Lodges Make Pilgrimage

The six Theta Rho girls groups and 60 Rebekah lodges assist in all functions of the organization where needed, visit the sick, relieve the distressed, bury the dead, and educate the orphan.

Once each year the Rebekah lodges make a pilgrimage to the old folks home with all lodges attending. Each lodge also holds religious services at the farm once each year.

Mrs. Couter will be presented with other state heads of the Assembly at the formal opening of the convention Tuesday morning beginning at 9:30 o'clock.

Reservations have been made for 350 delegates of all state lodges to attend the opening banquet Monday at which Harry I. Stegmaier, local attorney will be the main speaker.

Progress Noted In Drive Against Sewage On Roads

Steady progress is being made this spring in correcting the many complaints of sewage seeping upon highways of Allegany County.

Health Department officials said about 20 complaints have been checked each week during March and add that at least double that number will be investigated each week from now until fall.

State Roads Commission officials reported last week that up to 300 cases of sewage seepage will be referred to the County Health Department.

Drainage from homes, SRC officials said, caused continual trouble during severe weather as the warm seepage filled drainage ditches and froze, then began to spread out and build up over the highways.

In one week, officials said, icy spots up to 150 feet wide built up on several highways, creating a condition so dangerous that warning signs and lights had to be used to protect motorists.

The untreated sewage is a hazard to health at all times, officials said, and provides a breeding ground for mosquitoes and a garden spot for weeds.

Dr. Winter R. Frantz, city and county health officer, said virtually all property owners have been cooperating splendidly when the cases are brought to their attention.

State and county sanitarians, headed by J. B. Dowling, have been assisting property owners in correcting the nuisances.

Dowling said in many cases the conditions exist due to improperly installed septic tanks or inadequate drainage fields.

The three pronged drive is being conducted by the Health Department, the State Roads Commission and the Board of Allegany County Commissioners.

Rockne, pictured above, probably the nation's most famous football coach, was killed in an airplane crash in Kansas March 31, 1931. It has been the custom of Notre Dame alumni to observe the anniversary by going to mass on the Sunday nearest the date of his death. A memorial breakfast will be held at South Bend Sunday after which alumni and friends will place a wreath on Rockne's grave in Highland Cemetery.

Every boy who plays in Cumberland's Little League during the 1951 season will be covered by insurance, according to Edmund F. Hoey, director of the City Recreation Department.

The group insurance covering the players and managing personnel of the 12 clubs has been taken out by the Cumberland Dapper Dan Club, sponsor of the Little League.

The policy applies to members playing in a scheduled game, playing in a scheduled practice and going directly to and from a regularly scheduled game or regularly scheduled practice.

Cumberland's Dapper Dan Little League is also now an associate member of Little League Baseball, Inc., and having organized a baseball league according to the established rules of procedures of Little League Baseball is entitled to participate in tournament play during 1951.

The certificate of sanction has been issued by Carl E. Stotz, Williamsport, Pa., commissioner of Little League Baseball, Inc.

Cumberland's Little League did not vie in tournament play in 1950 —its first year of existence.

There's a story going the rounds that when Jack Mayo, young outfielder, injured his shoulder shortly after signing with the Phillies, he offered to give back his bonus money because he feared his baseball career was ended.

Bob Carpenter, millionaire sponsor of the Philadelphia team, is reported to have given Mayo an extra $500 and told him to work that much harder.

Mayo, whose parents reside in Cumberland, was "farmed" to the Baltimore Orioles on Tuesday but may get back in the "big show" later in the season.

Bolt Catches Marty Furgol In Golf Meet

Both Turn In 139s In Azalea Tourney

WILMINGTON, N. C., March 30 (AP)Marty Furgol was still front man, but he had company in Tommy Bolt as the field reached the halfway mark of the $10,000 Azalea Open Golf Tournament today.

Furgol, the 33-year-old Long Beach, Calif., professional, matched par 72 today to go along with a first day 67 for a five-under-par 139 for 36 holes. Bolt, who calls Houston, Texas, home, but plays out of Durham, N. C., had 70 to go along with an initial 69 for his 139.

Six big threats were tied for third place, only two strokes from the top pair, at 141. The group included Jim Ferrier, San Francisco, the year's top money winner; John Palmer, Badin, N. C.; Jim Turnesa, Briarcliff, N. Y.; Lloyd Mangrum, Chicago; Art Doering, Richmond, Va., and Doug Ford, Yonkers, N. Y., whose 33-33—66 was the best round of the tournament.

In ninth place, tied at 142, were Henry Ransom, St. Andrews, Ill., and Roberto De Vicenzo, Buenos Aires. Ransom, winner of the inaugural tournament here two years ago, had a snappy 67 today.

Ten more players were in at 143, only four shots out of the lead, making 20 men in all under par going into tomorrow's third round.

Furgol, the year's fifth money winner, started out with a two-under 34, but lost both strokes coming home. He had a bad drive and missed an iron shot for a six on the third, but his hot putter put him two under with birdie putts of 10 feet on No. 5, 20 feet on No. 7 and 15 feet on No. 8.

Bolt, whose best tournament effort was a second in the Savannah Open last November, played well although not feeling up to par. He's been bothered by a cold for over a week.

Wretched weather bothered the early starters. A driving rain greeted the early birds and shortly before noon, the rain was replaced by wind, which at times reached almost 50-mile-an-hour velocity.

Sixty-four players qualified for tomorrow's third round with 152 the limit. Four amateurs at 153 and 154 were also brought in to make a 10-man amateur field for the last two days and 68 players in all.

The 6,652-yard Cape Fear Country Club course, dried out nicely by the wind, promised to be in near perfect shape for the last two days.

EX-ILLINOIS STAR IS BIDDING FOR PHILLIE PITCHING SPOT

By WALTER L. JOHNS
Central Press Sports Editor

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The youth re-building program instituted by Bob Carpenter when he took over the Futile Phillies of seven years ago has brought the club several outstanding young pitchers who banded together last season to give the Phils their first pennant in 35 years.

One of those young stars, Curt Simmons, was enjoying his best season in 1950 and helping the Phils win a pennant when he was called into the Army.

The Philly youth movement has brought several new faces to the home club this spring. One of them may click. And that one may be John Albert (Jack) Brittin, a 25-year-old righthander who first attracted notice when he was pitching for the University of Illinois.

John Brittin

Brittin, who has been in pro ball just four years, has been impressive in camp work. Sawyer likes his stuff and Brittin may stick around long enough to help.

His record last year doesn't tell the true story of his promise. He appeared in 39 games with Toronto and won but seven while losing 11.

But Toronto was no leader; the club finished in seventh place.

The year before Jack had a fine record. He won 21 games while losing but seven for Wilmington in the Inter-State league. He was selected the league's most valuable player.

His first pro experience was with Danville and Terre Haute in 1947 when he won four and lost five. In 1948 his record was 6-7 but that also doesn't tell the story.

In the 1948 season he lost six games as a relief pitcher and after being put in as a starter in the last month of the campaign he won six straight.

BRITTIN started playing ball in high school at Athens, Ill., and after one year he transferred to Morrisonville, Ill., High where he played second base and pitched. In three years his record was 50 victories and only eight defeats. Included in his high school record were four no-hitters.

He entered the University of Illinois and played baseball his first two seasons. He had a 7-2 record in his final season and led his team to the N. C. A. A. finals at New Haven, Conn., where he was beaten by New York U. by a 2 to 1 score.

A teammate at Illinois was Marv Rotblatt, who later went up with the White Sox.

Before joining the Phillies Brittin was in the Chicago Cubs' organization. He played a few games for Davenport where he had a 1-1 record. He was released and signed by the Phils.

Brittin is single and lives with his parents in Springfield, Ill. He has four brothers, all of whom play ball but none of whom has made the pro game yet.

He has played some basketball and hopes to get a part-time job next winter coaching that game.

Cuban Welter Wins Decision In Return Go

Favorite Is Victor By 3 To 0 Verdict, Persley Wins 25th

NEW YORK, March 30 (INS)—Kid Gavilan, Cuban welterweight challenger, avenged an earlier licking by taking a unanimous ten-round decision tonight at Madison Square Garden from Gene Hairston, 21-year-old Harlan deaf-mute.

The cagey Gavilan, who dropped a split decision to Hairston previously, used a right cross and a jarring left hook to advantage in one of his sharpest recent appearances.

Referee Ray Miller scored the fight the closest, giving Gavilan five rounds, Hairston four and calling one even. On the cards of Judges Charley Shortell and Arthur Aidala it was Gavilan 6-3-1 and 7-3, respectively

Gavilan, a 2-to-1 favorite, weighed 150 to 155¾ for Hairston.

The Cuban hawk will meet Johnny Bratton for the welterweight title on May 18 at the Garden. Bratton was at ringside tonight.

The dark Cuban, fighting out of a crouch, scored heavily with left hooks and bolo rights to head and body while Hairston depended mainly on his solid body punching.

Left hooks and left jabs enabled Gavilan to race off with the first three rounds. Hairston came back to take the fourth. For the next three rounds, through the fifth, sixth, and seventh, Gavilan gave him a boxing lesson.

Hairston was the aggressor in those sessions but Gavilan met his advances with stiff counter shots, lashing left hooks and right hand bolos, and a combination of both.

Gavilan tired under Gene's thumping body blows in the eighth and ninth rounds and Hairston won both handily. Several times he belted Gavilan with hard rights to the head that drew cheers from the crowd. But the Keed was never hurt.

The Cuban clinched matters in the tenth, socking eager Gene with lefts and rights to the head and body.

There were no knockdowns and neither of the boys was staggered at any time. Gavilan bled from a cut inside his right ear from the fourth round on.

Arthur Persley, crack New Orleans negro lightweight, ran his unbeaten streak to 25 fights tonight by outclassing Roy Andrews of Lowell, Mass., in the eight round semi-final. Each weighed 136.

Ray Wilding, 200, England, stopped Clyde Williams, 226, Hinton, W. Va., in 2:11 of the third round of a six.

Copped Amateur Four Times, U. S. Open Once

EAST HARTFORD, Conn., March 30—(AP)—Jerome D. Travers, 64, a famed name in golf with a record surpassed only by the brilliant Bobby Jones, died today at his home here.

Travers, who won the national amateur championship four times between 1907 and 1913, and the United States Open—his greatest thrill—in 1915, passed away in comparative obscurity.

An inspector at an aircraft plant here, Travers was just another name to most of his fellow-workers, and neighbors.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Dyna Travers, who was his childhood sweetheart; a daughter, Gerry-Anne, both of them too ill to be told about his death, and two sons, David B., of New Haven, and Jerome A., of Meriden.

After a brief career as a broker on New York's Wall Street, Travers came to Connecticut in the late 1930's. He turned golf professional in the twilight of his career, but was not successful.

His biggest regret, he told an interviewer several years ago, was his failure to turn pro after winning the National Open when he had opportunities to cash in on scores of offers.

"I probably would have been better off, at least financially," he said.

One of the most famous putters in the history of golf, his biggest thrill came from winning the National Open in 1915 with a 72-hole score of 297 over Baltusrol's tricky layout at Springfield, N. J. That was the year before Jones came up from Atlanta, Ga., to become a quarter-finalist in the U. S. Amateur.

Slim and wiry with a keen sense of humor, Travers liked to talk about the early days of golf and although he never played in recent years, he followed the progress of the new crop of golfers avidly.

His favorites were Jones, Walter Hagan, Sam Snead, Byron Nelson, and Ben Hogan.

Flaming Bush Wins At Laurel

LAUREL, Md., March 30 (AP) — William Offerman's Flaming Bush was the best when a sloppy track turned up for the Walter Reed Purse, top purse at Laurel this afternoon. A superior off-track performer, the son of Blue Larkspur sped a rapid six furlongs in 1.12 2-5 to win to test by a length and one-half.

Blue Stone Farm's Val's Kid chased the winner across the line with three lengths separating J. H. Schlesinger's Pontalba. The last-named saved the show award by a neck over Mrs. Ellsworth H. Augustus, seven league.

Binky B., the choice with the crowd of 8,562, was never able to get close in the speed test and finished a badly-beaten fifth. The payoff were Flaming Bush, $8.80, $5.40, $4.00; Val's Kid, $7.20, $4.80 and Pontalba, $4.40.

Cubs Ask Waivers On Vander Meer

PHOENIX, Ariz., March 30—(INS)—The Chicago Cubs asked waivers today on pitcher Johnny Vander Meer preparatory to making a free agent of the 36-year-old lefthander who hurled two consecutive no-hit games in 1938.

Vander Meer, who pitched his no-hitters for Cincinnati against the Boston Braves and Brooklyn Dodgers, won three games and lost four for the Cubs last year. In 11 seasons with the Reds, he won 116 games and lost 116.

Bratton-Gavilan Sign For Title Bout On May 18

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP) — The welterweight picture cleared up considerably today when NBA champion Johnny Bratton of Chicago and Cuba's Kid Gavilan signed to meet in a 15-round title bout in Madison Square Garden, May 18.

New York agreed to recognize the winner as world champion. Both Bratton and Gavilan posted $2,000 forfeit checks, guaranteeing that the victor will defend his crown against New York's Billy Graham in the Garden in July.

Bratton and Gavilan each will get 27½ per cent for the May 18th scrap. The winner will get 32½ per cent when he faces Graham. Billy will receive 25 per cent.

Both the NBA and New York Commission declared the 147-pound title vacant when Robinson, then the division's champion, won the middleweight crown by stopping Jake LaMotta in Chicago, Feb. 14. Both organizations rule that a champion can hold only one title at a time.

Bratton gained NBA recognition as champion when he defeated Charlie Fusari in a Chicago 15-rounder, March 14.

Moore Hangs Up Freestyle Mark

AUSTIN, Tex., March 30 (INS) — Wayne Moore of Yale today rang up the second new intercollegiate record of the 1951 NCAA swimming championships in Austin.

Moore clocked in 2:07.3 in preliminaries of the 220-yard freestyle race, breaking the old mark of 2:08.5 set by William Smith of Ohio State in 1949.

John Marshall of Yale set a new record last night in the 1,500 meter race, the tournament's opening event.

The Australian champion, now a sophomore at Yale, won it with a time of 18:18.8, bettering the old mark of 18:38.3 set last year by Jack Taylor of Ohio State.

Marshall also shaved 0.2 seconds off the world mark established by Japan's Hironoshin Furuhashi in 1949. The record will not be recognized because of the University of Texas' "short course" pool.

The Maryland House of Delegates this week passed House Bill 477.

This measure specifies that a hunter, who accidentally kills a fawn, spike buck or doe during the open season for deer may keep the carcass if he voluntarily takes it to a checking station and pays a $150 fine.

This piece of legislation has a number of bad angles, among which are:

1. It would be just what the present day "market hunter" ordered. The only law that stops the "market hunter" now is that it is illegal to have a doe or fawn in possession at any time but during the lawful open season he could store up many illegal kills.

The only ones he would pay for is when he was caught by a game warden. Furthermore, no person actually would be violating the game laws by having an illegal deer. They all would prefer to pay the $150 and keep the deer if they were apprehended. Every person would have the privilege of making it look lawful.

2. With the few game wardens we have it would not be possible for them to control such a law. Wardens often admit that only about 10 per cent of the violators are apprehended. Think how easy this law would make things for the violator!

3. The law as a whole would be strictly class legislation in that it would favor the man that had plenty of money and the average hunter would have to stand by and see deer herds gradually sold off to men that had the ready cash but no sporting principles.

If the bill passes both houses and goes to the governor you can wager that sportsmen's groups will request a hearing to protest such a measure.

Bill Keener, winner of the 175-pound title in the South Atlantic AAA tourney at Baltimore this week, is originally from Pittsburgh and learned to box at Brownsville, Pa., with Marion Klingensmith, well known here as a fighter, his teacher.

Bill whipped Charley Hamlin in the SAA finals.

Ralph McConnell who whipped Jimmie Catanese here in 1949, walked off with the SAA welter title on Wednesday by decisioning Harry Barnabee in the finals.

Other SAA champions crowned this week were:

112-Coleman Adams. 126—Walter Brown. 135—Lawrence Barrett. 160—Ted Eaton. Heavyweight—Warren Barrett. The 118 class was withdrawn because of only one entry.

"Buddy" McQuaid, the boxing referee, finished 11th in the race for City Councilman in Baltimore's third district this week. He received 4,194 votes. The four men nominated polled from 12,856 to 7,985 votes.

3—Richard Jerome Kokoszka is the real name of a major league ball player. Who is he?

HOOHEE?

I WAS born at Harrison, N. J., in 1895 and first thought I'd be a boxer. I changed my mind, however, and I turned to umpiring, first in the Eastern league. I then went to the International loop and finally the majors in 1933.

ANSWERS

(Hoohee: Bill Summers)

1—It was 93.

2—Earl Averill, former Cleveland outfielder.

INTERNATIONAL AMITY: Penn State's national championship collegiate soccer team, coached by the veteran Bill Jeffrey, is now in the Middle East to play Iran's best on a rapid-fire tour envisioned by the State Department at Washington as an international goodwill mission. The Iranian Athletic Association extended the invitation through the State Department, and Pennsylvania State College officials readily agreed. The team, which boasts all-American Harry Little, of Dover, Pa., has been licked only once in its last 24 starts. Jeffrey, Manager Neil See and 15 players comprise the party.

KEEPING UP WITH

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 30—(INS) I've never seen Darryl Zanuck in a happier frame of mind than he was when I talked with him the day after he came back from Europe. He's delighted over "Decision At Dawn" which I hear is another "All Quiet On The Western Front." There was a lot of trouble making it, but Darryl says it was worth it all.

He also cut "No Highway" which Jimmy Stewart made in London. Virginia tells me that she and Darryl had a perfectly wonderful time in spite of the work Darryl put in.

Darryl said that the French Union, which is eighty per cent non-Communist and twenty per cent Communist, called to protest about "The Desert Fox," the story of Gen. Rommel. But it's the Communists who are against this film and not the other group. He expects a lot of controversy and, of course, much of it comes right from the Communists who are attempting to have the picture boycotted.

I'd say Republic got themselves a good boy to star in "The Hoodlum Empire," INS Writer Bob Considine's gangster drama—one of the biggies at the valley studio. Brian Donlevy plays the hard-hitting, Kefauver-type prosecutor who goes after the crooks and racketeers.

While Papa Yates had Brian in his office, he did a good job of it and signed him for two more pictures to be made within the year. Donlevy is practically making Republic his home lot having just finished "Fighting U. S. Coast Guard" there.

Now that he is permanent, the order has gone out to give him the same stellar build up that lifted John Wayne to position of box office star No. 1 last year.

Richard Basehart is back from London after taking a 30-day suspension at 20th to go visiting his lady love, Valentina Cortesa, in England. Nope, he still won't talk about the status of their romance—but you'd have to be blind not to realize the Basehart is very much in love with the Italian charmer.

Now that he's home—and ready to go to work—20th has taken him off the naughty boy list and he's on salary again.

Frankly, I don't think his bosses were ever really seriously peeved with him, but when an actor takes off without leave there's not much a studio can do except discipline him in the department where it really hurts, the pocketbook.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

If Dr. Lee Morrill doesn't want me to mention his name, he shouldn't go to Ciro's with Elizabeth Taylor. A date as conspicuous as that can hardly be ignored.

Ilona Massey and her ex, Jay Kurtz, were together at the Bantam Cock a few nights ago. I didn't even know Ilona was in town.

Before Mari Aldon took the plane for Florida to meet Gary Cooper for "Distant Drums" she had dinner with Tay Garnett at the Windsor. Up to now he's her favorite boy friend.

At the Encore Dan Dailey and Brod Crawford were at a table for two, stagging it and having themselves a lot of laughs. Good to see Dan looking so well again.

Mirror Of Your Mind

By LAWRENCE GOULD, Consulting Psychologist

Should a woman propose marriage?

Answer: Only to a man who is too timid to take the initiative. As things are today, marriage is likely to be the woman's idea rather than the man's, but the less aware he is of this, the better. For not only does anyone do anything more spontaneously if he thinks he "thought of it first," but a normal man is jealous of his traditional right to "do the asking." Again, a man who can tell himself that he was "roped into" marriage has a plausible excuse for feeling that he need make no effort to adjust himself to it.

Can "permissiveness" be overdone?

Answer: Not when there is a valid reason for it — such as that it will give his wife pleasure. There is nothing masculine in the adult sense about wanting to wear old, untidy clothing — it is simply an extension of a small boy's dislike of having to wash before coming to the table. And this in turn implies an infantile insistence that people shall like you "just as you are." Being afraid other men will think you are "putting on the dog" is hardly less childish since it reflects a fear of being "different" which an adult should have outgrown.

Does a real man "hate to dress up"?

Answer: Yes, warns Dr. Lucie Jessner in Child Development. With a child who is emotionally disturbed or suffering from psychosomatic illness, you must first "accept him as he is and not as he should be," and let him feel that he can say or do anything he pleases without punishment or disapproval. But if carried beyond certain limits, this may lead to dangerous actions like setting the house on fire, and bring the child to the point where he becomes "afraid of his own overwhelming impulses." Let a child express his feelings in words, but know the limits of action.

endangering homes as well as destroying valuable timber and wild life.

Plenty Of Tools

Campbell has plenty of fire-fighting tools at his disposal. His equipment includes about 15 fire rakes, three Indian fire pumps, a carbide light which is attached to his cap, a flashlight and binoculars. The railroader usually carries a can of beans and a box of crackers so he will have something to eat when the seriousness of fire prevents him from returning home.

Each of the fire wardens is appointed by the governor, for a two-year term, upon the recommendation of the Department of State Forests and Parks. They are eligible for innumerable reappointments. Campbell began his service as a warden in 1945.

In his own neighborhood each warden is authorized to recruit a crew of no more than 12 registered crewmen. At the scene the warden acts as crew boss. He reports back to radio dispatcher if more help is needed and or when the fire is extinguished. He also reports in writing to the district forester on the cause of the fire.

40 Cents An Hour

How much do the wardens and registered crewmen receive for this important work? The wardens are paid $1.60 for the first four hours or less and 40 cents per hour thereafter. The crewmen get $1.20 for the first four hours or less and 30 cents per hour thereafter. But even these small fees are paid only for the time the men actually are fighting fires.

Under these circumstances it is certain that these men are not motivated by the money they receive. District Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin, himself a full-time employe of the Department of State Forests and Parks, contends that most of these men are sportsmen who realize the dangers of fires.

Campbell, for example, is quite a hunter. In a quiet way he goes about among his friens who also are sportsmen, distributing pamphlets urging them to be careful about starting and leaving fires. Then, too, he talks to many individuals in his Rawilngs neighborhood along McMullen Highway.

There are others who play important roles in this campaign against forest fires. Three towersmen are on duty in Allegany county whenever weather conditions indicate fires are probable. The towers are located on Town Hill, Warrior Mountain an Dan's Rock. Three full-time patrolmen also check the woodlands for fires.

During March, April and May all these employes of the Department of State Forests and Parks are on the alert for fires. Experience shows that during the spring and fall months the danger of forest fires is greater than in other seasons. That's why there is a state law which prohibits burning of brush and debris except between 4 p. m. and midnight in March, April and May and from September 15 to December 15.

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Historic Occurrence

THERE is a thrice-told tale about Leo Tolstoy ("War and Peace") waking up in the middle of the night crying: "A yacht race! I left out a yacht race." It's virtually the only thing he didn't include in that massive novel. After listening to Lux Theater's revival of "Seventh Heaven" the other night, it occurred to me that the playwright, Austin Strong, might have had a bad night after the play opened, too.

John Crosby

"A deathbed scene!" he might have cried. "I left out a deathbed scene."

He didn't leave out anything else. "Seventh Heaven" contains all the other ingredients of popular drama —sex, sadism, religion, (faith lost, faith regained), poverty (followed by an inheritance), war, peace, renunciation, and love, love, love. The hero goes blind. The heroine gets flogged. War separates them. Another man — she thinks the hero dead almost gets her. The darn thing abounds in picturesque scenery—the slums and sewers of Paris —and in picturesque characters—the old taxi-driver Boul', the gentle priest, the sewer rat, Diane's absinthe-maddened sister, the lamplighter, gendarmes. Oh brother! There's only that deathbed scene missing and it bothers me that Strong didn't work it in somewhere.

Actually, "Seventh Heaven," is a magnificently skillful piece of popular theater and it has shown extraordinary durability. Originally produced on Broadway by John Golden in the fall of 1922, the play ran 704 performances and was once the fifth longest running play of them all. (Of the five longest runs on Broadway in 1925, Golden had produced three—"Lightnin'," "The First year and "Seventh Heaven.") In 1937, it was made into a preposterously successful motion picture with Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell, conceivably the most successful romantic team. For her performance, Miss Gaynor won an Oscar the first year they gave those things out (1928).

"Seventh Heaven" was the play broadcast on the premiere production (1934) of Lux Theater, now radio's most popular program (if you believe the ratings), and it has since been done on that show three other times, the last one last Monday. On the Monday revival, Lux dug out of retirement the two screen originals, Charles Farrell, now the proprietor of the Racquet Club in Palm Springs; and Miss Gaynor, who is married to Adrian, the dress designer. The old magic—either the magic of the Gaynor-Farrell combination or that of "Seventh Heaven" —is still working. Lux was deluged with 5,000 requests for studio tickets to an auditorium that holds only 1,200.

* * *

I bring all this up because this "Seventh Heaven" production was primarily an historic occurrence, something akin to the resurrection of William Jennings Bryan declaiming the Cross of Gold speech with the original cast. Naturally, you view an event of that kind a little differently than you view Tallulah Bankhead, who's been on view almost uninterruptedly (4 p.m. till midnight except on Sundays and holidays) since the 12th century.

It was a fine show, "Seventh Heaven," and, listening to it, it occurred to me that the literary wheel has just about completed full circle. "Tale of Poor Lovers," for example, a pretty fine contemporary Italian novel, is a lot closer to "Seventh Heaven" than it is to "Grapes of Wrath" in spirit and in structure with one happy exception —"Seventh Heaven's" black-and-white, two-dimensional characters.

* * *

As for the acting, Mr. Farrell, the Jimmy Stewart of his time, still sounded arrogant, youthful, tender and tough in proper proportion for the part. His timing was off badly, but then it's hard to compare it with his performance in the picture, which was a silent film. With Miss Gaynor I find no criticism whatsoever. She took me right back to 1927 when we were just rehearsing the 1950s. President Roosevelt once described her as "cute as a button" and I don't think I can improve on that.

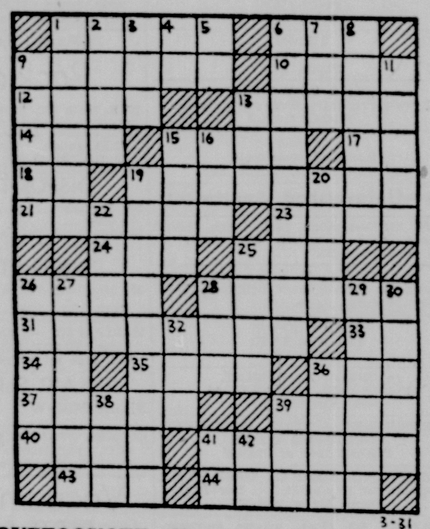
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

ORL YLDO GIZO UK YLIHOC TD ORIO BRTNR I GTNOHZL NISSUO LQ-GZLDD—YINUS.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: THE LITTLE MERIT MAN CAN PLEAD IN DOING WELL, DEPENDETH STILL UPON HIS POWER OF DOING ILL—CHURCHILL.

Rails And Steels Lead Way As Stock Market Advances

NEW YORK, March 30 (AP)—The stock market made a sizable advance today based on demand for railroad and steel issues.

Rails started things off early in the day, and before they faltered steels took over leadership.

The best gains were made in the rails—more than $2 a share—but the list in general was able to progress beyond $1 a share.

Plus signs had a little more than a two-to-one edge over the minus marks, which went to around $1 a share.

There was a certain amount of raggedness in the major groups but only one failed to head higher. That was the air line group. Issues there were unchanged to a little lower for the most part.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks climbed 60 cents to $92.80 with the industrial component up 80 cents, the rails 70 cents, and utilities 10 cents.

Volume came to only 1,150,000 shares, the smallest of the week. Yesterday was only a little better at 1,300,000 shares.

Graham-Paige, an investing company, topped the most active list with 20,400 issues traded. It closed up ⅜ at 3½. Others in order included New York Central unchanged at 19⅝, Radio Corp. up ⅛ at 19⅜, Jones & Laughlin up ⅜ at 25⅞, and Canadian Pacific up ¼ at 24¾.

Fund Drive For Industries Over The Top

Goal Is Exceeded By About $2,000

The industrial promotion fund drive which began Wednesday morning has "gone over the top" with contributions still coming in.

William C. Walsh, president of the Cumberland and Allegany County Industrial Promotion Company yesterday said the $5,000 had been received Thursday night and that as of yesterday the fund swelled to over $7,000 including promised contributions.

He added that the balance of the local returns should be in by this afternoon and that some out-of-town donors are yet to be heard from.

Walsh commented on one particular contribution received from E. H. Carskadon, RFD No. 3, Keyser, W. Va., by saying that residents outside the county area are also interested to see new industry introduced into Cumberland and Allegany County.

Among the contributors of Cumberland who have sent in their checks are John I. Vandergrift Company, Community Baking Company, Ort Bakery Company, Liberty Milk Company, Masons Dairy, Wilson Hardware Company, Thompson Buick Company, Lazarus, Maurices, Ford's Drugstore, Louis Stein Inc., George's Funeral Home, Kights Funeral Home, Spoerls Garage, Jenkins and Schriver, Tri-State Paper Company, D. R. Kitzmiller, Ankeney Company.

Second National Bank, Barnes and Barnard, Cumberland Cloak and Suit Company, George's Creek Coal Company, Inc.; Catherman's Business School, Coyle Furniture Store.

S. T. Little Jewelry Company, Martin's, Chaney's Transportation Company, Maryland Motor Express Company, Cumberland and Westernport Transit Company, and Schwarzenbach's Men's Store.

Cumberland Man Awarded $10,000 In Damage Suit

Decision Reached Yesterday Afternoon

An Oakland jury awarded $10,000 yesterday to Patrick E. Kean, 222 Beall Street, in a $50,000 damage suit against the Hamilton Hotel, Hagerstown.

The verdict was reached about 3 p. m. and given to Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris, who presided at the trial.

Kean sued the Hamilton Hotel as a result of injuries he claims were sustained in a fall August 14, 1949. The plaintiff charged that because of improper lighting at the lobby entrance, he fell down steps and hit the pavement, breaking his hip.

Testimony in the damage suit ended about 4 p. m. Thursday after 11 witnesses were heard by the jury in Garrett County Circuit Court, Oakland.

Judge Harris presented instructions to the jury when court convened at 9:15 a. m. yesterday. Rival attorneys gave their closing arguments and the jury retired to deliberate its decision.

The case originally was docketed in Washington County, and on Kean's request, feeling that he would not get a fair trial there, the action was transferred to Allegany County.

Then the defendant prayed that the trial be removed from here for the same reason. The case was then transferred to Oakland.

Woman Struck By Train Here

A Berkley Springs, W. Va., woman was injured late yesterday evening when struck by Baltimore and Ohio passenger train No. 9 at the Baltimore Street crossing, here.

Mrs. Maggie Growden, 56, was admitted to Allegany Hospital at 6 p. m. suffering from contusions of the head and lacerations of the left elbow and right hand. Hospital attaches said last night that her condition was good.

A railroad spokesman said the woman presumably was walking across Baltimore Street from the subway toward the watchman's box and was near enough to Track 1 for the cylinder of the engine to strike her.

It is believed she was in Cumberland to visit a son, Virgil J. Bowers, Patterson's Creek, who is employed at the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge Shops.

Local SS Office To Be Open Today

The Social Security Office in Cumberland will be open today James S. Getty, manager, announced yesterday.

The reason is to take last day applications of persons who became eligible for Old-Age and Survivors Insurance benefits last September under the 1950 amendments. As back payments can be made for only six months, these people will lose one month's benefit check if application is delayed after this Saturday.

College Fund Drive Leader Is Named

Rev. J. B. Jones Heads Campaign

Rev. John Bailey Jones, 46 West Main Street, Frostburg, has accepted the chairmanship of the Allegany County regional organization for the Western Maryland College Mid-Century Advance Program.

In January, Western Maryland College launched a major fund raising drive to secure needed funds for a building and increased endowment program. This announcement was first made public by Dr. Lowell S. Ensor, president, at the Homecoming weekend last November. The goal has been set at $1,500,000. To date over $730,000 has been contributed.

Other members of Rev. Jones' Allegany County organization include Paul Footen, Barton; Mrs. John Hohing and Margaret E. Hamilton, Lonaconing; Kathleen McDermitt, Mt. Savage; Phyllis Alexander and Francis Lee Cook, Frostburg; Mrs. Jessie Dom and Woodrow Malone, Cumberland; A. T. Brust, Jr., public relations chairman; and Rev. Norman O. Scribner, church-cooperation chairman, also this city.

The county has been divided into individual town and sectional organizations where there are concentrations of alumni and friends of the college. Also, the Methodist churches of the county have added their support in this effort to undergird this small, independent, church-related college.

Monday at 6:15 p.m., the total organization will meet for dinner at Hafer's Restaurant.

Former Native Gets Promotion

A former Cumberland resident has been named general foreman of Stemware production of Libbey Glass, Division of Owens-Illinois Glass Company, Toledo, Ohio.

Announcement of the promotion of James J. "Doc" Brehany was made by R. C. Schwyn, plant manager. Brehany took over his new duties January 1 of this year.

As general foreman, Brehany assumed full authority and responsibility for the entire Stemware operation, Schwyn said.

The new supervisor has a record of 17 years service with Libbey Glass, most of which was spent in Factory A of the plant. He started as a footsetter in 1928 and worked there until 1933 when he was sent to Libbey's plant in Rochester, Pa.

Upon his return to Toledo in 1935, Brehany worked in various capacities until 1940 when he was appointed assistant to John Schellhaus, manager of the factory. In January 1948 he took over Schellhaus' position and held that job until December 1948 when the factory was discontinued.

Then placed in charge of special projects in Factory D of the Toledo plant, Brehany supervised production of new NS machines in Stemware. The Cumberland native has relatives here and formerly worked in the Maryland Glass factory.

Amcelle Worker Cited For 25 Years Service

Shannon V. Winebrenner, Fairgo, was presented a pocket watch yesterday by Harrison C. Givens Jr., plant manager of the Amcelle Corporation. The award was given for 25 years service with the company.

W. J. Elvin, plant engineer, presented Winebrenner with a 25 year service certificate and emblem.

On March 31, 1926 Winebrenner started working for the Amcelle Corporation in the traffic department. In December 1926 he transferred to textile engineering where he is a textile machine fixer.

Before being employed at the Amcelle, Winebrenner worked as a coal miner in the George's Creek region for about 10 years.

State Buys Church For School Site

Frostburg Methodist Property Transferred

The state of Maryland has bought the property and church building of the John Wesley Methodist Church, Maple Street, Frostburg, for the expansion and development of Frostburg State Teachers College.

A deed recorded here yesterday revealed the transaction has been completed between the state and the trustees of the church for a large consideration.

Purchase 35 Acres

Property has now been acquired for the school on east side of Maple Street between College Avenue and Park Avenue and negotiations are in progress to obtain additional property on Park Avenue. Miss Lillian C. Compton, president of the college, said last night. Altogether the state has now purchased about 35 or 40 additional acres of land for the program.

Harry Thuman, Baltimore, is architect for the new school buildings and is working on the general location of the additional buildings as well as plans for the library and administration building. Miss Compton added. S. Russell Minter, local architect, will supervise the actual construction when the final plans are approved, she said.

Already two buildings on College Avenue have been torn down for the expansion of the school while a third site on Maple Street was converted into a music building.

Construction To Begin

A new science building which has been approved will be placed on the present athletic field, Miss Compton noted, and construction of the building will begin very shortly. George F. Hazelwood Company has been awarded the contract for the building.

Property on Park Avenue will be graded and converted into a new athletic field to replace the present one, the president remarked, while grading and sloping of Maple Street property has already been completed.

Although the state bought the church building from the Methodist trustees, it granted them the privilege of moving the church to a new location if a site can be acquired. However, Miss Compton added, if a site cannot be located the state will take over the building for reconversion.

Adventist Evangelism Drive Starts

In cooperation with other Seventh-Day Adventist congregations the Cumberland church has made a special financial contribution to expand coverage of the denomination's network television program, "Faith For Today."

The program is the first to be sponsored by any denomination on a regular network basis, and has already received an appropriation of more than $300,000 for 1951. Beginning in New York December 3, the Eastern section of the nation-wide telecast now covers 10 principal cities of the East, South, and Mid-West. The Western section, originating in Los Angeles January 14, covers the Pacific Coast.

Officers of the church television commission report that response to the television program is up to 15 times greater than response received from a similar radio hour. The denomination also maintains an international radio program, "The Voice of Prophecy" heard on 700 stations over the world.

Success of the television program has been attributed to an unusual approach used in presenting religious subjects. Real-life characters and situations are dramatized and form a basis for the television minister's remarks.

Price Regulation Guide Available

Harold W. Smith, manager of the Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday that an OPS Guide to Ceiling Price Regulation 7 is available. This bulletin has been prepared as a primer, especially for small merchants without technical personnel to help them understand Ceiling Price Regulation 7 which was issued February 27, 1951.

Cumberland merchants and wholesalers can also secure copies of Ceiling Price Regulation No. 11 dated 13 March and No. 13, dated 21 March from the Chamber of Commerce office in the Liberty Trust Building.

Fire Warden Prepared

Oliver S. Campbell is shown sitting on the steps at his home, prepared for any call that might send him out to fight a forest fire in the area near his residence at Rawlings. Campbell is one of 75 fire wardens in Allegany County who respond whenever a forest or brush fire starts in their sections. Shown with Campbell are two Indian pumps, three fire rakes, a carbide light in his cap, a flashlight, a pair of binoculars, and a can of beans and a box of crackers in case he gets hungry while battling a blaze.

Rawlings Man Is Typical Of 75 County Fire Wardens

By ALBERT D. DARBY
News Staff Writer

The days are approaching when District Forester William H. Johnson sits warily on the edge of his chair in his office on the third floor of the Allegany County Court House fearful that he may receive a call at any minute of a serious woods or grass fire in Western Maryland.

Although Johnson is concerned about the possibility of fires in the Western Maryland woodlands, he is happy that he has a large number of public-spirited men who will pitch in at a moment's notice to stop the spread of any blaze that threatens to damage valuable timberland.

Back Bone Of Force

These men are the fire wardens who are the backbone of the fire fighting force of the Department of State Forests and Parks. In Johnson's district, which embraces four Western Maryland counties, there were, at last count, 213 fire wardens.

Allegany county has 75, Garrett county counts 65, Washington county has 32 and Frederick county has call on 41.

Typical of these men is solemn-faced Oliver Campbell, 43-year old Rawlings resident. In his normal daily routine he is a trackman for Western Maryland Railway.

But on days when fire endangers woods near his home at the foot of Dan's Mountain, Campbell leaves his job with the railroad and hurries home. He gets in touch with available members of his 12-man fighting crew, and in the three trucks they have at their disposal they load their necessary tools and head for the blaze which may be

Police Probe More Thefts

City police detectives are continuing an investigation into another wave of breaking and entering which occurred early yesterday morning.

The stolen loot ranged from money to whisky, according to police.

Establishments entered were Armour and Company, 326 Commerce Street; Cumberland Lumber Company, Williams Street, and Cumberland Motor Express Company, Springdale Street.

Police said the intruders entered the lumber company offices and took $28 in bills; $10 in loose change and $18 in wrapped packs of coins.

Two offices were rifled. The robbery was discovered at 8 a. m. yesterday by Mrs. Richard A. Reid, an employe. An empty half-pint whisky bottle was found at the rear of the building.

At the Armour meat packing company office, entry was gained by taping the glass on the rear door next to the railroad and breaking it in.

The dials on two safes were broken off, but they were not opened. While the offices were ransacked, company officials reported that nothing was missing.

Seven to ten cases of whisky were stolen from the warehouse of the Cumberland Motor Express Company. The robbers broke in the front door to gain entrance about 4 a. m. yesterday.

Torrential Rain Sends Potomac On Rampage

Flood Danger Not Likely In City

The Potomac River rose almost four feet yesterday following the hard downpour of rain during the morning and early afternoon. At 8 a. m. yesterday it was stationary at 5.8 feet according to the Constitution Park weather station but last night at 8:30 o'clock it measured 9.3 feet and was rising slowly at the rate of about one-third of a foot an hour. However, there was no danger of a flood in the city.

The Western Maryland Railway last night reported that no rain was falling in Bayard or Kitzmiller and that no reports of high water were sent in. The Baltimore and Ohio Railroad said that the river at Oakland and Mt. Lake Park was normal last night. Patterson's Creek had risen but not to a dangerous stage.

Dropping At Luke

At the Luke plant of the West Virginia Pulp and Paper Company the Potomac rose from 29 inches at 2 o'clock to 43.5 inches at 9 o'clock. The river stage at 6:15 p. m. had been 40.5 inches.

State Police from Romney reported that the river there had risen somewhat but no danger seemed close at hand.

The total rainfall in Cumberland yesterday according to the Constitution Park weather station was 1.24 inches.

George M. Hitchcock, water superintendent, reported 1.2 inches of rain fell at Lake Gordon yesterday between 7 a. m. and 3 p. m. He said the filtration process had to be stepped up as the heavy downpour stirred up the water in the dams.

City Streets Covered

Locally, the torrential downpour yesterday caused a miniature flood in North End where flood work is in progress. Water rushing down Furnace Street covered the sidewalk at the intersection of Valley Street.

According to the Associated Press, a flash flood in Hancock poured 12 inches of water over the western part of the town and caused a power shutoff for an hour and a half. Several furnaces in flooded cellars were put out of commission.

The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company had to rely on a hand crank to keep its power up at Hancock when a short circuit shut off electricity from the Potomac Edison power company.

WEATHER

Local citizens sloshed about the town in near-torrential rains yesterday as the weatherman made good his threat of showers. The river and creeks in the area were up some, but late last night they were not near the danger stage. Many local streets were virtual rivers several times during the day. Constitution Park weather station reports a high of 60 for the day with 45 as low. It was 45 last night at 9 o'clock. Rainfall totaled 1.24 inches during the 24 hour period with more than an inch falling between 9 and 12 o'clock yesterday morning. The prediction for today is "partly cloudy and cooler."

County Liquor Bill May Die In Committee

Whitworth To Ask Measure Be Held Up

The Alcoholic Beverages Committee of the House of Delegates will be asked to hold up a Senate-approved bill to revise Allegany County's liquor law, Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., said last night.

Whitworth said he objected vigorously to the manner in which the bill has been handled by Senator Robert B. Kimble who introduced it on February 16 and has held it up until now.

Fifty telegrams were received yesterday by each of the 23 members of the Alcoholic Beverages Committee from business establishments, clubs and private individuals from all sections of Allegany County, Whitworth pointed out.

He said every telegram objected to the bill because of having no knowledge of its contents and because there is no chance for hearings.

Whitworth emphasized that he raises the same objections concerning such an important piece of legislation which he said Senator Kimble is "trying to bulldog through" at the last minute.

He said he understands the bill has been amended until it is "all different" and that he has been unable to find out just what the amendments are, the measure now being at the printer's.

"We'll never know until tomorrow (Saturday) when the session is to end," Whitworth said last night, "what is in the bill.

"It's just silly to try to put a bill like this through now," he declared.

Baptists Give Reports For Special Series

A fellowship and report meeting of the Simultaneous Evangelistic Crusade of the Western Baptist District association was held at LaVale yesterday afternoon, Rev. Sam W. Scantlan, director, reported.

Rev. Scantlan, superintendent of Rural and City Missions of the Baptist General Convention of Oklahoma, said nine of the eleven churches of the Western District are cooperating in the crusade. He added that reports from the churches show since the beginning of the crusade Easter Sunday morning, the following visible results have been registered: thirty three public professions of faith, six rededications of lives to Christ, one addition by letter, and six professions of faith in the homes of persons visited.

Revival services have been held at First Baptist Church and will continue through the evening worship services Sunday, April 8. Rev. Scantlan stated that two more fellowship and luncheon report meetings will be held at LaVale Monday and Friday at 12:30 p. m.

Rev. Scantlan revealed that 15,000 out of the 18,000 Southern Baptist churches east of the Mississippi River are cooperating in this evangelistic crusade, while approximately six thousand pastors west are aiding the work.

Three Cars Damaged In West Side Crash

A considerable amount of property damage was reported in an early-morning three-car accident at Greene and Smallwood streets yesterday.

Two of the drivers were charged with reckless driving and will be given hearings next week in Trial Magistrates Court.

Officers identified the operators as Ivan Lloyd Mills, of 215 Hay Street, and Mrs. Winifred Broome Flook, of 844 Buckingham Road.

The accident occurred at 2:45 a.m. Police said the 1949 sedan driven by Mills traveling east on Greene Street collided with the 1950 convertible operated by Mrs. Flook, heading west.

From the marks of the Mills car tires, at the point of impact, Officers John Daum and Harold Crawford said Mills was on Mrs. Flook's side of the street.

The front end of the Flook and Mills cars were badly damaged and had to be towed from the scene, the officers said. Miss Harmison's coupe, which was pushed a car-length forward, had its rear axle broken.

Hans Schuler, 77 Dies In Baltimore

Hans Schuler, 77, well known American sculptor and director of the Maryland Institute of Art, Baltimore, died last night in a Baltimore Hospital.

He was the father-in-law of Dr. Howard L. Briggs, 35 Frost Avenue, Frostburg, history professor at Frostburg State Teachers College.

No Action Slated On Industrial Board Measure

See Says Hearings Would Be Necessary

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, reported last night that action on House Bill 740, setting up an Allegany County Industrial Board, will not be acted upon by the General Assembly which is now winding up its activities in Annapolis.

He said the comprehensive plan introduced by the Delegation at the request of the Steering Committee for Economic Development, is in the hands of the House Judiciary Committee, which is not expected to take action at the present session.

Mississippi Plan

Delegate See said the bill, which provides a modification, on a local level, of the Mississippi Balance Agriculture with Industry Plan, is entirely too wide in scope to be passed without extensive hearings.

There just was not time, since the bill was introduced only last week, to provide for such hearings, See added.

The Steering Committee stressed that the bill was sought as "standby legislation" to be used only if private sources were unable to meet the industrial needs of the county.

In brief, the bill would create an Allegany County Industrial Board, representing business, labor, industry and agriculture which would cooperate with other agencies in securing coordinated, economic development within the county.

Would Build Plants

The board would have the power to determine whether the public good requires that any municipality shall have the right to acquire land and erect enterprises, operate them, and to dispose of or rent or lease such lands and enterprises.

The Board is required to limit bonded indebtedness of any municipality for such industrial enterprises at not more than 20 per cent of assessed valuation of the municipality.

If any part of the county should desire to sponsor a plan to finance a new industry, the bill calls for an election at which all qualified voters affected could vote.

Approval of such a plan or bond issue to finance it, would require a two-third majority with a simple majority of qualified voters casting ballots.

Two Injured In Car Crash

Two persons were injured, one hospitalized yesterday as the result of a two-car head-on collision about 3:25 p. m. on Oldtown Road five miles south of Cumberland.

Mrs. Dorothy Stafford, wife of Charles Stafford, 30, one of the drivers from RFD No. 2, Flintstone, was admitted to Memorial Hospital at 4:15 p.m. X-rays showed evidence of no broken bones but hospital attaches said last night she was under observation.

Charles Stafford received a few lacerations. Also taken to the hospital for treatment were Mrs. Emma Twigg, RFD 2, Flintstone, who was riding in the Stafford car, and Stafford's son, Elmer Lewis Brooks, 44, Spring Gap, driver of the other car received minor abrasions.

State Police yesterday said the accident happened on a long sweeping curve about five and two-tenths miles south of Cumberland on the Oldtown Road.

Stafford was driving with the three other occupants toward Cumberland while Brooks was travelling south from Cumberland. The left front fender of each car hit in the collision.

State Police are continuing an investigation.

Police Doubt Accused Killer Is In Area

Police last night expessed a doubt that the abandoned car found one mile north of the Pennsylvania State line between here and Bedford, Thursday, had been used by the accused triple slayer, Charles Edward Rovinsky, 25, Ashley, Pa.

Pennsylvania State Police had alerted the Maryland State Police and City Police Thursday night to be on the lookout, but investigation in and around Cumberland resulted in no findings in the case.

State Police at Bedford are not pressing the search for Rovinsky to any great extent in this area.

City Parking Lot Approved By Senate

Other County Bills Pass Legislature

Activity on local measures was stepped up by the Legislature yesterday as final action was taken on several bills including Senate approval to authorize the Mayor and Council of Cumberland to establish a municipal parking lot.

The measure, HB 527 was introduced by the Allegany County Delegation at the request of the Mayor and Council. It would allow the city to acquire real estate, by purchase, lease or condemnation, to establish a parking lot or garage in the city and to issue revenue bonds to finance the program. The bill now goes to the governor.

Pass DST Bill

The Senate also passed House Bill 547, sponsored by Delegate Horace P. Whitworth, Jr., calling for an Allegany County referendum at the 1952 election on Daylight Savings Time.

A similar bill passed providing for a DST referendum in Cumberland, introduced by Senator Kimble, led to the introduction of the bill calling for a county-wide vote on fast time.

Senate approval was voted yesterday on SB473, by Kimble, to increase the salary of the magistrate for Juvenile Court in Allegany County from $2,100 to $2,400.

Delegate Charles M. See, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation, said last night that the House has turned down a bill which would have kept the Board of Education from requiring Barton students to attend school in another community.

He said the House concurred, by a voice vote, on an unfavorable report on the bill issued by its Education committee.

"Not Sympathetic"

See said the Delegation has not yet had a chance to consider Senate Bill 490, introduced by Senator Kimble last week, to give special taxing powers to the City of Cumberland.

He said the Delegation may take action on the bill today if it gets to the Delegation.

See said there has of course been no formal vote on the bill but that the delegates are "not sympathetic" to the measure which would allow the city, among other things, to tax telephone, gas and electric service in this city.

The measure would give the city power to tax shuffleboards, music boxes, vending, claw and pinball machines and certain gas, electric and telephone service.

Pass Barber Bill

The House last night also passed SB 430, by Senator Kimble, creating a Board of Barber Examiners in Allegany County.

The bill was introduced last week after the Senate turned down a similar bill introduced by Delegate Fred B. Driscoll setting up a State Board of Barber Examiners.

Pass Industry Tax Bill

House Bill 772, introduced by the Allegany County Delegation, also passed the House last night.

It exempts from all Allegany County and municipal taxation any new manufacturing companies and the land and equipment for a period of 10 years from the date of location in Allegany County.

The House also passed HB773, by the Garrett Delegation, relating to the expenses of the county commissioners and road board.

Ruling Is Given On Use Of City Auditoriums

Auditoriums at City Hall may be used only by duly constituted authorities, Mrs. Lucile Roeder, commissioner of streets and public property, announced yesterday.

The announcement was made following the denial of the use of the auditorium, on grounds of lack of specific organization and purpose, to Walter R. Walters, this city, and his subsequent appeals to the Mayor and Council.

Use of the auditoriums is governed by an order of July 1, 1937, which follows:

"Public auditoriums in City Hall shall be closed to all associations and organizations desiring to hold meetings therein, effective July 2, 1937, except as the Commissioner of Streets and Public Property may arrange to permit the use of said auditoriums to duly constituted authorities holding meetings therein with the purpose of transacting business authorized by law."

Officials said the order is interpreted to mean that the rooms may be used only by organizations composed of, affiliated with or sponsored by a city, county, state or federal organization. The order would prohibit granting permission for meetings by fraternal, labor or religious organizations.

Will Probated

Bill Of Complaint

A bill of complaint was filed yesterday in Allegany County Circuit Court by Paul L. Powers vs. Reva M. Powers.
